Will they reduce the price?

Will the law of supply and demand regulate the cost to the consumer, as it is doing in the case of the farmer's wheat?

Certainly not! That would interfere with the pleasing pastime of profiteering. Men who have so much money they do not know what to do with it would not be able to accumulate quite so many additional millions to be left behind for their descendants to quarrel over and squan der.

incres have voted to close down for a month in order to keep the price up.

Of course, the fact that thosuands of employees will be out of work as a result of the shutdown doesn': count at all. They are only human beings, and do not share in the profiteering.

The employees may have enough money saved up to feed the babies for a month, and they thef may not. But the fate of babies is not supposed to interfere with the honorable society of profiteers.

And the public, that trades its shirt for gas to use in its cars, and its trucks, and its farm tractors, and other forms of commercial activity, Oh, "the public bedamned." Let "em pay—milk 'em dry!

A MATTER OF CONSCIENCE

We are supposed to be a Christian nation (as witness the fuss which was made over removing the motto. "In God We Trust," from our coinst and yet most of our lawmekers and politicians are not conspicuous for church attendance.

It seems to be undecided as yet whether we are in earnest about who shall run the country—whether our Christianity is a mere pretense or not.

Many notable men assert that th's is a time when the church and Christianity is on trial—because the troubles of the world can only be settled on the lines laid down by Jesus Christ, who we all profess to follow

We boast of our progress in art reience, medicine, etc., but what bave we to boast of?

have we to boast of?

When all of us who go to church really practice in our everyday living what we pretend to believe, there will be no need to worry about hell, Prohibition or Bolshevism.

Let every fellow begin tomorrow on himself and cut out the things lie knows in his heart are wrong. In other words, let us live the truth and net lie, "deceiving our own selves."

Wrangling over such things as

Wrangling over such things as

Wrangling over such things "economic determinism" and "tools of industry" will never b peace to the tired toiler.

Let each recoginze the fact that every individual is constructed along different lines; controlled by the in-fluences that spring from heredity and environment.

Not one in a thousand is intelli-tent cough to weigh the effect of uch influence on the average hu uan being. Not one in a thousand an do the thing he really wants to can do the thing he really wants to do.

In spite of the question, "Am I my brother's keep?" many of s are controlled by our regard for thy welfare of others, and we often sink our own preferences for the sake of "peace in the family."

What family is there that has not some "black sheep," who costs more tears and worry than all the other nethers?

This is a life made up of satrifices and yet we find people who expect (from the tone of the letter they write) to find it a continual holiday. Let us enjoy what we can of the beauties of nature, the uowers and balmy breezes and thank God that we are not living in the Middle Ages or Turkey or Russia at this present time.

Forms of government have little or nothing to do with the real lite of the individual. Legislation doesn't make people honest nor less profane in their anguage. The great power that controls men comes from within, not from without.

Some people in Boone county are indignant if their summer vacation trips are mentioned in the newspa-per, and they feel slighted if they are overlooked.

The women who wear the toothplek shoes probably look with scorn on the barbarous women of china who bind their feet.

Automobile tourists are usually going too fast to see the country, with anyway they can tell their friends they've been there.

If motorists are unwilling to drive in the road, they should reuect that it is softer in the ditch than up against a tree or rock.

The country can probably get along without increasing the production of manleure sets, but a lot more sewing outfits are needed.

While the farmers are restricting production on account of lack of help, the garages are full of mentikering with pleasure cars.

The postoffice department has reduced the postal rate to Russia 50 per cent and doubled the weight limit on parcel post packages.

Early this spring a representative plot was selected in each of the orchards and the trees in each plot treated with nitrate of soda at the rate of about five poinds to the tree about the time the buds begun to show a pink color. MR. HARDING AND COUNTRY LIFE.

President Harding may not have done all that the rural interests hoped would be done to make the difficulties that the country people have had to deal with. But it will be admitted by all that he realized the difficulties that the agricultural population had to face, and that he made a sincere effort to relieve them.

During the life of the Congress that adjourned last March, a great body of new laws designed to improve agricultural conditions passed. These laws may not touch some of the most serious evils from which farmers suffer. Rut at least they demonstrate that the national government realizes that the welfare of the farmers is essential to national prosperity, and that means must be found to put agriculture on a better basis.

THE NATION'S LOSS

The death of President Harding has shocked the American people as something more tan a great calamity. Mr. Harding was more to them than a public official occupying a position of infinite responsionity and supreme power.

Mr. Harding approached the almost superhuman difficulties of his high office with a feeling of earnest human sympathy. He impressed all who met him as one who ardently desired to help the people out of their personal and economic difficulties. He felt deep cancern for the troubles that had been brought upon the country as an after greet of the war, and every home could feel that he was, intensely interested in the problems that each home had to meet, and everyone could look to him as a personal friend.

How far he succeeded in solving the various difficulties which and people had to meet will be a problem which the politicians and people will long discuss. But it will be admitted even by bitter party opponents that Warren Harding the succeed of the American people, and no doubt his life was shortened by his burdens and devotion to his duty. He ges on to a higher life with the blessings and prayers of the whole people and will inherit the reward given to a faithful servant of the Most High.

It is fortunate that the man who is to succeed to his high office is not mare positician of second-rate abil-

Most High.

It is fortunate that the man who is to succeed to his high office is no mere politician of second-rate ability, but a statesman who has shown capacity for firm and decisive action, who highly distinguished himself as governor of a great state, and whose plain and democratic manners show him to be a friend of the masses of the people.

HOW ADVERTISING WORKS

It is interesting to epeculate on what the condition of retail trade would be in a city or town where the condition is unusual indicates that a multitude of business men have proved by experience that advertising is a wonderful help in building up trade and good will.

In a non-advertising town, there could be expected to be a large number of rather small stores. Stores would tend to equalize. Those that showed exceptional enterprise, or that had specially good facilities for offering bargains, would not be able to succeed in attracting the publication of the store of the condition of the concerns were offering the lowest convenient locations, until least Trade would ento go in old fully the concerns were offering the lowest prices and best values. If in such exceptions are to which concerns were offering and skiffful merchants should start advertising on an adequate scale, the result would not be to attract a big amount of trade to those stores. They would grow rapidly. Part of that new business would come from other local stores.

Quite possibly after such a campaign had been pursued for some years, there might not be so many stores as there were before. Some of them woulds be apt to find they could not compete with the advertised stores.

The advertised stores would get such a large volume of trade that such a such a large volume of trade that such a such a large volume of trade that such a could not compete with the advertised stores.

The advertised stores would get such a large volume of trade that they could be used to business on a smaller margin of profit than was necessary before, yet make a satisfactory return. The cost of distribution would be reduced to the commer, because the averhead and sales charge to be made against each articles to be made against each articles would be less on the bigger volume would be less on the bigger volume of trade. Thus advertising works in the interest of the community as well as serving the needs of the dealer.

CRIPPLED GERMANY LEADS

When we compare the wonderfuladvance made by demoralized Germany in rebuilding and restoring its mercantile fleet and the management of the American Shipping Board, that seems to revel in an annual loss of $50,000,000 or more to the taxy payers, one is led to conclude that there is something deplorably deficient in our business system, to say the least.

there is something deplorably deficient in our business system, to say the least.

July 1, 1914, Germany's mercan tile tonnage amounted to 5,459,294 tons. At the close of the war it was 671,000 tons. On the 1st of Julylast it was 2,350,000 tons. By the end of this year it will be over 2,700,000 tons—all doing business. Of course there are reasons and reasons, why Germany can and does make such progress with ith merchant marine, and these reasons are all summed up in the one word "efficiency."
That being true, what word shall be used to express the management of the U. S. Shipping Board, which, with the markets of the world wide open to her, seems to revel in an annual loss of $50,000,000 of the taxpayers money—and very little to show in the way of a merchant marine?

Stockholders and directors in any rine?

Stockholders and directors in any individual industrial enterprise would take instant measures to conceal such a loss.—but government business is too often looked upon as no-body's business. It is things of this kind that largely contribute to create social unrest and political upheavals.

TOO MUCH GOVERNMENT

As man to man, citizen to citizen, entirely detached from any political bias, it will be conceded that one of the most important questions confronting the American taxpayer is the need of a complete revision of the expenses of government administration.

itable Method of Disposing or Best Fowl.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There are three general ways of selling positive—direct to the consumer, direct to the retailer, or to commission merchants for selling on the open market. Selling direct to the consumer is believed by poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture to be the most profitable method of disposing of high-grade goods, for the charges of the middlemen are eliminated. Very often the producer is situated so that he can build up a retail trade among the families of a neighboring town or city, delivering his goods once or twice a week, or oftener if desired. In this way be can obtain a substantial increase over prices paid in the open market. Especially is this true in the case of strictly fresh eggs. Often it is pressible to find customers in a town or city within reasonable hauling distance, inking eggs and poultry to them at regular intervals. Hotels, restaurants and clubs are good customers which can be supplied in this way by contract.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

Consider "Pop" Bowler!

"Pop" is. or wat., an engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad. He traveled one million seven hundred and forty-six thousand finles during fifty years of kontinuous service, without accident, loss of life, or injury to anyone in his charge. For the past ten years he has been engineer of tha Congressional Limited between New York and Washington. Now "Pop" is retired. He looks baack on a Hfettime of modest and unassubing achievement, and tells his friends ahappily of the his boys and girls, college men, and successful wives, of his well-to-de eatace, and his willingness to bow to the rule of the road which puts an age limit on engineers.

COUNTRY TOWN CURIOSITY

COUNTRY TOWN CURIOSITY
Some people claim that country life is too petty, that people are all the time impertinently inquiring into one taking about their neighbors' affairs. The country people are some times laughed at for running to the window every time an automobile goes by and showing intrusive curiosity into their neighbors' affairs.
That condition may have existed to a considerable extent years ago, but it is not much of a factor today.
Gossip and petty curlosity grow out of conditions where people have noth ing to 4do but talk about their neighbors. There is just as much going on in a good modern country town today there is in any city, and no more reason - why - country - people should gossip about their neighbors than city people do.

Formerly many people went to church because there was no other place to go on Sunday, but a minister has to have a live message to attract folks in these times of many distructions. Those clergymen seem to win the mest interest who take hold actively in the dally life of their communities.

Many ministers, realising how difficult it is for busy country people to find time for public work, are giving eplendid service in such ways as the suppose of the sunday of the su

A UNITAD FRONT.

In excellent temper ore the statements issued by Mr. Alben W. Barkley and Mr. Elwood Hamilton, manager of Mr. Barkley's campaign.

Mr. Barkley has just finished a hord campaign, in which be was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Governor by Mr. Cantrill. The campaign was bitterly fought. The campaign was bitterly fought, especialty on Mr. Barkley's side; Mr. Cantrill avoided personolities thrujout the race. Mr. Barkley now concedes Mr. Cantrill's nomination, and in a letter of congratulation to Mr. Cantrill writes:

"I tendes my support in behalf of your election. So far as I am personally concerned, the election has left no sting, and I shall in the future, as in the past, strive for the success of the great principles advocated by the party which has signally honored us both."

Says Mr. Hamilton:

"I have no sore spots. I am a Democrat, and take this occasion to congratulate Mr. Cantrill and the manoger of his campaign on their success in obtaining a majority of the vot..., and tender him my support."

This is fine sportsmanship, and it shows a spirit in the Democratic party that will lead to assured success in November. Mr. Barkley and Mr. Hamilton both understand that the issue this fall is to be continued. Both realize that the hope of Kentucky is. In the Democratic party and they at once stand ready to assist the Democratic nominee. Nothing in Mr. Barkley's campaign became him so well as the way he and his manager have brought it to a close.—Louisville Post.

The Courier-Journal and Times, edited, published and, owned largely by Robert Bingham, who, a few years ago was a candidate for Judge for the Court of Appeals on the Republican ticket,, and who has as Vice President and business manager, Emmanuel Levi, permitted or directed their editorial writers to take such a stand in writing and publishing unjust, unreasonable and unfair editorials they most find that they must bolt the Democratic mominee. These newspapers did all that was in their power to name the man who would head the Republican ticket and failed as they did in attempting to name the candidate who should heal the Democratic ticket. The Democratic their candidate who should heal the Democratic ticket. The Democratic who reside in Louisville repudlated the stand taken by those pars, when they gave a majority of twelve thousand against the candidate whas so enthuisantelily supported by them. How could it botherwise when such a radical and unfair campaign was conducted by and through their editorial augusts.

FAT HOG SHOW

For Junior Agricultural Clubs Will Be Held Bouborn Stockyards, Sept. 7th.

"It is interesting to note," said Mr. Bell, in commenting upon the progress of the Jusior Agricultural Club Work in Kentucky," that two of the first entries in our Hog Show were received from Laurel County in the edge of the mountain district and Calloway County in Western Kentucky, Many of these same boys and girls are feeding Baby Beeves for our Cattle Show on November 22nd and 23rd and plans are now under way for the Lamb Show which is to be held in early June next year. In this club work does three important things.

First it gives the boys and girls in new and valuable experience which they can apply in their homes and on their farms.

Second, it is demonstrating better practices by these young folks to their home communities, thus changing and improving the agricultural home making methods.

Third, it develops leadership, business ability, and lays the basis for rural prosperity.

Less than three per cent of all the live stock in the United States is purebred, and when you consider the low yields per acre of practically all the important crops as compared with other countries, the great need is seen of properly preparing these young agriculturists for their life work.

The importance which is being attached to this Junior Agricultural Club work by te foremost men of the country was foreibly illustrated recently by Mr. O. h. Braddfuct, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation urges that country today is the Boys' and Girls Club Work. It is keeping our young folks interested in farming; it is developing agricultural leadersip. For the reasons given, the American Farm Bureau Federation urges that every local farm bureau aid in furthering this vital movement."

BEGINNERS ON THE JOB

BELSINVERS ON THE JOB
Many young people just out of schools and colleges have recently begun work in their first regular job, and are thinking anxiously about what kind of an impression they are making on their boss.

One of the points on which their value and possibilities will be principolly estimated, is as to their ability to receive and faithfully and intelligently carry out the directions that are given them.

to receive and faithfully and intelligently carry out the directions that are given them.

Many people fail to remember the various points of the instructions given them, and they have to be told the same things all over again. This is extremely annoying to an employer or of foreman, and conveys the impression that a person is stupid and lacks Interest in his or her work.

If a person finds difficulty in remembering the directions received, it is a mighty good idea to set down in writing all the instructions he is getting, just as quickly as possible. If he is in doubt as to their meaning or is told too many things at one time, he can reasonably ask to have the various details explained to him more fully. But after he clearly sees what is expected of him, it is a very grave fabil if ever he has to be told those same things. He ought to have those various points down in writing where he can look them over in leisure moments, and be sure that he is keeping them in mind.

This is only one point of. many that a beginner needs to keep in hind. Close attention to work, the use of his brains on the problems he lias to meet, the effort to improve his methods, are some of the points by which he will be judged. It does not take great and exceptional ability to rise in a business, but it does take faithful and persistent work and the use of some intelligence.

THE STATE PRESS.

THE STATE PRESS.

The State press of Kentucky, including those papers that supported. Mr. Barkley for the nomination, has taken a splendid attitude following the primary. Their editors have foreibly expressed their point of view, that the issue now before the voters of Kentucky is the choice between the Republican ticket, at whose, head Mr. Maurice Galvin placed Mr. Dawsin, and the Democratic ticket, at whose, head the Democratic ticket, at whose, head the Democratic voters of the State have blaced Mr. Cantrill. In such a situation they call on the Democratic party to choose ranks and stand behind Mr. Cantrill.

The .Courier-Journal and Tines have boked and editorially are uposed to both Mr. Cantrill and My. Dawson.

A WEEK'S NEWS.

The die has been cast, the voters in the state of Kentucky will select; as their Governor to succeed Gov. Morrow, either the Democatic candidate, Mr. Cantrill or the Republican candidate Mr. Dawson. Mr. Cantrill received his nomination in a priwary election while Mr. Dawson received his nomination from a convention. Mr. Cantrill has represented the Seventh District in Congress for the past twenty-two years, he has had opposition three out of the eleven times that he has gone before the people of his home, and he has never met defeat. This certainly is a recommendation to the state at large as to his qualifications. The RECORDER knows of no reason why every Democrat in this State should not rally to the support of the ticket headed by Mr. Cantrill and elect that ticket at the November election by an old time Democrate majority. Mr. Barkley, his Campaign Manager Ellwood Hamilton, and all other Democrats who were actively supporting the candidacy of Mr. Barkley, have tendered to the Cantrill ticket their support, and it looks like there will be a united Democracy for the campaign that will open in a few weeks.

William Hewitt, 55, died at the home of his sister, at Cleves, Ohio. last Saturday after a lingering illness. The remains were buried at Petersburg Tuesday.

He was born on Woolper creek, about two miles from Burlington, where he resided until about two-months ago, when on account of failing health he left the farm to make his home with his sister. His deeth was caused from tuberculesis, and an affection of the heart. He was a son of the late D. M. Hewett who preceded him to the grave several years ago. He is survived by three brothers and twe sisters, all of Ohio.

A Cross was burned last Thursday night about 9 o'clock in the field of Geo. Blyth just west of town, and another was Burned Friday night at 19:30 on the lot at the rear of the Methodist church. A large American flag was at half mast just a little distance from the flaming cross. As the cross was burned on the day of the funeral of President Harding; and the flag was at half mast it may have been done as a mark of respect.

The Burlington Theater was filled to its seating capacity, last Friday night, to witness the visit of "Dr. Jack," who like all doctors, was slow in starting, but when once in action kept the large number of patients in waiting, in a pleasing humor, and all went home feeling much better.

As the Editor Sees It.

Some of us have queer ways of Recking at things at times. We focus some eye on an object and close the other lest it discoversomething eise. Instead of cultivating our intellects by allowing them to branch out is many ways we hobble them into Accoming single track minds. And a single track mind sees but some thing at a time.

As we stroll along the street we use refuse here and there. It is unsightly, and our mind dwells upon that point.

A few minutes later we may be bossing a discarded newspaper income. The street was the

We wander around town and size the various homes and their sur-induce a native American to labor. Both are right in one way and wrong in another. We do have too many foreigners in this country, of a certain stripe. They are the agitators who are always "against the government," wherever they may be. We should be getting rid of such gentry instead of multiplying the number in our midst. Without the negro to work its cotton and other plantations the south would be seriously hondicapped, if not in desperate straits. The same applies to the great stell mills and kindred industries. They are dependent upon a class of labor that is extremely difficult to obtoin among our own people. Hence, in their extremity they turn to the lumigrant, whose past life fits him for such work.

A WORD TO SUBSCRIBERS

If the time for which you have paid has expired, and the parer still goes to you, you are receiving it through the courtesy of the publisher, because all subscriptions are payable in advance.

No business man allows his bills to run. He collects promptly from you in order that he may pay his own bills as promptly. You expect nothing clse.

This office pays its bills regularly each month, and it expects the same consideration from those who are indebted to the office.

If you are in arrears on your subscription a prompt payment of same will only be in keeping with the ourtesy the publisher has extended to you by continuing the paper to you without advance payment when your time expired.

We are quite convinced that your courtesy is equal to ours.

Let's hear from you.

POLITICAL RETICENCE

The accession of a man like Calvin Coolidge to the presidency is a specially interesting from the fact that his temperament is so unlike that of the ordinary politician. The usual type of politician expects to be a good mixer, a fluent talker in both private and public, an indefatigable hand-shaker and follier. He depends on a habit of extreme affabillity to win his way and make enthusiastic friends who will boost his fortunes.

The new president has accessed.

The new president has not wonhis way by these means. A quiet reticent man, many stories are told of his silent ways. The success of such a man is a reminder to all politicians that they have depended too much on social arts and personal graces to advance their fortunes.
The good mixer and beak slapper may win in same of the minor succeases. But for the big Jobs thypaople are looking for solid result and achievement.

To President Coolidge has come the time of trial and the time of opportunity. He is a man of silence and of decision, not easily swayed or misled. His intensive Americanism, a legacy from his New England an cestors, no doubt will continue to be the basis of his political creed. In the school where Americanism is taught and exemplified, he has been both student and teacher. He has, in the past, found some opportunities to make proctical demonstration of what by some may be regardied, as mere theories. Now there is accorded to him the chance to adapt, his simple creed to the Nation as a while, and in sime measure, at least, to the entire world.

No real American will regard the presents.

while, and in sime measure, at least, to the entire world.

No real American will regard the prospect apprehensively. In recent years, perhaps more generally than heretofore, there has been a conscious recommitment by the peopl; of the United States to the fundamentals of democracy, for that love of country, bonesty in the administration of government, free and equal justice, and an adherence to the simple standards of brotherly love. President Coolidge, as the exponent of such a creed has an opportunity to place himself as the eader of the great mass of the peuple but it will be a rugged road to travel.

The House and Senate will un

The House and Senate will un doubtedly be reorganizel and an effort made to placate the socalle, radicals.

doubtedly be reorganized and an effort made to placate the socalled radicals.

The advancement of Calvin Cool bidge to the Presidency takes away one of the few advantages left to the regular Republicans in the case of a close yote. As Vice-President he could cast the deciding vote when there was a tie. The president precumpire can vote only as a Senator. With the Republican party whittled so fine and so many of the nominal Republicans radical rather than required to the causes deep concern.

A president pro tempore is to be chosen at the coming session of Congress. It has been said that Senator Cummins will not be a candidate for reelection, as he desires to devote his time largely to railway legislation, being the chairmen of the control of the choice.

George W. Norris, Senator from Nebraska, will probably be the can' didate of the radical group if they insist upon putting up one of their arm number.

The new president will undoubtedly make some changes in the Cabinet, and other changes in the diplimatic corps. His attitude on all these matters will be watched with interest.

CAVING OUR PRESIDENTS

The untimely death of President. Harding, occurring at a comparatively youthful age, when he should have normally had many years of usefulness acad of him, leads many people to ask whether the American people do not work their presidents too hard. The duties of this great office have become so tremendous and exacting, that any man who undertakes them and tries to perform them with a good degree of success, risks his heolth and life in the effort.

Too much is expected of the president. A orde of office seekers descend on Washington, and many of them expect to see the president personally. If he consents to this demand, a severe burden is placed on his time and attention. The president, should not, save in a few very exceptional cases, be expected to meet appliconts for office. That duty ought to be taken care of by cabinate secretaries and their subordinates.

The president's time should be left. The untimely death of Presiden

The president's time should be left entirely free to handle big ques-tions of policy. He must save him-self physically, or he will collapse under the tremndous strain that he carries.

ECONOMIST SAYS REDUCE

WHEAT ACREAGE.

Prof. W. J. King, economist of the National Bureau of Economic Research, says both suggestions that wheat be raised for the purpose of feeding hogs and the project of a Government marketing agency. He declares that a reduction of wheat acreage is the only means of preventing a recurrence of the present samp in the price of wheot. He points out that the winter wheat acreage was increased during the war from 33,000,000 acres to 48,000,000 and has remained at that foreign demand has not been sustained. The people of Europe receive such amall incomes that they will use ye and barley instead of wheat flou. He contends that the present increase in the total value of agricultural products of the U. S. selmated at about one billion of dollars for this year more than counterbalances the decline in the price of wheat. This ontention may be cogret but the big part of the loss falls on the farmer whose main crop is wheat, instead of cotton, tobacco, corn or dairy products. Prof. King's argument is in direct opposition:

A lawn marked "keep off of the under the tremudous strain that he carries.

Many people feel that the death of Mr. Harding, and the physical break down of his predecessor, are an argument showing that presidents light not to attempt long and arduous journeys about the country. But as long as the National capital is located in the eastern end of the mation, there will always be a legitlmate demand that the president get in from time to time and meet the people in other sections. But or president on such trips should be given plenty of chance for rest, and not be expected to carry out a program of speech making, diming, and receptions that would break down an athlete of 20 years of age. The lively of our presidents are pagious to the nation and they should not be over-driven.

OUR LARGEST CAVE

In 1881 a man passing over a hole in the ground had his hat shot off by a sudden gust of air. History fails to record how far he ran or how fast. When he stopped and recovered his senses he told others of this unexpected and exciting experience. A party accompanied him back to the spot and Wind Cave, one of the wonders of our West, a few miles north of the town of Hot. Springs in the southwestern corner of South Dakota, was discovered.

Although not all of this cave has been as yet explored, that portion which has been trod by man comprises about one hundred miles of passageways and several hundred rooms or chambers. No onliet has been discovered; therefore, the end is as much a mystery as ever. Aside from an occasional trickle down some wall, there is an unusual absence of water in this cave. The temperature is a pleasant medium as caves go, neither too warm nor too, cold. In peculia, feature which adentistation for the water factors are the control of the six at the enirance is outward and then again it is inward.

While it is anticipated that ultimately many different routes through this underground cavern will be available to visitors, three only, have been opened up to this time. The longest of these routes includes some seventy-two rooms and about as house are required to make the circuit.

The names bequeated to the various chambers or rooms are characteristic of the predominanting feature of each. There's the Post Office, where most visitors endeavor to find wall space for their cards; the Bride's inderground cavern, being upwards of an acre in extent.

These rooms are arranged in parallel tlers and are also stacked in layers. This inter arrangement on so vast a scale as here in evidence is decidedly unusual I are was architecture. The long and short of it, is that this cave takes on a resemblance to an eight-story underground office building.

KENTUCKY HAS HIGH RANK IN BETTER FARMING WORK

Lexington, Ky.—Kentucky ranks well up among all states of the country in the number of persons working through the extension organization of its state agricultural college for the betterment of farming and farm homes, according to figues announced here. The states force of workers in agricultural and home economics extension work as carried on throughout the United States for the past eight years under the Smith-Lever Act totals 179. In addition to county home demonstration and county agricultural agents and larve than a score of subject matter specialists with headquarters here at the College of Agriculture this force icludes administrative officials, district country some demonstration and county agricultural and home ecinomics agents and a good sized circial force.

Some idea of what is being done in this country to make farming a more profitable business and living conditions in rural districts more pleasant is to be gained from the fact that a total of approximately 5.000 persons all working with the same object in view—better farms and farm homes—are now engaged in agricultural and home extension activities in the United States. The South leads all other sections of the country in the number of workers with Texas leading all states with 265.

The county agricultural agent force for the country, including assistants, district leaders aid special workers among negroes, totals 2442, while 1004 workers are employed as county demonstration agents. The total number of specialists with headquarters at the various state agricultural colleges 780. This brings the total number of specialists with headquarters at the various state agricultural colleges 780. This brings the total number of specialists with headquarters at the various state agriculture, asid in speaking of the work. "It has a definite and growing the time that system of education and there is sovery reason to believe than it will increase in the number of its workers and in its influence as the years to by."

A plan for a railway across the famous Sahara Desert is being considered and seems likely to come up for practical discussion before the French Chamber of Deputies. Not that the project is new, but it has taken on new vigor, as opinion has recently crystalized in favor of a line running from Cran through the middle of the desert to the Niger Bend, that is, approximately due north and south, from a point on the African coast opposite the southwest corner of Spain.

This railroad involves a feat in engineering as romantic as the conquest of Western America by the Union Pacific or the digging of the Panama Canal. It means flinging across this desolate expanse of the carth's surface a road 1,750 miles long, provided with water by deep artesian wells or carried in conduits over the most barren parts of the route.

When this is accomplished, as the French are certain it will be, France will gain direct and easy access to a reaim in West Central Africa with riches hardly touched now and which she believes was destined by natura to become a second Garden of Eden. Following so closely upon the successful motor trips across the desert this project seems to give as surrance of a subjugation, in the not distant future, of this region which has for so long resisted man's most attenuous efforts. A plan for a railway across amous Sahara Desert is being

NOTICE OF ANNUAL ELECTION OF BURLEY TOBACCO GROWERS' CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

Members of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association are hereby notified that the Board of Directors, in regular monthly session August 1st, 1923, adopted the report of the elections committee, which directed the holding of mass meetings in each county of the Burley district on Saturday, September 1. 1923, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for delegates to district conventions, and to select election officers to hold the elections of such delegates. delegates.

The election of delegates will be held at the Court House The election of delegates will be held at the Court House in each county, unless otherwise provided for, on Saturday, September 15, 1923, between the hours of 8 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., and all voting shall be by ballot, the grower signing his name to said ballot. Growers may vote at this election either in person or by sending their ballots by mail to the election officers. The ballots will be furnished the election officers at least-five days before the election and any grower may obtain a ballot from such election officers.

The number of persons nominated at the mass meetings September 1 shall be twice the number of delegates to which each county shall be entitled under the call. Blank spaces will be provided on the ballot, should the growers desire to vote for any person or persons other than those nominated.

Delegates elected September 15 shall meet at 2 o'clock p. m., Monday, September 17, 1923, at the Court House of the county which delivered the largest amount of tobacco of the county which delivered the largest amount of tobacco of the 1922 crop to the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, in the event the district shall be composed of more than one county, and shall there proceed, after electing a chairman and secretary, to select a director to serve for the ensuing year. The nomination for delegates September 1, as well as the election of delegates Sept. 15, must be certified immediately to the Secretary of the Association at 620 South Broadway, Lexington, Ky., and the election of directors on September 17 shall be certified by the chairman and secretary of the district conventions to the president of the Association of the district conventions to the president of the Associatio 620 South Broadway, Lexington, Ky.

4. No ballots can be cast or counted except the official ballots bearing the fac-simile signature of the secretary of the association.

All growers are urged to take part in the mass meetings September 1 and to vote at the election of delegates September 15. This association is yours, and you have the power in your own hands to elect those who are to represent you in the transaction of your business.

ANNOUNCING A WONDERFUL NEW FLOUR

SUNSHINE FLOUR

Women everywhere are demanding this better flour. Perhaps you, too, have wished for a flour with the wheat's nativo sweetness-the uniform and dependable flour-a flour not "killed" in the milling.

SUNSHINE FLOUR is made by a new patent process, whereby we are able to retain all the nutriment and at the same time the FLAVOR and STRENGTH of the wheat. Bread made from SUNSHINE FLOUR will hold its moisture longer and not dry out and become hard.

SUNSHINE FLOUR contains all of the deliciousn of the old time Buhr flour and with rich, creamy whiteness and texture essential to a beautiful loaf.

SUNSHINE FLOUR is by actual analysis and scientific baking test proved to be second to none and far superior to some for which our community is paving more.

Just say "SUNSHINE FLOUR" - don't say flour - and you can enjoy this wonderful treat tomorrow. Insist on it. Your grocer can get it for you.

CITY MILLS, Rising Sun, Ind.

THE END OF IT ALL

There was a tremendous and solemn contrast between the happy spirits with which President Harding and his party started out last month on their prolonged journer, and the atmosphere of gloom and tragedy which marked the return of this company, minus te leader of all who had given his life as the result of weariness and strain. Thus many of life's fondest hopes disappear, and the house of joy is turned into that of mounting.

OBITUARY.

DBITUARY.

Elizaeth Jane Williamson, only daughter of the late James H. and Susan h. Williamson, born May 28th, 1858, departed this life August 8th, 1923, after an illness of about ten days. She united with the Belleview Baptist church in November 1918, and has always tried to live and do her christian duty. She was a charter member of the Eastern Star order, and took as much interest in the lodge as her health would permit, never missing a meeting since the lodge was organized in July, 1921. She leaves to mourn her going two brothers, W. H., with whom she made her home, James L., seven nieces and two nephews.

After a short service, conducted at the home of her brother, by Bro. Adams, the remain were laid to rest in Belleview cemetery, Friday August 10th.

which President Harding's career was so abruptly terminated conveys a sharp warning, yet these sad circumstances have their note of inspiration too.

Mr. Harding's sudden reath is awarning to a great many men, wo hard. Probably with his extremely conscientious temperament he coulhave-done-no-differently. His ardent desire to serve his fellow countrymen and do his full duty led him tigive his entire strength to his official exponsibilities and he had no reserve of power with whilh to meet the attak of disease. It is a superh spirit, yet there are a certain type of self sacrificing people who like him need to be warned signing such than they can bear.

Mr. Harding set a wonserful example of willingness to give his sit to his fellow contry.

So the solsma services performed about his stricken body have not been any mere state ceremonial. They have been like the tribute paid to some usear family comrade. We allawe lost a good friend.

S. Good, head of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture. Whether or not it will pay farmers to feed their wheat to hogs instead of marketing the grain depends on the market price of hogs in their respective localities, he added. The statement was made in response to scores of inquires being received at the college from farmers wanting to know whether to market their wheat at the present low prices for it or feed the grain to hogs.

Results of tests at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station show that a soaked mixture of 14 parts of ground wheat and one part of tankage by weight, produced almost 17 pounds of pork for every bushel (60 pounds) of the mixture that was soaked produced 16 pounds of pork for every bushel of grain fed, whole wheat soaked produced 16 pounds of pork for every bushel of grain fed, while ground wheat that was soaked produced 15.65 pounds of pork for every bushel of grain fed, whole wheat soaked for from 12 to 24 hours before feeding produced 14 pounds of pork for every bushel of grain fed, whole wheat soaked for from 12 to 24 hours before feeding produced 14 pounds of pork for every bushel of grain fed, while ground wheat that was soaked produced 16.05 pounds of pork for every bushel of grain fed, while ground wheat that was soaked produced 16 pounds of pork for every bushel of grain fed, while ground in the score of beautiful Russian girls to take part in the ballet.

The wild emotions of a Russian dance with the rythm of foreign music and the thrill of wildly delirious dencing movements are outstanding features of the Shadurshaya Ballet which John Robinson. Assistant Director of the Fall Festival and Industrial Exposition, has succeeded in bringing to the Queen City direct irom a sensational appearance at the New York Hippodrome. The Exposition begins August 25 and lasts 15 days. The Russian dancers will appear every day presenting spectacles of nymphs, fanns, fairles and other characters. Lars Shadurshaya won her life from a Red Officer in charge of a Russian firing squad when she presented her famous Dance of Death. When her death sentence was reprieved she succeeded in releasing several other of the nobility.

BIG AGRICULTURE SHOW FEATURED IN CINCINNATI'S GREAT FALL EXPOSITION

One of the chief attractions of the Chichnatt Fall Festival and Industrial Exposition, which opens August 25, and continues for 15 days, is a gigantic agricultural exhibit covering three city squares and containing five acres. Within the area will be a model country village and it will be theroughly ecupped with a newspaper plant.

squares and containing new acress. Within the area will be a model country village and it will be theroughly equipped with a newspaper plant, electric light plant, a miniature railroad enderfelige the entire grounds and many other features.

This agriculture exhibit will include every conceivable model of farming machinery from the huge motor driven machinery used in the western farmlands to the smaller pieces used by the farmer on moderate farms. Another display will show the progress of agriculture from pre-historic days, when a sharpened stick was used to plough with—to the present day of modern farming machinery.

In the agriculture exhibit can be found articles which appeal not only to the men but to the women, including electrical driven or motor, driven churns and other implements which the farmer's wife is called upon to use. Anticipating the arrival of thousands of persons interested in farming the Cincinnati Free Tourists' Camp is being enlarged and special arrangements made to permit the visition to the Big Festival which covers more than 20 acres and include $62,000 Electrical Spectacle; 400 Inde-visit exhibits; a ochtinuous style show, in Fing the latest models of all kinds; the "Electrical Palace," and "Froite Avenue," where the best attractions and entertainments in the country have been gathered. ### ALIENS SHOULD FIT CITIZENSHIP

Ifare of American Should .Be Considered Before Industry.

Washington—Friends of restricted immigration and 'Rmericanization programs in the National Capital are pleased with the policy given the ringing resolution of the Commonwealth Club of California, adopted after several years exhaustive investigatiin into the subjects covered therein. It says:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this club that the immigration question for America should be determined with reference to citizenship and general social and moral welfarrand not by industrial needs only, and that immigration for the sake of a supply of cheap labor should be prohibited."

Speaking of the question at issue,
Henry Pratt Fairchild, of New York, University, said:
"The melting pot was sadly cracked by the detonations of the war.
We are now freed from the shackles of traditions, from the economic obseasions of Adam Smith and the classical School of economists. That capital and wealth must be constantly increased by production is one obsession. Consumption of wealth has been largely ignored as an economic factor in industry. Therein lies the fundamental fallacy of the 12hour argument in industry.

"Who is demanding more imported labor? The industrialist who believes that his life depends on constantly increasing production. He shouts vociferously for more cheap labor, more people of the propertyless class, to give him smooth sailing through the peak of production and the Nation unemployment when the inevitable recession comes. We have reached a stage in immigration where any shortage of labor is a shortage of the poor. China proves that mere excess of populatiin does not bring wealth, nor would 1,000,000 additional foreigners in America enrich this country.—Let America ensimilate the hordes within its borders before opening the immigration hopper for another deluge."

Answering the criticisms leveled at the steamship companies for the "puota races," P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Merchant Marine Co., suggests that "for the mext Immigration year the quotasbe admitter at the rate of 10 per cent, as at present. This probably would not be as good for the steamship companies as the present system, in certain respects, but it would be the proper way to handle the business. It would avoid such jams as we-have at New York Today."

The case of the Commonwealth vs.

Mrs. L. W. Burt for selling whisky resulted in the jury failing to agree and the case was continued until the next term of court. The Commonwealth was represented by Commonwealth Attorney John J. Howe and County Attorney B. H. Riley, Mrs. Burt was defended by Attorney O. M. Rogers and S. W. Tolin.

The case of the Standard Scales Co., against L. C. Scothorn was dis-missed at the cost of plaintff because the plaintff failed to prosecute their case.

The charter of the town of Burlington was annulled by a judgment rendered by the court.

The two cases of Ida Grubbs vs. F. Marion Grubbs were both decided in favor of the plaintiff Ida Grubbs Hunter, and she was given a judgment and a lien on lands owned by the defendant on the Dist Highway. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney H. B. MacKoy and Philip Roetmyer and N. E. Riddell, and the defendant by Attorney D. E. Castleman.

After disposing of quite a number of cases court adjourned Saturday at noon.

Report of Grand Jury.

To Honorable Sidney Gaines, Judge: We, your Grand Jury impaneled on the 13th day of August, 1922, term of the Boone Circuit Court beg leave to report.

We have been in session five days, have examined 46 witnesses and have returned 24 indictments.

Complying with your instructions we examined all the county property. The Infirmary is in a good condition, anitary and welk kept, but needs a drain or pump to clear water from cellar.

Else general condition of court house is excellent. We recommend the metal work on court house be painted and drain be put to furnice from the state of the st

We highly commend the services of Mr. Rouse and Mr. Fowler, custodians.

We highly commend the services of Mr. Rouse and Mr. Fowler, custodians.

This jury recommends that the land owners be properly notified to cut and remove all weeds and bushes along highways, and also insist that the county clerk make a record of all dog owners who have failed to pay license and report same to next grand jury.

We are satisfied that there is sufficient evidence to put Mable Eddington on trial for juvenile delinquency she being an infant under the age of 18 years, both her father and mother being immates of the County Infirmary, the father being an invalid We therefore, recommend said infant to the guardianship of the House of Reform and that the court should commit her to said House, of Reform the father being under indictment for failure to support said child. We therefore recommend said infant under the age of 18 years, his tather being under indictment for failure to support said child. We therefore recommend said infant to the guardianship of the House of Reform and that the court should commit him to said House of Reform.

Both of these recommendations are made at the second mendations are made at the second mendations.

commit him to said House of Re-form.

Both of these recommendations are made at the request of and with the knowledge, aid and consent of County Judge N. E. Riddell, Judgo of the Juvenile Court of Boone County.

Having concluded our labors we request to be finally discharged.

Geo. Blythe, Foreman.

Atest: John Delahunty, Clerk.

THIS IS AMERICA

Probably never in the history of great governments was there a stranger spectacle than that enacted day and night, in the long corridor of the Willard Hotel's third floor during the past week or two. There the seat of power in this mighty Republic of the United States for once was established. Royalty would marwel at the supermanifestation of democracy the Willard presents; the routine of a great hotel taking its noranil course. Ingress and egress unrestricted. No sentimental, guards or policemen in sight. Elevators land ing passengers on the "White House floor" without question. Waiters, tray-laden, rendering "room service" to ordinary guests. Chambermaids, key-jangling, about their business. The doors of a dozen rooms flung wide open, revealing humming type-writers and clicking telegraph instruments. Newspaper men in squadrons, Private secretary of the President scurrying in and out of president scurrying in and expension of the president scu

BIG DECLINE IN VALUE

Twelve of America's staple crops have declined in value $500,000,000 from original estimates, during the month of July, it is stated by the Department of Agriculture. This shrinkage in value is due to the rapid price declines in wheat, cotton, oats, barley, rye, flax-seed, hay and apples on the market.

The total value of the 12 principal crops for 1936 has dropped, according to official figures, from $7,-932,112,800 to $7,300,600. The only crops which increased in potential value during July were corn, potatoes and preaches.

Decrease in the value of the wheat crop is due to a decrease of 28,000,000 bushels in the year's crop as compared with previous forecasts, according to the monthly report. The wheat situation appears to be bearing out the statement just made by Arthur Capper (R) Senator from Kaness, that farmers have already begun the process of cutting their cions in an effort to keep prices from declaining further, and that the confing year will see even more extensive restriction of crops.

There is just one way for the base ball umpire to satisfy the spec-tators in many towns, and that is 's always hand the game over to the home team where it belongs.

TO ENFORCE LAW

Requiring Hotels In The State to Provide Sanitary Facilities.

Louisville, Ky.—Determined to enforce the law requiring hotels in the State to provide sanitary facilities. The State Deard of Health has filed charges with Crunty Attorneys in six counties as result of the last survey of hotels begun in May.

The evidence upon which the charge were filed was collected by the sanitary inspectors and submitted to Miss Sarah Vance, director of the Bureau of Foods, Drugs and Hotels.

The towns in which hotels not conforming with the law, were found are Liberty. Casey coenty; Lebanon, Marion County; Wrigley, Morgan county; Erkon, Todd county; and Campton, Wolfe county.

During an earlier survey of the State, more than a score of hotels were found violating the sanitary law, but the coffections were pointed out and on the best survey the great or number had remedied conditions. Those failing to take note of the first warning were acted against.

According to Miss Vance charges will be filed against other hotels in the next few days.

In In order to make those summer resorts that attract any vacationists a health resort in the full sonse of the word, special attention has been given to inspecting hotels that are closed during the winter. Few of these places were found to have neglected sanitation and in every listance where conditions not in conformity with the law were reported to the proprietors subsequent inspections showed to have been cradicated.

TOUGH BRYS.

To many people who do not know how to appeal to the young crowd, a certain type of boys appear absolutely tough and not to be reached by any form of appeal A woman engaged in settlementwork in a large city, was recently telling of some of their experiences with the tough kid element. It was their practice to try to interest the young crowd in good children's books and they would gather them at certain hours to tell them stories out of history and classic literature. Certain boys however, used—to tain hours to tell them stories out of history and classic literature. Certain boys however, used to take delight in their toughness, and in showing that they did not propose to be improved. When asked what kind of books they liked, they would reply, "O we like de dime novels, the worst we can get. We are tough guys and you can't touch us."

However the story telling hour was kept up, and these same kids in spite of themselves were drawn in. They became so fascinated by hearing the fine tales of heroom and real achievement, that they listened with open mouths and bated breath, and when the story was over, they would beg for another.

Such instances go to show that there is always some way to appeal to the boy clement if you only know the way to their hearts. Usually that way, is to arouse their interest in achievement and in accomplishing fine and splendid results. The deeds of the forefathers of America or the men who have lived and sacrificed anywhere for the cause of human advance, can be made to seem far more interesting to them than any heroes of trashy novels. If the heart of a boy can thus be touched by giving him an admiration for the work of fine men, he will feel a desire to live a worthy life himself. There are few boys who are thoroughly bad at heart. Most of them have good impulses which can be reu-side.

THE COST OF BAD ROADS

There are many localities in this state that are spending enough an nually on road repairs to pay maintenance and interest chasges on a bond issue for better highways. And if in addition you figure the additional time it takes every farmer additional time it takes every farmer and tunkness to hold stuff over these and to the study of the second of improving those roads.

The farmer who thinks he can't affect to pay for a better road, should ask how long it takes him to transport his "tuff over the research should ask how long it takes over a good road. After he faures the additional cost of automobility tires, gas, renairs, or horsefish, he will find in many cares that he would make money if he would join in a boverment for better roads.

A WEEK'S NEWS.

On next Wennesday the gates of the North Kentucky Fair will open for its twenty-eighth annual exhibition of four days, and there is nos better place to go, to spend a day or two than at this old time fair where you will meet old friends you have not seen for a year, as it is just like a home coming to all former Boone county citizens who make their annual visit to meet old friends.

H. D. Brady, of Middle creek, has been missing his chickens for some time, and last Saturday he discovered the cause when he shot and killed with a shot gun a large bald eagle that measured from tip to tip of wings 6½ feet. The dead bird was on exhibition in Burlington until Sunday morning when Dr. Yelton sent it to the city to a taxidermist to have it stuffed.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Lookwood, of Kansas City Mr., were in Burlington. Kansas City Mr., were in Burlington. Lawrenceburg Ferry—the old Piatt. Farm, where they will join Mrs. Lookwood's father, Chas. Piatt and brothers who are camping on the farm that some forty years ago was their home.

Among the former Buglington cit-izens who were in town, last Satur-day, were Thomas Cowen, of Mem-phis, Tenn, Sreiby Cowen and Ed. Haves, of Covington, Tony Bentler, wite and son, Eddie, of Debrois, Michigan, Dr. O. S. Crisler, of Co-lumbia, Mo., Clinton Gaines and Jao-Bentier, of Erlanger, and Ray Con-ner, of Cincinnati.

W. G. Hill, 79, died at the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Walton C. Hill, Montrose, Penn, last Saurday. Mr. Bill was widely known in this county thru his business transactions—as a wholesale groce at 45 Vine Street, Cincinnati, for many years. He was a brother of the late G. W. Hill, of Covington.

Geo. W. Sandford and wife, former well known citizens of Burlington, but for the past five years residing at Glendale, Ariz, are back in the good old county of Boonwisting their relatives and friends, and enjoying the scenes of their childhood among the hills and valleys of their 'Old Kentucky Home."

The million dollar exposition which opens in Cincinnati with a great Night Pageant Friday, August 24, and the official opening of the Fail Festival and Industrial Exposition takes place at noon on the following day, and the attraction continues for the next offices days.

The Exposition is the first to be held in the Oillo Valley in almost fifteen years and is the largest that has ever been held in this territory. The exposition covers more than 20 acres, containing reat Industrial Sections, Agriculture Section, Style Shows, Electral Shows, a $50,000 electrical spectacle known as the Tower of Jewels; all of Muist Hall, and two acres of laughs and thrills in the Froile Avenue area where John Robinson, the veteran circus man, has massed the best attractions of all.

COUNTRY TOWN OPPORTUNITIES.

One of the unfortunate tendencies of city life is the way it segregates people into different elements. A great number of people who have large possibilities are thus divided off from their fellow citizens and never given a chance to accomplish results.

If city people reside on a street that lacks social standing, it is hastily assumed that they are not worth while cuttivating. Their children are often neglected and get no fair chance to show what they can do. They country town provides a democratic and leveling kind of life inwhich every individual gets a fair chance. ## As the Editor Sees It.

Here is something or President Coolidge to ook into, if he desires to all the country a signal service.

When wheat and corn are ripe and ready for market, the prace is forced down by the board of trade gamblers in foodstuffs.

When the farmer has sold his wheat and his corn, and the gamblers are in control of it, the price goes grap again.

Somehody makes a mint of money sout of the fluctuations in price, but it isn't the farmer who raises the wheat and the corn. The profits go into the pockets of the gamblers who manipulate the prices.

Mr. Coolidge can do nothing better during his term of office than to launch and conduct a campaign to put an end to gambling in the ecessities of life.

sities of life.

Those grasping oil refiners who adopted a "dog in the manger" and voted to close down their refineries for a month rather than reduce the price of gasoline have started something—something—they would now like to stop, but apparently can not.

The governors of several states have entered the game and are arranging to sell gasoline at greatly reduced prices, securing the gas from independent refineries.

The governors would do well to goven greater lengths. They should establish state filling stations as permanent institutions, thereby protecting the consumers from gasoline-prirates who know only the law of gouge.

Sometimes we hear people complain bitterly over conditions that prevail in this country. But complaining is all that a majority of them ever do. Conditions are just what we make them or allow them to be made. Complaining does no good, because no attention is paid to it. Action would do good, because action produces results. People who are unwilling to act should not complain.

THE WARNING OF DEATH
Reds and professional acitators, who are always opposed to lawfully established government, have just passed through an experience that should give them food for sance thought, if there is any sanity beneath their hats.
They have just witnessed the most remarkable deminstration of mourning in all history, sorrow over the chief fa nation who was stricken down in the prime of life while laboring for the welfare of his people. It was a national demonstration of toyality to our cuntry by all of our people—ercept the reds and the agitators.
It was a silent warning to traitors to heware, lest they, too, be called upon to take the long journey—not amidst the lowed fleads of a sorrowing nation, but by the aid of the rope of inscrutible justice.

THE STORY OF ONE SALESMEN.

In a certain city well known to L. readers of the Recorder, there was a men's clothing store which had a specially friendly clerk. That fellow became known to all the near by country. That was in the days before automobiles become common. People would drive their ancient rulugs over distances taking them an hour or two each way, just to tradewith that fellow.

They never used the name of his employer in referring to this store. They always said they were going up to trade at-this cierk's place, using his name. If he had moved to another store, they would have changed with him.

That fellow was a big asset both to the store that employer him and the city where he worked. He drew an enormous volume of trade from near by country. How did he do it? By personal friendliness, cordiality, willingness to go the limit to please customers. It paid him well In salary and in chances for advancement that came to him later. Any sales clerk in Boone country can get similar results by the same effort.

TOO MUCH AND TOO LITTLE

TOO MUCH AND TOO LITTLE

Too much law—too little respect for it. That-seems to be one of the greatest broblems with which of dielish are confronted today.

Congress, state legislatures, city councils, village boards all seem obsessed with a mania for pursing laws—more laws—and still more laws.

The result is, there are so many laws in this country of one kind or another, the people haven't even a nuception of what the majority of them are.

The average-citizen knows that heise breaking some kind of a law almost daily without realizing it. He knows, also that nothing is done almost daily without realizing it. They are dead letters, never enforced.

This in time leads him to look upon all laws with more or less contempt, or at least with indifference, and especially so with those that interfere with his business or pleasure.

What we need in this country is

we. What we need in this country's less laws and more rigid enforcement with a cleratic punishment for the law enforcement officer who neglects to perform his duty.

One-third of the -laws we have would be ample, if they were obeyed.

But they will never be obeyed as they should so long as multiplicity creates contempt.

THE NIAGARA OF OUR NORTH-WEST

In the mountains of the Cascade range, southeast of the city of Seattle, in the state of Waahington, three rollicking streams, born of metted snow, tumbling from the heights above, run logether and form one larger stream. This broader, deeper stream, the Snequaline river, meanders along through peaceful valleys, tringed by heavily-timbered lands, presses onward between great hills which threaten to stop its course and then, all of a sudden, in the midst of surroundings of great beauty, flows over a sharp ledge-and pours down gracefully into a deeply-carved gorge 270 feet below.

For centuries this nature-made spectacle, unknown, played its part in the general scheme of the universe. Even to this day it is practically unheard of nationally and is sought out by but a very few of the thousands of well-intentioned folks who, intent upon broadening their borzhor of information and getting acquainted with their own courtary, journey acca.—the continent to see what the other side is like, But the remarkable phenomenon of a river, hidden away mild the forests and mountains, deliberately dropping, a straight 270 feet, and then continuing on its way to the see, was destined to and sid, eventually, come into its own fast the development of our water-power resources began to claim attention.

Lexington; Ky.—One of the latest and most up-to-date books on cooperative marketing, just off the press of the publishers, was written by O B. Jesness, chief of the section of markets of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. The book, the title of which is "The Cooperative Marketing of Farm Products," 14 one of a series of farm manuals was designed both as a text book and as a reference volume. It will be used as a text book and as a reference volume. It will be used as a text book by students in the College of Agriculture here and produlisy will be adopted for similar use by other institutions.

The new book, which contains 202 page's, takes up every angle of cooperative marketing from the fund amentals to the future in store for this ethod of disposing of farm products and in addition contains an appendix giving sample contracts of representiative cooperative marketing associations, and a census report on cooperative marketing and buying. Some of the subjects dealt with in the book are the fundamentals of cooperative marketing the development of it, the cooperative marketing of grain, butter and cheese, milk livestock, fruits and vegetables, cotton and tobacco, wool, poultry and eggs, arketing by miscellaneous and general farmers' organizations, the cooperative marketing associations, incorporation and remeral farmers' organization, and financing, organizing, cooperative marketing associations, incorporation and cooperative marketing.

There are 57 illustrations in the book, a number of which were obtained in Kentucky to represent various phases of cooperative marketing.

There is so much of value in cooperative marketing on an effective business basis that the future prospects are indeed very bright for cooperative marketing of farm products' the author points out in concluding.

WILLIAM W. GRIMSLEY

An Old Confederate Soldier Answers Final Roll Call.

An Old Conf-derate Soldier
Answers Final Rol Call.

W. W. Grimsley, aged 82, died et Walton, last Saturday, August 18th, where he had made his home for the past five years since moving from his farm at the mouth of Big Bone creek on the Ohio river. He had been in failing licalth for some time and his death was caused from infirmities incident to old age.

He was prominent in Boone county politics, although he never held public office—having been defeated for the Democratic nomination. for Assessor by the late R. A. Brady in the early ninetles in one of the hottest primary elections ever held in the county.

The news of his death has caused a feeling of genuine sorrow-over the entire county and hundreds of frieds mourn his taking away. In his passing there ceased to beat a heart warm in all its generous impulses, true to every profession of friendship and kind and benevolent through all its purposes.

There was in his make up the finerqualities and instincts which portray the southern gentleman, just enough of old-fashioned frankness and cordiality to make you feel a freedom add confidence in his association, just enough of that genuin hospitality to give you the assurance of its naturalness and sincerity, and that hospitality bespoke itself thruevery hour, whether within the portais of his home or out in the walks of the world.

William Grimsley was a good citican and neighbor, and was highly respected in the community and in fact in the entire county where he lived for so many years. He was of quiet disposition, always responsive by nature to do a kindly act for any in need of assistance.

His aged wife, who was a Miss Hance, has lost a kind, affectionate hurband, and the community and county an exemplary and useful citizen. Another one of the county's ex-Confederate soldiers has answered the final summons.

He was twice married, his first wife was a daughter of Stewart and William Grimsley was a daughter of Stewart and williams.

izen. Another one of the county sex-Confederate soldiers has answered the final summons. He was twice married, his first wife was a daughter of Stewart and Elizabeth (Moore) Baker. Funeral seervices were conducted at South Fork church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. Hampton Adams, of Covington. The remains were laid to rest in the old Hancefamily burying ground in the presence of a very large crowd of relatives and friends. C. Scott Chambers had charge of the funeral.

AN OLD CITIZEN GONE.

An ULD BITILEIN UNIL.

Enoch Manuin, 86, one of the oldest citizens of the north part of the county, died at his home near Law-renceburg Ferry, last Sunday from the effects of a fall he received several days ago in which his hip was broken. Funeral services were conducted at the home of his son, J. H. Mannin, at Hebron, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock by Rev. H. C. Runyan, of Latonia. He was a member of the Bullittaville Christian church. The remains were buried in Hebron cemetery.

.FATHER'S THE MAN.

"He may wear last year's straw hat, his finger nalis may need manicuring, his vest may hang a little loose and pants may be age at the knees; his face may show signs of a second day's growth and the tip dinner bucket he carries may be full of dents and doughnuts, but don't call him the old man." He's your father.

"For years and years he has been rustling around to get things together. His old hat and clothes are worn that you may have new ones. His once erect posture is now bent from the struggle to provide the where with to give you the education you have to keep the roof over your head. Never once has he failed to do the right thing by you. He thinks you are the greatest boy on earth, bar none, even though you plaster your hair back, wear smart clothes smoke cigarettes and fail to bring home a ceat. He is the man who won the love and life partnership of the greatest woman on earth—your mother. He is 'some' man, and not 'the old man,' and your voice ought to ring with pride when you speak of him as my dad. If you win as good a wife as he did, you will have to go some."

J. P. Brothers, the hustling young

J. P. Brothers, the hustling young merchant of Limaburg, was in town Monday afternoon wearing a smile about one yard-long, all on account of the 9-pound girl left by the stork at his home on Thursday, August 16th—Janet Katherin. It is said that you can now hear Proctor singing: "Beat the drum, toot the horn; in town let there be a whirl, come in boys and take a smoke, I've got a 9-pound girl."

A very large crowd attended a meeting at the Universalist church Monday night, to hear an address on "Americaniam" or "The Real Truth about the Ku Klux Klan" by a public speaker who is claimed to he a man of National reputation.

I requently they like to carry some atticles home as a kind of souvenir of their trips. The firms that keep their advertising up through the summer must draw in a lot of transient rade of people who are visiting in the locality or who pass through it as tourists.

A great many firms have goods in stock at this time that will be a source of expense if carried over to another season. Styles may change, money has to be borrowed to carry goods that do not sell readily. A great many enterprising firms final that they gain the best results by cleaning up their stock very largely as they go, and getting freely thruth the summer.

It is a tremendous help to a firm if it can give the impression that it is pushing for trade every day and week in the year. The firm that advertises constantly gives that impression. It makes the public feel that it is alert all the time to pick up good goods at a bargain, and pass its good values on to the public.

The department stores of the big cities know the game of merchandising, and it is noticeable that they keep up a great deal of advertising through the summer. If it pays for them it will pay for the stores in Boone county.

WAY TO FARM PROGRESS WILL BE SHOWN AT FAIR

Lexington, Ky.—Looking forward in agriculture to better farms, homes and communities and satisfied boys, and grits, will be the general theme around which the exhibit of the College of Agriculture at the coming state fair will be built according to an announcement by N. R. Elliott, who is in charge of the preparation of the display. Ten departmental exhibits being planned by the diecent will touch on this theme. The importance of holding down the cost of producing farm products if the largest profits are to be obtained will be brought out in the exhibit of the farm management section, while the marketing division will show that closer grading of farm products before marketing is a forward step that every farmer can take with profit. The exhibit of the poultry, section will have two features, one of which will show the advantages of the type of poultry house being areconnuended for Kentucky conditions and the other the value of feeding skim milk to laying hens. The amount of fruit and vegetables that a family of five should use and the kind of a garden that it takes to furnish these will be pointed out in the exhibit of the home economics department. How to install a water supply system in the farm home and the number & miles of walking that such a system safes the housewife demonstrated in the farm engineering exhibit, while the horticultural exhibit will be a demonstration of how to control to peach tree horer by the new chemical treatment for the pest.

The annual loss to Kentucky families through poor gardens and the horactices to follow in making the garden worth while will be brought out in the vegetable exhibit. The annual loss to Kentucky families through poor gardens and the dairy exhibit will be a demonstration of how to control to peach tree horer by the poor fardens and the dairy exhibit will be a demonstration of how to making the garden worth while will be brought out in the vegetable exhibit. The merits of the root rot resistant strain of burley tobacco developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, how Kentucky soils can be built up through the use of limestone and phosphate and the accomplishments of junior agricultural club members in their project work will be shown in other exhibits. As in former years the college exhibit will be housed in the Grandstand building.

ARE YOU FOLLOWING A STAR?

Eerson said: "Hitch your wagon to a star." There is almost a cosmos in that simple sentense. One can see in those six little words the summary of human achievement, a complete history of civilization an everlasting inspiration to the future races of men.

There was a Greek in New York city whose name was Menas. Several years ago he was a poor push-cart peddler. Up and down the alleys and the by-ways, in the rain and the snow and the heat; sometimes sick and sometimes well; haggard and often hengry and weary and covered with dirt and dust, Menas drew his cart. There are many such in the immense hives of swarming foreign ers in this great republic. You have seen them. He is only a push-cart man. He doesn't differ from Menas except in one thing. Menas had a dream, and he followed a star. He toiled along, day in and day out, for a decade. He always reamed the dream, and ever the star beconed on—a wild preposterous thing—out of all reason in a push-cart man. He had determined to earn $100,000, return to his native land and become a bank president. Sounds like a jok, doesn't sit?—It was not a jest the Menas. After long years of work and privation and saving, he had the fortune. The dream came true; the star was grasped at last. Menas went away to gratify his ambition in a sunlight city by the Agean sea.

A soldier took a message to Napoleon in such great haste that the horse on which he rode dropped dead before he delivered the paper. COMMERCE MAY CAUSE

Recent utterances in Parliament of Mr. Stamley Baldwin and Lords-Curzon and Grey leave no oubt as to the extreme gravity of the situation that has arisen between England and France on the question of the German reparations.

That Germany is preparing for economic war gainst France was flatiguated by Premier Poincare and the prediction made that be evading payment of the reparations fixed by the Versailles Treaty the German manufacturers were putting themselves in a position to control not only the trade with other ountries, but also successfully to invode the French market with their products. Therefore Germany must be crushed. In one form or another this curious idea of commerce ass war between manufacturing nations finds expression in all discussions of the much muddled Europeon situation. It was the real cause of the Worll War, and today many of the political disagreements appear to have their origin in a desire to hinder the development of countries for fear lest rey become industrial competitors of the stronger powers.

If France holds to this position of a commission as suggested some mouths ago by Secretory Hughes. In that event what will be the attitude of the United States?

THE HOUSE FLY.

Thousands of persons die each year from diseases carried by flies. There are rony bind of flies and all of them are bad. Among the diseases transmitten by ules, are typhoid rever, diarrhoea, dysentery, "summer complait," tubereulosis, infantile paralysis, anthrax and cholera.

Babiès and children sucer especially from fly borne diseases. All homes shiuld be screed and food kept from flies. If a baby is placed in his bed or carriage on the porch is not secreted he should always be well overed by an etting. The ridding of a community of flies is everybody's job and each one must do his bit. As soon as people realize that flies breed in filith, feed on it, live it and contaminate everything their hairy little legs crawl over flies will be exterminated and not until then. Flies should be trapped, poisoned and swatted, but the best way to get rid of them is to prevent their breeing. A single pair of flies born in April will, by August, have millions of descendants. To prevent such multiplycation follow these simple rules:

1. Keep stables clean and remove manure twice a week.

2. Keep garbage in covered containers and clean containers frequently.

3. Build fly-proof sanitary privies if sewers are not evilable.

tainers and clean containers frequently.

3. Build fly-proof sanitary privies if sewers are not available.

4. Observe strick cleanliness and immediate destruction of all filth 5. Sercen all markets, homes, bakeries and outhouses.

6. Begin the campaign against flies early in the spring.

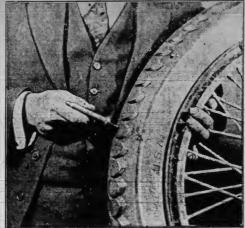

7. Keep chicken houses and sheds around the farm clean and use limp freely around the barn yard.

Prospects for good crops of wheat, tobacco potatoes; à fairly good oats crop; and a very short crop of hay, are the features of the August crop-creat fixentucky issued by the Louisville office of the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. Tobacco in Kentucky shows an increase over 1922 because of increased acreage this year, the probable priduction of all types in this State this season being forecast as 534,965,000 lbs., compared to an early estimate of 522,887,000 pounds July 1, and 446,250,000 pounds of all types produced in they state ast year. The United States total tobecco crop is larger than last year, being estimated at 1,473,837,000 pounds compared to 1,524,840,000 pounds total U. S. production last year, and 1,361,y49,000 pounds aversge annual production 1917-1921, inclusive. 000 pounds average annual pr tion 1917-1921, inclusive.

Judge Gary announces that a plan has been practically agreed upon to eliminate the 12-hiur doy. The plan involves a reduction of from $4.80 for 12 hours 40 $4.00 for 8 hours, making a 25 per cent increase in the hourly and base wages. The plan adds $45,000,000 to the pay rill and gives employment to $60,000 more men.

AVOID SKIDDING BY TWO METHODS

Rough Tread Tires or Chains Will Prevent Trouble to Considerablé Extent.

revent Irouble to Uonsiderable Extent.

Why an antomobile skids is of interest to a motorist, but what to do to prevent skiniung ami what to up when the car is skidding are equally important topics.

The main cause of skidding of rear wheels of motor cars is due to the action of the brakes operating through the rear wheels. Skidding, of course, normally occurs only when the roads are slippers.

An automobile wheel rotates and progresses over the highway in but one direction or plane. This direction for the rear wheels is determined by the front wheels under control of the driver. While the rear wheels grip the ground and rotate they control the direction of the car. However, as soon as the rear wheels are locked by the brakes they begin to slide and as they slide sidewise practically as easly as forward, they lose the power to direct the car.

Little Friction Locks Wheels.

It takes comparatively little brake friction to lock and slide rear wheels on slippery roads because there is little friction between the tire and the road surface. When once the driving wheels begin to slip the car is kept in motion by the force of merita acting at the car's center of gravity or mass.
This forward motion is opposed by the resistance of all four wheels on the ground, a resistance that is greater in the rotating front wheels than in the rotating front wheels than in the sliding rear wheels. Unless the cembined ground resistance of all wheels, tending to stop the car, acts on the same point as the force of inertia tending to carry the car forward, there results what is called "force couple," which causes the car to skid or spin around.

After the wheels once start to slip a very small "force couple" will pre-white what is called "force couple." which rauses the car to skid or spin around.

After the wheels once start to slip a very small "force couple" will produce skidding, and the skid distance is dependent upon the magnitude of the "force couple" which insturn depends on car speed and weight. Turning the front wheels in the direction of the rear speed and weight. Turning the front wheels in the direction of the rear speed and weight. Turning the front wheels in dependent of the rear speed and the produce skidding facciuse it reduces the magnitude of the "force couple." Also periodically releasing and re-applying the brake so the rear wheels can get a grip offsets forward slip and consequent side skid.

Ways to Provent Skidding.

Two means are employed to prevent skidding in motor vehicles. The use of bonskid creup it read tires and of anti-skid chains. Nonskid tires are designed to give forward traction and to prevent side slip. As long as there is traction the rear wheels will turn, and as long as the rear wheels turn there will be no serious side slip, unless the front wheels are blocked.

Nonskid chains accomplish the same-purpose as the nonskid tire tread, that is, give additional traction and reduces side slip. Nonskid chains accomplish the same-purpose as the nonskid tires only when road conditions absolutely require them.

RIGHT FIRING OF CYLINDERS

Are all your cylinders firing proper-ly? If not you are wasting guadine and filling the dead cylinder with oil, which will carbonize when you get it firing again. Give the engine a lit-tic more gas while diling and open the pet cocks to look for finms. If no fines gurts out the cylinder is dead. If you have no compression cecks learn how to use a revendiver to short-ferred the spark plugs. If

Avoid Soft Tires.

Don't drive your car with thres that are soft or not prop-erly milated or you will be well started on the road to the trou-ble, with the following results to your dres and your pocket-book:

Tire heating, which destroys the valuable chemical elements necessary to both rubber and fabric.

necessary to both ribber and fabric.

Cracking of the side wall and rin cutting and in some cases pluching of the tube.

Sliding of the tire on the rim when the brakes are applied suddenly, causing the tube to rear around the valve stem.

Thread loosening from the fabric due to are of bead in transverse direction to are of circumfreence.

These puncture more easily when not properly initated.

Creates a drag and the car is slow to plex up speed.

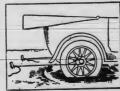

If on the front wheels steering is made harder.

Motor has to work much harder; gasoline consumption is greater and many other effects make themselves known.

SCHEME FOR PULLING MACHINE OUT OF MUD

Unique Plan Employed to Get Automobile Out of Hole.

While riding one day with a neighbor in his car we were infortunate enough to run into a mud hole. The rear wheels, even with the chains on absolutely refused to take hold, either going ahead or back. It seemed to me at first that we were in to stay; but I found that my friend was prepared for just such emergency. He produced from the tool box two pleces of

A Help to Autourta.

Tope about sen feet long, two wooden stakes about 18 mches long and s three-pound sledge. I wondered just what was "coming off," but I soon learned. He drove a stake behind each rear wheel where the ground was solid. A rope was then tied to each stake, close to the ground, run under the hub and tied to a spoke, as the cut shows. My friend started his engine threw it into reverse, and the engline easily backed itself out of of the muchole.

MORGAN'S MEN ARE

One of the greatest typical insultations of American life is the Sunday school picine. The lids of today have so much done for them, that they are almost unfeited with pleasures. Ball games, automobile rides, move shows, etc., fill their lives full and they may not have the wild enthusiasm over the annual picenic manifested in former years. Yet they are ready to go, and a full supply of ice cresm is still a arge incentive.

Sunday whool workers find they get along much better with their young chaptes if they meet them in a social way occasionally, and do not always appear in the light of handing out serious lessams. You can get closer to a boy at one picnic than in forty lectures.

It is a pleasure for midde aged closer to a boy at one picnic than in forty lectures.

It is a pleasure for midde aged folks to mingle with the young crowd and see them cut up their capers. It won't hurt the men to get out and play ball with the kids, and if it makes them lame, it shows they are going stale.

GENIUSES ARE NOT JOKES

Many a promising young man makes the mistake of thinking that eccentri city is genius. It's a sad mistake. A pompadour doesn't make an artist; prowling at midnight with black coffee in one hand and a tablet in the other doesn't make an artist; prowling at midnight with black coffee in one hand and a tablet in the other doesn't make a poat. No, indeed genuises are not jokes. Take your work, but not yourself. Seriously. If you've got it in you, and can work steadily and with grim patience, what you want will come to you without getting yourself in a nervous prespiration over it.

Character, as capital, is very much underestimated by a great number of young men. Keep your record clean and business men will have faith in you.

Remember son, that the world is older than you are, by several years; that for thousands of years it has been so full of smarter and better men than yourself, that their feet stuck out set, the dormer windows; that when they died the old globe went whirling on, and not one man in ten million went to the funeral of even heard of the death. Be as unsart as you can, without blowing the patching out of your yelinderhead; shed the light of your wisdom abroad in the world, but don't try to dazzle people with it. Don't be loo somy for your father because he knows so much less than you do; remember the reply of Dr. Wayland to, the student of Brown University who said, "it was easy encught to make proverbs such as Solomon wrote." "Make a few," tersely replied the old man. We never heard that they young man made any.

The world had great need of your darts is etter and you are prettie, of, air prettier than "Dad." Like all normel and well-behaved rivers, the Chicago river curried its waters from its head toward its mouth, emptying into Lake Michigan. The building of a-drainage canal from its head through the ridge that divides the drainage between Lake Michigan and the rivers further west to a conhection with the river system, reversed this natural and orderly procedure, with the expected, although hatonishing result, that the waters of this river now flow from the lake into its mouth and out through its head into the drainage cinal.

There is, however, a well defined movement in the United States to destroy that spirit of democracy and lierty expressed by the founders of this republic, and install in its place a monarchy. We have a large number of newspapers and periodicals that insiduously disseminate this propagands; and if the books in our public libraries were examined one will be amazed at the number and the boldness of their utterances. Nothing in the despised German literature ever equalfed it. A large number of our greatest industrial chiefs and captains of finance unhesitatingly assert that they believe the monarchical form of government is the only form that will endure and must some time be adopted.

Young Larvas Do Damage.

The adult moths which fly about do not damage the clothing. They merely select woolen garnents or furs in which to deposit their eggs, so that the young larvas eventually emerging from these eggs will have plenty of suitable food. A large part of the trobble caused by moths can be averticed if this preliminary cleaning, brushing and sunning is thoroughly done, and if the clothes are then placed in absolutely tight containers which cans

The schools our fathers attended were the best the times could produce. The schools we attended were the best the times could produce. The schools we attended were better schools. Now, the "little roed school house," often little more than a hut with benches, and a half sacrificing teacher, who did her best with poor equipment, is giving way to the modern rural school, with good equipment, better educated teachers, and more ample curriculum. With the coming of better means of transportation, more children attend conutry schools, and fon longer periods. As good roads are extended, school facilities must be extended, to keep pace with the increased demand. Good roads everywhere, must mean good achools everywhere.

erywhere, must mean goverywhere. Few farmers fight the idea of better roads, even if they mean an increased tax. But there are some who do fight increased school expenditures, with an increased school tax, either because "we haven't any children" or because "the old way is good enough."

good enough."

There is no such thing as a school "good enough." The best schools we can produce are not "good enough." To admit that anything human is perfect is to claim that no more progress can be made. As today's schools and methods make those of fifty, a hundred years ago, seem peurile and inefficient, so will the schools of the future make those of today seem inadequate.

future make those of today seem in adequate.

Fight for, not against the good road over which children may go to school. Fight for, not against, the better school, in which children can be taught to be better citizens than their fathers.

The children of today are the America of tomorrow. If, indeed, this great Nation is to roll forward to its great destiny as the light of the world in liberty, humanitarianism, and enlightment, the childish hands which one day will hold the wheel must have the best of opportunities to learn how to steer!

Deputy Sheriff Uta and Town Marshall Conrad, of Florence, arrested Ken McLean and Massie Vivion, both colored, for speeding an automobile through Florence last Thursday through Florence last Thursday morning, and while making the arrest one of the occupants threw a bottle from the machine, which was found in the weeds, and contained moonshine whisky. One of the occupants got out of the machine when a pint of whisky was seen on the seat. Upon search two empty pint bottles were found on one of the men, two partially filled, half pint bottles on the other man and the pint was on the seat between the two. #### RECIPROCAL DUTIES.

RECIPROCAL DUTIES.

Some one has remarked that in the earlier periods of history, the duties of children to parents are more emphasized. This was the rule back in the middle part of the substantial that the rule back in the middle part of the last century, when children were held under strict discipline.

But now as the race advances, the duties of parents to children armore emphasized, and the obligation to give young offixe the best possible advantages is dwelt upon. This is all to the good, if exercised with judgment. But in many cases, this feeling goes fauthat parents fail to exercise control over their children, and fail to insist that the latter pay due respect to the wisdom of their elders.

When it gets to that point, chilred are no better off with their great advantages than they were 100 years ago when they were goorned by parental wisdom.

The next thing on the program in the way of out-door recreation in this part of the country, will be the 38th annual meet of the Harvest Home, which will be held at its grounds, Saturday, Sept., 18th—the place where everybody goes to meet their friends and enjoy a pleasant day.

THE PASSING OF SUMMER

THE PASSING OF SUMMER
Many people look at the passing of summer with regret. Flowers that bloom in early fall are seen with nelancholy, as they mark an end of one more season of beauty. Summer is cherished as the period of out door sports and pastimes, and they hate to see another time of these festivities pass by.

Yet to the hard working folks who till our farms, the passing of summer brings a thrill of satisfaction at work accomplished. The annual battle with weeds and pests is about over. Results are often disoppointing, yet if the home has been kept together and the family fed—and debts paid, a triumph has been schieved over reluctant forces of nature and economic difficulties.

Every season has its own pleasures, If the grand fruition of the aummer season is passed, the tang of invigorating autumn days and the beauty of autumn foliage have come. The bright social life of autumn and winter will make our towns and home circles cheerful again.

PLASTERER AT $104 OR PROFESSOR AT $40?

"WHITE COLLAR" JOBS INVAD-

Washington. — The report that plasterers' wages of $104 and more a week are causing tsudent ministers and other professional men to take up the trowel in Evanston, Iillinois, where work on a new hotel is in progress, has excited much interested comment by educators in the Nation's Capital. Ministers have been indignant that a divine deserted his church for the opportunities to earn more money nutting un wolls and church for the opportunities to earn more money putting up wolls and engineers have been up in arms be-cause a graduate civil engineer is said to have refused a professorshin in order to don overalls and work with lime and sand.

with lime and sand.

"There are much better things in the world than money," said a prominent Washington, D. C., minister, who refused to be quoted in criticism of a brother churchman. "Men do not aeek the ministry for its material rewards. To desert a pulpit because of greater financial reward in plastering or any other occupation, is to quit in the middle of the fight, which does more harm to individual, the Nation, and the character than ten times the wages earned could pay for."

That many teachers.

That many teachers in schools resign to take up more profitable lines of work is a confessed evil of the American public school system. But it is generally felt that the answer to the problem does not lie in restricting the profits of manual or skilled labor, but in making teaching, the ministry, and other "white-collar jobs" more attractive by a more just scale of salaries.

BITTHDAY SURPRISE.

Mrs. Mary Goodridge, who resides out on Rural Route one, came to Berlington, last Saturday morning for a few days visit, but on Sunday morning she was sent for to come home, that she had company. She did not realize that she had reached the seventy-seventh mile zone in the Journey through life until she reached home and found that a large number of her friends and relatives had gathered there with well filled baskets of good things to eat and had it spread when she arrived. It was one of the most pleasant surprises of her life, and the day was a most enjoyable one.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Grant and son, Allie, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Svain, Mr. G. T. Gaines and son, Elwbert, Mr. and Mrs. W. T Carpenter, Mr. Sarah Carpenter, Mrs. Minnie Plummer, Mrs. Wm. Hedges and son, Clifford, A. C. Porter, Alvin Frank, Rex and Joseph Eevkshire.

EVERYBODY COOPERATING

EVERYBODY COOPERATING

The attitude of many people who enter the business field is so merely personal and selfish that they give but little aid to the people who employ them. Suppose they take a job in some store. Their rincipal thought is retting more pay, shorter hours, and having a good time.

If a fellow is going to be successful in any line of business, his first thoughtmust be to promote the success of the business, by which he is amployed. If his earnest effort for the interest of that business has helped that firm hold its own or go on to greater prosperity, he is bound to get recognition and advancement. To extend the retail trade there is needed a hearty spirit of coloperation between both amployer and employed in that line of business. The possibilities for expansion in this community are excellent, and all it calls for in ampress advances.

The following interesting letter is from Miss Alberta Carson, daughter of Mrs. Sallie A. Carson, many years ago a citizen of Boone county, but now of Hood River, Oregon:

My mother receives you paper each week and derives a great deal of interest from it, as she spent a great part of her gilhood in that part of Really 15.

terest from it, as she spent a great part of her gilhood in that part of the State.

Really, if I could only tell you people how very beautiful it is out here I imagine you'd all start cranking your Ford's tomorrow. From where I am I can see many beautiful things. In the first place, right before me is a small wood of beautiful pine trees. They frame a heautiful setting of our snow capped peak—Mt. Adams. Flowing peacefully just a mile away is the majestic Columbia All around are green, living things, cherry, pear and apple trees, loaded with wonderful fruit. Right back of me, standing like an armed setinel is the grand old mountain Mt. Hood. Motoring up through our valley are endless stretches of fruit trees, immense little streams crahing and tumbling in the most unexpected places.

Ohl It is so beautiful that it takes.

Oh! It is so beautiful that it takes one's breath away. Then there is the Columbia River Highway. It is about seventy miles of perfect paved road; it winds in and out around great hills, keeping parallel to the Columbia. The mistake so many tourists make, isthat of merely passing thru on the Highway, ignorant of the beauties thatawait them by going 20 miles, south through Hood River valley to Mt. Hood.

A LABOR DAY THOUGHT

James Campbell Cantrill, Democratic nominee for Governor of Kentucky, died at 6:30 Sunday morning at St. Joseph's Infirmary following at Open the state waged a game but fulle battle for life. Deapite everything that physicians could do they were not able to rally the patient's vitality after the sinking spell suffered at 11:30 a. m., Saturday.

Upon arrival in Georgetiwn at 6 o'clock Monday night the casket will be taken immediately to the Christian church. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 c'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Ira Boskwell, pastor of the church will officiate, assisted by Rev. Geo. C. Waggoner, life-long friend.

Mr. Cantrill, though his vitality was sapped, made a wonderful fight, according to physicians, and even while sinking steadily had hope and expressed the wish to live.

The last moments of the Democratic nominee were marked by touching leave taking with lifelong friends and associates. Those at his bedside when death came were Mr. Cantrill, his son, James Edward Cantrill, pr. Milton Board, Dr. E. L. Henderson, Cecil Cantrill, his alth brother; Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Morrison, of Lexington, and Joe Morris, his secretary and campaign manager.

Mr. Cantrill was 53 years old. He was born at Georgetown, Ky, July 9, 1870, where he since has made his home, excepting his residence in Washington during congressional sessions. He was serving his fittenthy year as a member of Congress.

meeting. Upon motion and seconded, he was unanimously chosen permanent chairman, and H. D. Vest, Secretary.

Upon motion and second the Chairman was appointed to select a committee to choose six delegates to be voted for—three out of the six to be elected by ballot Sept., 15th, as delegates to the District meeting to be held at Williamstown on September 17th.

While the committee had retired to select the names of the delegates, the large crowd was entertained with a talk by Atty. John L. Vest, of Walton.

The chairman appointed a committee composed of George M. Penn, V. P. Kerns and B. F. Franks, who reported the selection of the following delegates to be voted for: C. O. Hempfling, Dr. O. E. Senour, J. F. Cleek, Melvin Townsend, Lloyd C. Weaver and J. L. Moore.

By a unanimous vote J. A. Huey, of Union, Marshall Whitson, of Verona, and Lacy Cropper of Petersburg, were selected as a election committee.

After whort talks by several of the members present, the meeting adjourned.

election to be held by the Association members September 15th, between the hocrs of 8 a. m., and 4 p. m.

Names if the candidates for delegates nominated today will appear on the official ballot for the election of September 15th, and in addition there will be plank spaces which the grower may use to write in the name of any candidate for delegate he may desire to support who may not be on the list of those nominated.

Each county nofinated today twice as many candidates for delegate as the allotted representation of the county in the district conventions Sept., 17th. The counties arailowed one delegate for each million pounds of tibacco delivered to the Association in 1922 and an additional delegate for each majority fraction of a million pounds delivered. In the case of counties which delivered 500,000 pounds or less the growers will elect one delegate from thore nominated today and that delegate will have the same fraction of one vote in the district convention as the tobacco delivered by his county hears to a million pounds. The election Sept., 15th will be held in the county seats at the cort houses and will be conducted in each county by electiin officers chosen by the growers. From these election of it icers griwers may obtain pallots and may vote them Sept., 15th either in person or by mail or messenger.

FLORENCE FAIR

The thirty-eighth annual Florence Fair has passed into history, and was attended by a large number of people. Saturday, as usual, was the banner day, in so far as attendance is concerned. The directors had exerted every effort to make the fair a success. For the first time a night show was given on the stage that had been erected in the ring, this show consisted of a number of vaudeville acts. The largest and best display of poultry, that had ever been exhibited at any former fairs, was one of the features. There was not only a large number of entries but they were of the best bred birds in the United States. One of the 'exhibitors refused an offer of $75 for a white Wyandote cockerel and pullet. Mr. James Huey, of Union, had a fine display of his best barred Rocks, and was awarded a number of the ties. Mr. Huey's Barred Rocks are prize winners at any poultry show.

The entries in the cattle and sheep, classes were up to the usual translard, but the entries in the different classes of hogs, other than the pig clubs, were below the average and standard of past fairs. The premiums in the baby show were awarded first to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rachal, of Union, and second to Mr. and Mrs. Raiph, White, of Petersburg.

A WUNDERFUL OBJECT LESSON.

The law of supply and demand works slowly but with irredistible force.

A few months ago we were told by political prophets that gasoline tould be a dollar a gallon unless that old industry was placed under political control. But high prices resulted in undreamed of crude oil output and stored spites of petroleum products.

Old man Supply and Demand must sit back and laugh. He knows that present low prices will discourage output of crude oil and when our reserve supply is low the price will begin to climb in order to encourage production.

POULTRY CULLING CAMPAIGN. LAST TWO WEEKS IN SEPT., NOT MORE BUT BETTER POUL-

The last half of September will be devoted to poultry culling. Nearly one-third of the hens in the country are not laying enough eggs to Justify their board and keep this winter. If we hope to make bigger profits from which we have the loafer help poultry, culling out the loafer help so the profits from the loafer help so the loafer help in three ways, lat it saves the feed bill thru the winter saves the feed bill thru the winter are not no eggs, 2nd it makes house room for the pullet crop compoultry houses are too crowded thru the winter months. 3rd and most important, one has none but the better hens to get their hatching eggs from heat spring. At that time practically all hens will be laying and one will as likely save eggs from the poorest as the beat layers to hatch their pullet crop from the ensuing year.

J. R. Smyth, Poultry Dept, Lexington, will be with us on several days of this culling work, and we hope to reach as many people as possible. There are over 2,000 flocks in the country, so it would be impossible to reach everyone. A goodly number have already spoken already for a poultry culling demonstration and we can reach a great many more, however, we are asking that those having this culling done will cooperate by inviting in a group of there heighbors. A complete list of the place and time of demonstrations will be published the week before.

There are a larged y laying than the possible to reach a great more will be published the week before.

will be published the week before.

There are the published was a large of the published that are already laying than has been called to our attention any offier year. Since it is so much more profitable to have the pullet crop to lay in November and December we recommend that they be kept on full feed now instead of waiting until they start laying. Let them run to mash in self feeder, cafiteria style.

If you want a culling demonstra-tion phone or write, W. D. Sutton, County Agt., Burlington, Ky.

WHAT'S A MILLION?

Few people can readily under-stand what a million of anything is. To comprehend how large a number 1,000,000 is, let us consider it in units of time. 1,000,000 minutes is a year and 10 months.

1,000,000 minutes is a year and to months.
1,000,000 hours is 114 years.

1,000,000 days is 2,714 years.
Next to time that is, life—we value dollars in this commercial civilization. Let us figure 1,000,000 in both time and dollars, to see how long a period it required to see how long a period it required to see how long a period it required to see a sectian daily saving, not counting Sundays. Handling Material.

In sections of the country where the supply of sand and crushed stone or gravel for concrete road construction must be shipped by rail, the rethod of unloading from open-top ct 3 becomes an important item to the contractor.

In the sarly large of concrete road construction, there are the contractor of the contractor of the sarly large of concrete road construction, there are the car with shovels, and so long as wages were low, the expense of this method was not prohibitive. With the advent of motor trucks for hauling concrete meterials, the cost of the delay at the car began to be felt.

Of course, the most economical method for handling such materials in large quantities is by means of a derrick or crane equipped with a clan shell bucket. However, it is only where large operations are in prospect that equipment of this kind can be utilized.

The photograph shows how an ingenious contractor in California solved this particular problem. A pit along side the track was excavated into which the trucks were driven. The bottom of the pit was low enough so that the top of the truck was just about even with the bottom of the goodola car.

Between the pit and the side track was cantry crane.

bottom of the pit was low enough so that the top of the truck was just about even with the bottom of the gondola car.

Between the pit and the side track he erected a simple gantry crane, which was steadled by guy ropes. The crane was pivoted at the bottom of the legs so that it could swing away from the track when an empty car was being taken away and a full one spotted. The gantry crane supports a shallow hopper, one edge of which hangs on the side of the car and the other is suppended by ropes leading to the top of the crane, and at the outer and lower edge is a 'tail gate which permits the bin to be dumped into the walling truck below.

This bin is filled by means of an ordinary slip scraper which operates inside the car. A small gasoline holstling engine anchored at one side of the track operates a pull line through a pulley in the top of the crane, and thence to the baie of the silp scraper. In this way two men inside the car car very quickly and with little effort. The filling of this bin is done white an empty truck is being driven into the pit, so that with the arrival of an empty truck there is always a loading waiting for it.

TYPES OF ROAD MATERIALS

There Has Been Great Change Highways Suitable for All Traf-fic Conditions.

In the last ten years there has been great change in the type of road suitable for traffic conditions on main traveled highwars, according to engineers of the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. In 1010 plain and surface-treated macadam were considered among the highest types of paving for country roads and a large percentage, of the mileage was of the two types. These was a small mileage of brick and concrete and a somewhat greater inleage of bituninous macadam, but the plain and surface-treated macadam were the predominant types of hard-surfaced roads. How great the change has been is shown by figures recently issued by the bureau. On federal-aid roads completed between 1016 and 1920 only 2.9 per cent 1016 and 1920 only 3.9 per cent; cents formerly constituted such a small part of the mileage were as follows: Bluminous macadam, 3.1 per cent; ibituminous concrete, 6.8 per cent; center concrete, 19.8 per cent and brick, 4.1 per cent.

In Jail in Few Hours.

Last Wednesday Dr. Rankin return ed from a call and parked his Ford automobile in front of his residence in Value, and infect of his residence in Value, and finding that his machine had been stolen, he immediately notified Sheriff Hume who telephoned to all surrounding towns. Wednesday morning Deputy Sheriff Thomas Percival received information that the machine had been seen on the Dixie Highway south of Walton and went in pursuit, and in a short time located the machine where it had been abandoned on account of no gasoline in the tank, the men who had stolen the machine were found and arrested by Deputy Percival and returned to Walton. Dr. Rankin had in his automobile a case of surgical instruments together with his medicine case, and these had been thrownfrom the auto by the thieves, but were located in a short time on information given by the two mer who had taken the machine. Deputy were located in a short time on in-formation given by the two men who had taken the machine. Deputy Percival brought the two men who took the machine before County Judge Riddell, and they gave their names as Walter Saline, 20, Dorset, Obio, and Raymond Danehy, 17, of Cleveland, Orio. They admitted the theft and were committed to jail to await the action of the next grand jury.

STOCK JUDGING TEAM

STOCK JUDGINU TEAM

The Boone County Stock Judging Team is receiving the finishing touch of the state of the state contest to be held at the Kentucky State Fair, September 10 to 15. County Agent Sutton, who has been coaching the team feels that they are a winning quartet of amateur judges, as they have a high batting average for placing rings of livestock correctly, and that they can be depended on to place the ribbons right on any ring led before them at the fair.

This team is selected from active club members and the following boys have been selected: Wilford Aylor, East Bend, Kussell Louden, Wet erloo, Arthur Maurer, Burlington and Willie Wesler, Florence.

These boys will be in contest with 30 to 40 teams from as many different counties throughout the state. The classes of livestock to be judged are Dairy Cattle, Beef Cattle and Hogs.

On Tuesday afternoon, Aug., 28th,

On Tuesday afternoon, Aug., 28th, the following boys and girls: Missees Alta Mae Rouse, Mary Louise Rensker, Corine Nichols. Susan Nichols. Aline Taylor, Mary Ellen Bridgewater, Lucille Rice, and Mildred Shinke. Carrol Rice, John Brown. Wm. and Bailey Greenup enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon with Mrs. Greenup at their home on the East Bend pike. After the games cake and lemonade was served.

The coal operators of Pennsylvania maintain a special police force of about 6,000. Heretofore these men were appointed regardless of their qualifications and were not under state discipline or regulation. Governor Pinchot proposes to change all this. Hereafter these "specials" must be vouched for by two reputable citizens, and any violation of the state police regulations will result in instant dismissal.

Second Game

When play was called for the second game about five hundred fans were on hand to witness the contest. White and Herzog for Burlington and Paige and Westfall for Bromley were the batteries announced. The local boys got busy in the first inning and scored one run when Zumbiel doubled to left center and Ryle also doubled to center. They scored another in the fourth on White's double and E. Acra's single. The fifth inning also produced another run when H. Acra singled, Zumbiel singled over second, Acra scored on the throw in and Zumbiel took second. Their last taly was made in the seventh on E. Acra's double to center and took second on H. Acra's out and scored when Brady singled to left. White held the visitors in check at all times and they could score in only one inning the fourth when W. Anderson singled to left, took second on Westfield's bunt and scored on Matthr's single to center. Martin also singled to center, but when Henderson struck out the agony was over and White was in odanger during the balance of the game. The score by innings:

Germany has concluded a trade agreement with Russia whereby the latter will provide Germany with 20,000,000 poods of grain by the end of November, one half to be paid in cash and the other half in German-made goods. Mr. Ronapoff, head of the Russia- Soviet Trade Commission, says that in his opinion Russia is in a position to supply Germany with 200,000,000 poods of grain this year if asked to do so. This grain no doubt pays in part for the great air fleet Germany is constituting for Russia for which it is proposed to exprend more than 2, 000,000 gold rubbes this year, It is a curlous fact that Russia has copied the United States in the organization of its fleet, which is called the "Voluntary Air Fleet Incorporated." The funds are volontarily contributed.

THE AGRICULTURAL FAIRS

guaged by its cost.

THA AGRICULTURAL FAIRS
One of the oldest forms of rural activity is the agricultural fair, and the antiquity of this institution and its flourishing condition all over the United States shows what an important function these fairs fulfill.
They are one of the leading means by which farmers sell their products, advertise their wares and gain credit for superior production.

Every county in the U. S. needs one or more agricultural fairs, and the community should take hold to support them, and assist in hold to support them, and assist in securing the right results from them.

In many localities such fairs are financially successivi, as the result of having interesting entertainment and drawing a big crowd. Yet they may not be the educational forces they ought to be. They are an occasion if rightly handled, when modern ideas of agriculture can be communicated to the farmers, and demonstrations and exhibits of such methods should always be presented.
There ought to be a general disposition among the farm and country people to show their prducts at these fairs. Farmers in some places get the idea that the premiums are likely to go to the best known exhibitors, and that a young fellow who is just atarting in or a newcomer would not stand much chance of getting recognition. But exhibiting at these fairs counts more than people realize, and it gives an impression over a wide area that a man is ambitious and is in the game and getting ahead.

Great care should be shown inselecting the amusements, entertainment features, and side shows which are presented. Plenty of shows of lov moral tone are circulating about the country and trying to get a chance to open up at good country fairs. But such exhibits are a curse wherever they go, and should be rigorously excluded.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST SHIP

If you can step-up your imagination so that it can clearly visualize a mastedonic ocean liner 256 feet long, 100 feet wide and 102 feet deep, without including the smoke stacks and weighing 64,000 tons, you can form an impression of the new Queen of the Atlantic—The Majestic.

This—the world's largest ship—makes regular trips between America's largest city, New York, Southampton, England, and Cherbourg, France, in five days fast, and to land.

The bold of the Majestic contains a battery of forty-eight, boliers which supply steam to four glant turbine engines, which drigs a like number of carew propellers. This power plant develops the amazing capacity of 100,000 home power. CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE IN CUBA

TROUBLE IN CUBA.

The trouble in Cuba seems to be a fight between American-controlled railway interests and Americandominated sugar interests. The tariff bill, for the taxation of the sugar railroads and sugar ports here, for the benefit of private railways and the "national" ports they tap, has been brewing for about three months. The consolidation of the Cuban railways, the plausible and constructive part of the scheme, has been a subject of negotiation-for a much longer period. But assurance of profit has been lacking and when Colonel Tarafa, who is president of the small Cuba Northern Railway, in Santa Clara and Camaguey provinces, the main sugar belt, proposed the present scheme, he argued that only by securing a monopoly and by driving out of the transportation business, sugar roads and ports, could consolidation be made to pay.

WINTER WHEAT AND RYE.

Wheat—A reduction of 15 per cent or 7,177 acres in the acreage to be sown to winter wheat this fall is indicated by 25,000 reports from farmers reporting for their own farms to the United States Department of Agriculture, if their intentions of August 1 are carried out.

If a reduction of 15 per cent is made this year in the sown acreage from last year, it would make a total sown acreage they are sown acreage from last year, it would make a total sown acreage this year of about 39,200,000 acres, compared with 46,379,000 acres acreally sown last fall of which 39,750,000 acres were harvested, there having been an abandonment of 14.8 per cent.

Compared with the pre-war (190), 1913) average annual sowing of 33, 741,000 acres the intended sowing this fall is an increase of 16.2 per cent, and compared with the pre-war average annual harvested acreage of 30,236,000 acres, an increase of 29.6 per cent.

The average annual abandonment of winter wheat acreage for the past ten years has been 9.3 per cent—the reduction in acreage due to abandonment ranging from 1 to 31 per cent. If the average annual abandonment occurs this winter it would leave about 35,860,000 acres to be harvested next summer.

The Rare Albino.

In the struggle for life among creatures of the wild, the albinos have a very poor chance of extstence. They are handlcapped by their defective eyesight and their conspicuous appearance, and it is seldom that they reach maturity. Now and again, however, in different parts of the globe, exceptions are recorded and quite recently the London Zoological society has been fortunate in securing a pure albino monkey captured at Morogoro. has been fortunate in securing a pure ablino monkey captured at Morogoro. Tanganyika Territory. The ordinary monkey of this species is greenish in color, with sooty-black face and hands, and hazel-brown eyes. In the white specimen the hair is snowy white, the naked hands and feet are pale flesh-color, and the eyes pinkish, with the lifs faintly blue. The albino is the result of a congenital deficiency of coloring matter in animals, persons or plants. Among persons the albino was first observed by the Portuguese in certain West African negroes.

of the Kansas State Agricultural college.
Cows producing milk require large quantities of water. They will diminish their milk flow rather than drink cold water so often furnished them.
Water which is stored in tanks in winter should be warmed with a tank heater, says Mr. Gearhart. These are made to burn conl, wood, or corncobs. When only one or two cows are to be watered, a teakettle of boiling water will take the chill off of the half barrel of water necessary for them.

GRADING OF CREAM IS URGED

University Farm.

Pointing out that cream grading is the surest means of producing good butter, A. J. McGuire, dairy specialists with the university agricultural extension service, adds that Eastern markets are scoring butter closer than ever before. "There is real competition," he says, "for the best markets, and if co-operative creamerles are to hold such markets they must make good butter and see that it is sedd as such. A cream-cooling tank on every farm makes cream grading easier, both for creamery men and for patrons. Are you ursing cream cooling and cleanliness of cream separators? This should precede cream grading."

Dusty Hays or Freds That Are Liabl to Taint Milk Should Be Given After Milking.

Hays that are dusty or feeds that are liable to taint milk should be fed after the cow is unliked. A time method for feeding is to feed hat three times a day and singe and grain twice. If grain is fed only once the cow is liable to have diesettle runbles and this will affect the milk flow.

DANGEROUS WAY TO DRIVE CAR

NOT UNDERSTOOD

Purpose of Mechanism Is to Deliver Equal Amount of Power to Each Rear Wheel.

to Each Rear Wheel.

How many automobile owners know what a differential is and of what use it is? A writer asserts that eyen a large proportion know little, if anything about it.

On all Cars with beveled gear drive such as is used on the modern passenger cars, the differential is located in the rear axis and its purpose is to deliver an equal amount of power from the engine to each of the rear drive wheels, regardless of whether own is going faster or slower than the other.

What Differential Does.

In driving a car in a circle, or any part of a circle, the outer wheel has to travel a longer distance than the one on the inside, with the result that it must turn around a greater number of times. If the rear axie were made of one solid piece connecting the two drive wheels, it would then he impossible for one wheel to turn more rapidly than the other, with the result that the one would have to slip when rounding a curve. Thus, the differential permits one wheel to turn faster than the other, thereby keeping either of them from skidding on the ground. At the same time, it is so constructed that if will sturning the fastest as on the other. The construction of the differential is established to a construction of the differential is desirable.

twisting torque on the wheel which is turning the fastest as on the other one.

The construction of the differential is similar in principle to an "evener" which is placed hack of a team of horses to divide the load between the two. The evener divides the load hetween the two so that, regardless of whether one horse is ahead of or to the rear of the other, he will be pulling approximately his share of the load. In the rear axle of a cur is placed the differential which divides the load from the engine, equally between the two drive wheels, the same as the evener divides the load between the lorses. The equalizing action of the differential can be seen by jacking up the rear wheels of the car, then putting the gara lever in low speed. Disengage the emergency brake and turn one of the wheels forward or backward, at the same time watching the effect on the opposite wheel. You will notice that the other wheel under a truncing directly opposite to the way in which the one is going. This peculiar action has led to many interesting stories from new motorists when they have discovered it.

While the differential is a necessity in the average car, it has some disadvantages which have not yet been satisfactorily overcome. In case one wheel drops into a deep mothole so that the tire cannot get traction, the differential will allow this wheel to transacround and prevents any more power being delivered to the opposite wheel, which might pull the ear out were it not for the differential action. Different mechanical devices have been shown at various times to lock two rear wheels, together under circumstances of this kind. Due to the complex nature of these devices, however, they have never come into commercial use.

A great many patented types of differentials have been brought out at different times to do away with this spinning of one wheel when in a pippery spot, but so far the standard type of bevel gear differential is used on practically all standard makes of cars, which seems to prove that nothing better has been brought out so far.

THEFT BUREAU URGES OWNER TO KNOW CAR

Many Stolen Machines Could Not Be Identified.

A comprehensive report of auto thefts for the last year just issued by the theft bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California shows that year by year there are more cars belog stolen.

In southern California during 1922 there were nearly $3,00,000 worth of automobiles taken by thief gangs. It is believed that this tremendous activity is conducted by professional groups of thieves organized on a commercial basis, aithough a certain per cent of the cars are taken for joy riding purposes.

There were 2,788 machin

There were 2,788 machines stolen in Los Angeles alone during 1922, as compared to 2,757 taken in 1921. The figures for 1921 show a material advance over those of 1920, according to the theft hureau report.

An investigation of the facts relating to the theft of each automobile shows that in most instances the car was stoden because the owner failed to lock it or even left the keys in the lock. Such carelessness as this encourages the stealing of machines throughout the state, say the authorities. Although the greatest number of cars stolen have been recovered, great difficulty has been experienced in getting them back because the owners could not give proper information to the detectives in identifying their property, even failing to know their own license or engine numbers.

Every motorist should place private or engine numbers.

Every motorist should place private identification marks somewhere on his car in a place where the thieves are not likely to find and destroy it. It is hoped to cut down the number of thefts during 1923.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

Beginning October 15, a series of conferences of far-reaching importance to the cause of education, will take place in Washington deving the blen. "Proceeding of the Supreme Council of the Thirty-third and Last Degree, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Muson-ry, of the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States.

This body, composed of the heads of Scottish Rite Masonry in thirty-three of the forty-eight States, legislates for the Consistories of the Southern Jurisdiction; as the Mother Council of all Supreme Councils of the World, its enactments have an Important influence on Consistories and their members all over the world.

The Supreme Council has taken and Important influence on Conistories and their members all over the world.

The Supreme Council has taken an unqualified stand in favor of education. The program supported by the Council stands for a Federal Ald for Schools, a National University at Washington supported by the Government, the compulsory wood English as the language of instruction in grammar grades, and quate education of aliens, especially in Americanism, complete separation of Church and State, with especial emphasis upon opposition to the appropriation of public money for sectarian institutions, the American public school, equal educational opportunities for all, and most emphasically, the inculcation of parriotism, ove of the fag, respect for law and order, and undying loyality to constitutional government.

In its session about to be held, measures in furtherance of these principle's will be discussed. As two hundred and fifty thousand Scottish Rite Masons are particularly, and three million Master Masons are generally interested, the results of these delicrations can justly be sall to be of great importance to the body politic.

THE PEACE SPIRIT

THE PEACE SPIRIT

International agreements for preservation of peace are accessing an ensential element in the carott to stop war. But war will continue until the peace spirit pervades the peoples of the earth.

It is necessary not merely that the masses of the people shall hate war, which they do now, but that they show discrimination and intelligence wear this grows a state of the people are intelligence wear this grows. The American people are intelligence means the people are intelligent enough so that they are not likely to be fooled by their government into a needless war. But the European ationns have been thus deceived many times. The masses of the German people did not probably want war in 1914, But their ruley fooled them into thinking that war was necessary and inevitable and that they must strike the first blow. As long as people can be so easily cajoled into war measures, perament peace is a difficult proposition.

Concrete roads are going to work a wonderful transformation in this country within the next few years. Today our freight is being handled by the railroads at an exorbitant cost. We are at the mercy of the roads, and therefore we are forced to pay the high rates they charge. It is a big item in our heavy burden of daily expense.

But some day, when the highways of the country have been generally concreted, great truck caravans will be passing over them daily, moving our freight at greatly reduced rates. A freight train can only ge where its tracks are lead. A ment truck can go to any place where the roads are not to the railway station for his freight. He pays the railroad its charge and the drayman another charge before he receives his goods. A few years hence the motor truck will roll up to his door and unload his freight at his feet.

L'es on the cards for the not distant future. We hope you live to employ its enefits.

Congressman Britten exposes a condition which prevails on the steamship Leviathon, operated by the U. S. Shipping Board, which should make the red blood of an American boail.

the ship is printed in the French Jaryunge.

An American passenger unable to read French (and but few of them can) is also unable to intelligently order a meal, for even the waiters are unable to interpret many of the jaw breakers for him.

If the shipping board is so ashamed of our own language that it must have the menus printed in a foreign tongue that is unknown to mine-tenths of our people, then the shipping board should be consistent resign, and move to France. Over there they might learn to speak English.

Should a woman guilty of murder be hung, as would a man under like conditions?

Woman has been declared in congressional enactment to be the equal of man. Being man's equal in law, should she share the same punishment for crime that the law inflicts upon an, or should a milder forne of punishment be provided for her because she is a woman?

Man's natural instinct is to shield and protect a woman. Should that instinct be entirely submerged when punishment for crime is to be inflicted?

pushament for crime is to be in-flicted?

It is an interesting question upon which the men, at least, of the country will never agree.

If it could be put to a popular vote of the men it is doubtless if any woman would ever be hung, re-gardless of the enormity of her crime.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY

ANOTHER TRAGEDY

The American people are watching a tragedy that is being enacted in Chicago.

The mayor of that city—Mr. Dever—is enforcing the anti-booze law without fear or favor, and the three mailtions of citizens are gasping with annixement over the manner which he is carrying out his announced ditermination to make the city "bone dry."

The advocates of clean city government are overloyed.

Chicago, which a few weeks ago was as wet as the Atlantic ocean, is rapidly becoming as dry as the desert of Sahara.

sert of Sahara.

One lone man—the mayor— is doing what all of the federal prohibition and law enforcement officials combined have dismally failed to do. rie is making the city dry.

The real tragedy, however, it yet to come.

A man engaged in such a laudable metraking for the benefit of an utire city should receive the united upport of all law abiding people. An outsider would naturally execut to see popular demonstrations of approval held in all parts of the ity, in order to extend to the mayor he moral support to which he is entitled, irrespective of political considerations

he moral supporting the definition of the considerations. But the majority of Chicago's better class of citizens" do not carry their convictions that far. They are delighted at the turn of affairs. Being delighted costs nothing—not even an effort.

Getting behind the mayor in his wopping up' campaign, however, is another thing. It requires an effort, and it necessitates the taking of a definite public stand for law enfercement and common decency.

Many of them think that is not good business.' They have customers on both sides.

ferceinent and common decency.

Others view the mopping up process with a miphacent approval that begins and ends with complacent typroval.

The mayor will win out for a time out in the end he will be erucified by the underwoold and the booze amore and the unscrupilous politicians for the sole reason that this case is "better class of citizens" will be too indifferent or too timid to interfere.

be too indifferent or too timid to interfere.

And want is true of Chicago is also the of nearly every city in the United States—and of many smaller enes.

It is the tragedy of attempting to do right—a lesson which every law abiding citizen the countryr ove should take to himself.

Delegates from fully sixty Ohio Valley cities will assemble at the Cincinnati convention with a united purpose to compel recognition by Congress of the importance of the completion of the Ohio River improvements at the earliest possible date. It will be pointed out at this convention that althout he canalized river is equal to the six tracks trunk line traversing the bounaries of six states for more than 1,000 miles, these magnificent transportation facilities cannot be efciently utilized until a nine foot stage for he river have been accomplished from Pittsburgh to Cairo. CENTRALIZED SCHOOLS

CENTRALIZED SCHOOLS

One reason why centralized schools are steadily growing more popular in rural districts, is that they tend to give children a much wider acquaintance. A child who attends a small district school, usually sees there only the children of one portion of the community. But if he goes to a centralized school, he meets children from all over the town.

meets children from all over the town.

This helps a bashful boy or girl to get over shyness and take a good part in the life of the school. It draws them out and helps them make more of themselves.

"This is the forest primeval."

—Evangeline

We have few places where we can see forest primeval; but many places where we can see forest primeval in the making—for a primeval forest is not, as its name might seem to indi-cate, an original growth. It is the final step in a forest progression, an ultimate forest that will stand until cut by man or razed by un lee sheet or fired by lighthim. The early ex-periments in white pine reforestation failed because the experimenters fulled to treat white pine as the final step in an orderly progression.

to treat white pine as the final step in an orderly progression.

Take the burnel-over slashings of our northland, for example. There the aspen and birch seed in and cover the scarced ground within a decade. The inquisitive will observe that almost from the beginning a war is waged between these two lovely, graceful species. Both cast a delicate fretwork of shade, but the shade of the birch is a bit the denser. Where a birch spreads a twig above a twig, of aspen, he latter is starved for ampliful, and it is but a inatter of a couple of decades until the aspen is crowded out. Meanwhile seedlings of the maple and other denser-shaded deciduous trees are beginning to crowd the birch. While the birch is being choked out, the pine and hemlock seed in and begin to dispute place with the victor.

The attinuate forest differs in the species that make it, up in different regions. In one place it will be pine and hemlock; in unother caws; and so on.

Despite the failure of the League of Nations to effectively function at the time of the Greece Ltalian crisis, it must be admited that the League has done some good things, particularly in restoring a financial and economic condition in Austria, and in other humanitarian lines. But as an agency to prevent war it never will be because war will not be preveted by universal agreement until coxisting human nature is changed. As a practical demonstration of this fact it will be recalled that when the nations gathered washington at the arms conference, the U. S. Great Littain, Japan and France entered into a solemn agreement that poison gas should be outlived forever as a weapon of war. And yet each one of these nations, our own included, are going ahead with the manufacture and development of poison gas of even more deadly nature, as an instrument of war.

There are towns that are really and truly slow, so slow that slowed up until they stopped entirely. But not being able to stand still these began going backward, very slowly at first, but their speed necessarily increases and it is only a question of time until they go plump into oblivion, a deep ditch lying behind every individual, community or institution, and it is well filled with wrecked ventures that looked good when they were first launched.

Have you ever known anyone to make a success of a venture, or with a business or a trade or profession, with which he was disastisfied?

You may know some who manage to live under conditions, but they are making no headway.

These are often classed as conservative, but they are oftener, but drances to the progress of others. The true conservative is by no means a hindrance to substantial progress and moral and social developments. He is simply one wholooks before he leaps.

If you are dissatisfied with your town or community or with your town or community or with your they not have town or community or with your they not have they are their best you have. In many instances, you will find that they are no better than what you have. And wherein they sexed in some thinys you have only to get busy in order to beat their very best.

It is home pride, loyality to your town and enthusiasm that makes towns, cities, farms and homes!

It is home pride, loyality to your town and enthusiasm that makes towns, cities, farms and homes thrive and boom.

thrive and boom.

The man or woman who is forever compaining about their situation and condition, and wishing they were somewhere ese, or differently occupied, never can have a good home, or build up a successful business.

or build up a successful business.

Loyality to your home and the institutions around you, enthusiasm for the schemes you have in mind, and a desire to achieve success will make your town, your business, your farm, or your home, the best there is for you.

Bear in mind hat it is you that makes success and not, the things have success and not the things to the control you. These may help some, but if you do not employ them wisely you will fail of the success of which you dreamed and thought yourself worthy.

HANDLING EWES RIGHT

Lambs have been produced on the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station farm at a rate as high as 140 to every 100 ewes by giving the ewes the right kind of feed and plenty of exercise from the time they are bred until lambing time of the state of healthy lambs.

Just how the right kind of feed and plenty of exercise for the ewes make the lamb crop pay is shown by the results of tests on the station farm. One year the bred ewes were kept closely housed and fed straw instead of clover hay, with the result that they produced lambs at the rate of 71 for every 100 ewes. The percentage of lambs not only was low, but many of them also were weak. The next year the ewes wero given plenty of excesse and fed clover hay with the result that lambs were produced at the rate of 140 for every 100 ewes, almost twice the number produced the year before.

140 for every 100 ewes, almost twice the number produced the year before.

"Little trouble is experienced with pregnant ewes on the experiment station farm and usually a large percentage of strong, healthy lambs are obtained, Mr. Horlachorsaid. "About the first of November we drench the ewes with bluestone (copper sulphate) for stomach worms and begin feeding stomach and pound a day for each ewe is eating from two to three pounds a day."

"The grain ration is made of equal parts by weight of oats and bran. During the four or five weeks just before lambing each ewe gets from a half to three-fourths of a pound of this mixture daily. Oats, bran and clover or alaifa hay all furnish plenty of the food nutrients and mineral matter that the pregnant ewe needs."

"Exercise is provided by giving the ewes the run of a bluegrass pasture or a rye field every day. Early fall sown rye makes fine pasture and gives the ewes a great deal of nour-ishment. The ewes will get all the exercise they need in average winter weather by grazing over a rye field."

All things are as we think they are.

It is therefore, easy to see that failure to use the mind spells faill ure in almost any undertaking, if not all of them. And the reverse is true—that we succeed in just such measure as we think, and that the higher we think the higher our success.

The happiest persons are not those who have the largest share of material belongings, but those who have made the fullest use of their mentality, gaining thereby such wealth as eannot be taken away, even though the bottom fall out of all markets.

Lubrication of Chassis Is Too Often Neglected.

Often Neglected.

The modern motorist by this time has become, as a rule, well educated in the cure of his car, save in the single respect of attending to the lubrication of the chassis. The average motorist has learned, perhaps, by the experience of paying $40 or $50 for a new battery, that it pays to attend regularly to its filling and testing.

He has learned, perhaps, through paying for new bearings for his motor that it pays to keep plenty of oil in his crank case.

But it is the average motorist who does not realize the importance of chassis inbirection, because he never has realized sharply just what his neglect in this respect costs him.

He is more apt, very humanis, to biame it upon the maker of the cur, and telis his friends that his car has not "stood up" the way it should. If there were some way of making the motorist realize that it is nothing more or less than his own neglect of chassis librucation that has heen the cause of most of his troubles it would go a long way toward prolonging the ee Most Satisfactory Repair In Binding Up Break in Elec-tric Inculation.

Electric tape is not the best mate-rial with which to patch leaky in-sulation on the high tension wires, as it is isosened by oil getting on it. This is because oil dissolves the rub-her compound which makes it stick. Use ordinary cotton tape to bind np the break in the insulation, and after-ward apply shellac liberally. This does not look so well, but makes a more satisfactory repair.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

A nation lives or dies as its patriotism waxes or wanes. Any movement, then, which increases love of country, veneration for its principles, admiration of its great men, respect for its laws, and honor for its fig., is a patriotic movement. On November lat the cornerations of the magnificant memorial to Washington, the Mason, will be laid at Alerandria, Vz. While the erection of a great temple, commemorative of George Washington, the Mason is essentially a Masonic movement, this project must nevertheless be considered as of the highest importance from the standpoint of the increase of patriotism. Washington has been honored by his country in a great stone shaft and the naming of its capital for him. His remains lie near his home, which is kept in perfect order for the veneration of visitors a society of women. As a statesman, a wiss country in a great stone shaft and act, he is honored and quoted above all who have helped guide this country on its course. But there is room for more moments to impress upon our youth, our visitors, our immigrants, ourselves, the debt we owe to the great man whose vision was so clear, whose common sense was consecuted the struggling young nation was so strong that it has permeated our entire national life.

Washinton loved Masonry. He was Master of his Lodge. He was no mere lodge member; he worked at the Craft. He believed in it; labored for it, quoted it, lived its principles. What Washington found good, no leaser man can afford to ignore. It is, therefore, most fitting that when the Masons of this country unite to honor him, the country as a whole evaluate their great building for what it is; not only a tribute to the man and Mason; but a great stimulus for patriotism, the creation yet unborn may stand and shoot bome of the largent stimulus for patriotism, the creation yet unborn may stand and shoot some of the benefits and he man and floot to ignore. It is, therefore, most fitting that when the Masons of this country has grown from small beginnings to be the greatest nation in

THE ELECTION

Tuesday November 6th, there will be opened in each precinct in Boone county a place where each and every resident of Boone county, entitled thereto, can cast his or her vote. At the election we will select the men and women to take charge of and execute the governmental functions of the State of Kentucky for the next four years. The two dominant political parties have candid ates to fill the different offices and it is not only your privilege, but, your solm duty to go to the polls on November 6th, 1923, and cast your vote for the candidates of you choice. We can not expect to have the business of our great, state properly taken care of unless it is in the hands of competent persons, and we can not have competent persons elected for that purpose unless we go to the polls and txercise our right of suffrage in support of men of standing. This applies to the women of our county just the same as to the men, as they have been given that right and should exercise the right to vote. If the good women of this county will take an interest in elections, they can by their votes, select those to office who will give their bat efforts to the performance of the duties of the office. We urge all men and women, to go to the polls at the sensing election and cast their votes for the candidates of their choice. Tuesday November 6th, there will

THE TRAPPING SEASON.

THE TRAPPING SEASON.

The coming season offers the promise of an excellent opportunity for the trapper. In fact the prosspects are brighter for the coming season than at any other time with the exception of 1919 and 1920. The fur market seems to have recovered from the pose conditions of the last two years and the majority of the dealers find themselves with very few coon, mink, muskrat and wolf pelts on hand.

Indications are that fur will be more popular this year than ever before creating a much wider demand. On account of this fact manifecturers are now coming into the market for additional winter requirements. About the only fur that the dealers have in any quantity is opossum. However, within the next few months this stock will be used by also. There are certain types of foreign fur available but the read demand is for staple American hides.

The trappers located in sections where these furthering animats abound have a mighty good opportunity of earlying in on these conditions. Another thing that enters into this is the fact that during the past two years very little trapping has been done. This means that there should be an abundance of the fur-hearers to be caught this year. Therefore the trapper is offered the very best possible advantage: A large supply to draw from in the first place and in on these conditions should begin reaking their plans at once. This is the fact their plans at once. This is the time of the year when those who are going to trap shoulge their equipment in proper shape and they whould purchase the additional traps and supplies that they will need during the season.

WATER SCARCE--PASTURES BRY. FEED DAIRY COWS NOW.

FEED DAIRY COWS NOW.

On a great many farms at this time stock water is very scarce, and this is particularly lowering the production of the diary cow. Since milk is approximately 85 per cent water, warried water water water water water water water of feeds are digested. Lack of water make animals take less feed, because of slowing down of digestion. Every effort should be made to keep a supply of water available to dairy cows all the time.

The average size cow producing two to three gallons of milk per day requires 100 to 125 pounds of grass each day to maintain her body weight and produce this amount of milk. If she falls to find this amount to eat she either falls off in production of gives off her body fats, threeby losing weight. With pastures as dry and in weight. ## BANKERS HOLD MEETING.

The Boone County Bankers Association met at the court house Thursday, October 18th. The meeting was called to order by President. R. C. Greene, of Walton Those present were D. B. Wallace, Chas. Youell, A. B. Renaker, W. D. Cropper, J. L. Frazier, Chas. Riley, William Stephens and L. K. Cropper. Hon.—Jno. L. Vest was present and reported the progress he had made in regard to the assessment of bank shares and that there was yet one question to be decided. The tax rate that applies to that class of property. This question is now before the Court of Appeals and will be decided by that tribunal in a short time.

Edward Graham, wife and a Mr Butler, of Greensburg, Ind., were calling on friends in Burlington, last Friday. It has been 39 years since Ed. left the old town, but he enjoys coming back and looking over the scenes of his boyhood and meeting with his old playmates of boyhood days. He called at the Recorder office and had his subscription.

It is the ambition of many farm boys to teach school; it is the ambition of most school; eachers to become professional men—lawyers, doctors, etc., it is the ambition of most professional men to become a banker; it is the ambition of most bankers to become a trust magnate; it is the ambition of every trust magnate to the ambition of every trust magnate to the able some day to retire on a farm, just where the cycle began.—Vanceburg Sun.

Dr. W. W. Renter, Federal Veterinarian, who has been in the north part of the county for the past three weeks testing cows, reports that out of about five hundred tested, he has found but six that earliested with titherculosis. Miss Julia Dinsmore, of Belle-ciew, in company with Mrs. Frank Cutchens, passed thru Burlington, last Thursday, enroute to Sante, Barbara, California, where they will spend the winter. Miss Julia's many friends in this part of the county, wish for her a pleasant sojourn in the Golden Gate State.

J. H. Feely, one of our good friends from Idlewild neighborhood, was a visitor to the Hub, last Friedy. Mr. Feely knows what it takes to make the type setters smile, and, he called at this office and renewed his subscription, that he may ride in our joy-wagon another year without being "jostled."

Mrs. C. E. Stephens, of Bullitts-ville neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington, last Friday. Mrs. Lorena Cropper accompanied her home for a few days visit. Mrs. Stephens and her husband are very-staunch friends of the Recorder, and we are glad to have them in our big-reading circle.

Twenty-nine counties in Kentucky were listed in the "pauper" class, with expenses running higher than revenue, in the annual report made to Gov. Edwin P. Morrow by John J. Craig, State Auditor. This represents a decrease of fifty counties since 1920, according to Arthur-Doyle, Deputy State Auditor.

Fifty-five persons entered pleas of guilty to the charge of possessing liquor when the first batch of seventy-seven indicaterist were called in the Federal court by Judge Cocharan in Coungton, last week. Fines aggregating more than $11,000 were assessed by the court.

Fannie, wife of Henry Bohan-an, colored, who resides on James T. Gaines' farm near Idlewild, died in a Cincinnati hosyital Monday of last week, and her remains were inter-red in the colored cemetery at Bur-lington, last Thursday afternoon.

The basement of B. T. Kelly's new residence in Maple Grove" addition to Burlington, is completed, and the carpenters will soon begin-work on the building. This is the first building to be erected in the new addition.

The Boone county tobacco growers have their crop in the house. When it is stripped there will be all kinds—good, green, house-burn and frost bitten. But from the barns, Boone county will have an average crop this year.

Elmer Kirkpatrick, O. S. Eddins, Rex Berkshire and Howard Kirkpat-ick spent last Wednesday evening with Edward Hawes and family in Covington, and attended the Rev. Bob Jones revival meeting.

B. H. Berkshire, of Petersrburg passed through Burlington, last week, with thirty five head of feed-ing cattle he was taking to C. C. Hughes' farin out on the East Bend pike to graze.

J. E. Gaines and son, Harold, sold one day last week, a fine five-year old raddle mare to a Mr. Lippen-cott, President of Union Stock Yards, Cincinnati, for $500.00.

Only eleven days until the elec-tion. Let every man and woman in the county turn out on Tuesday, No-vember 6th, and cast their vote.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Penn spent that latter part of last week with their son, Furnish Penn and family, and attended Bob Jones revival meeting.

The farmers are about thru cut-ting corn and sowing small grain in Boone county. The corn crop is not as good as was expected.

"I suppose anyhody could raise corn around here," ventured the traveler.

"Anybody that's a mind to learn how and willing to work? You have to know how to raise corn; you have to know how to raise the crop. I've got the best machinery anywhere around and it pays. A man can't afford these days to buy inferior stock or tools; and the he's got to keep everlastingly on the job."

A child came running out into the yard, brown as a berry, but thin and sleepy looking.

"How many children have you?" asked the truveler.

"Nine!" replied the raiser of prize hogs. "Some family, ch."

"And I suppose you and your wife have made a study of children?"

"Now you're kidlin' me! I reckon a prize family of children?"

"Now you're kidlin' me! I reckon you're family god enough for their dal is good enough for their dal is good enough for them."

"But is if? You don't expect your small pigs to eat what your big hogs eat. You don't make prize hogs that way, when you're growing a prize pig you don't say 'It's going to get no more than it's mother had,' but 'What does this pig meed?"—and that pig won't get it unless you give it to him. You know every point of a prize hog; do you know every point of a prize for year old girl or boy? Or a 10-year old? Or a 2-year old?"

"You you're cultivator under the shed. It's new this year and I don't want to keep good machinery you just have to the condition of a prize wet and ruxt. If you want to keep good machinery you just have to the got the pig of the cultivator under the shed.

TEACHING PATRIOTISM

Part of the business of the Youth's Companion is cuttivating a fine patriotism—the love of country; not wrong, but right. The Youth's Companion started the movement for pitting the flag on the schoolhouse, it formulated the Piedge of Allegiance to the Flag that is repeated today in practically every schoolhouse in the United States. It has for a long-time, now, been running a cries of patriotic covers picturing striking events in the naton's history. Painted by the best historical illustrators in the country, they are reproduced in full color at frequent intervals on The Companion's cover. It is worth a year's subscription to The Compainon to have these scenes in our building of the nation pictured as graphically. They help greatly in fxing the memory of the event related in the school histories.

The 52 issues of 1924 will be crowded with serial stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive.

FIELDS A REAL DIRT FARMER

Says He'll Carry State by 100,000 If Other Counties De As Well As His Own

Chaltenging the truthulness of the report made in Ropublican newspapers of a political meeting held by Charles I. Dawson, Republican comines for Governor, at Olive Hill, William J. Fields, Democratic party leader, declared last week in Shepherdaville that he believed certain statements in the article published to be false. Mr. Fields held aloft a copy of the newspaper, declaring, "I hold in my hand a copy of one of the Republican organs of the State which contains a report of the meeting of Mr. Dawson at Olive Hill. The article was sent from Ashland, Ky., which is forty miles from Olive Hill. It purports that the Republican nominee, standing on the banks of the Tygart river, declared banks of the Tygart river, declared of the Tygart river, the would carry Carter that he would carry Carter County in the coming election.

"I may or may not carry Carler County." It has always been a Republican strongford. The county is the proposition of the county of the coun

WHY IS PATERNALISM

NECESSARY There is a strong tendency in this country toward paternalism, from which it is only another step to So-country toward paternalism, from which it is only another step to Sociulizm.

Every man who aspres to political distinction is cudgeling his brain to think of some new law that he can have passed that will take some of the responsibility off the shoulders of the individual and place it upon the ga-criment.

Fur statute books are piling up indefinitely, and the things if which we complain are constantly heromically in the complain and the complain are constantly heromical statute that is placed upon the books to gratify some budding statesman who wants the credit of doing something, adds to the growing contempt tor law in general.

Ger-l citizenship is the thing to be desired, and the way to make a good citizen is to place responsibilities upon him. Let him understand that f things are away in his community he is at least partly to blame. Do not let him think that the trouble is with the law.

It may be true that a very large proportion of existing lawsare class laws—enacted for the benefit of some combination or corporation, but more and more laws about one-half of those in force should be nullified, and it would and could be done if the right kind of men were elected by the people. This may not be orthodox party argumant, but loyalty community, to state and to nation should receive first consideration at the hands of every true American citizen.

CO-OPERATION IS THE "LIFE OF TRADE."

"LIFE OF TRADE."

Henry Ford is quoted as saying:
"Everything that goes into the building of the Ford ear will be owned or controlled by the Ford Motor Company. We are very close to that point right now. By controlling every process of manufacture that goes into the ultimate produce we will be able to make a machine at a lower price. False profits will be eliminated all along the line and when they cease to exist the buying public will have full value for its money."

This plan is

This plan is not original with Mr. Ford. Years ago the Standard Oil Company adopted this plan and acquired ownership of pipe mills, brass fittings, engines, lamp and lamp chimneys, oil burring stoves, gas wells and manufacuring plants, tank teamships and railroads—everything that related in any mannerwith the oil business. The Standard Oil Company gave to the world a practical demonstration of the principle of co-operation. Prices of kerosene and other oil products were reduced from 100 to 500 per cent., and profits enormously increased. Others have since followed that lead until it has been adopted by the Endicoti, Jehnson Shoe Company, Sears, Roebuck & Co., the A. P. stores, the meat packing houses, Marshall Field Co., the U. S. Steel Corporation, the big electric companies, the General Motors and dozens of others.

What the manufacturing world has done is doing, successfully and profitably, sets an example of what agriculturalists must do. The tobacco growers of the South have made a winder all stort; the cotton growers of the South have made a winder all stort; the cotton growers of the South have made a winder all stort; the cotton growers of the South have made a winder all stort; the cotton growers of the South have made a winder all stort; the cotton growers of the South have made a winder all stort; the cotton growers of the South have made a winder all stort; the cotton growers of the South have made a winder and the dairymen of New York, are all fellowing the example, and even unions are breaking into the banking business in a gagantic scale.

It has been conclusively demonstrated that the old system of coyapetition is the death of trade, in stead of the life of trade, and that co-operation and organization in production and in marketing is the of loromotives or timothy, of these co-operation and organization in production and in marketing is the of loromotives or timothy, of the stock or of automobiles.

It may be a discouraging outlook for the ambitious young men who aspires to establish a

ERTRA SESSION IS PROBABLE.

All indications now point—to an extra session of Congress to be held in November, for the express purpose of taking action for the relief of the wheat growers. The ordinary business routine will he so great at the regular session it may be impossible to dispose of this most important matter until early next spring, and the pressure brought by the farmers' organizations throughout the wheat belt is such a character that Congressional leaders compelled to take notice. The farmers of Washington, Oregos, idaho, Montana, the two Dakotas, Minn. and other states have practically ggreed that the most feasible and immediate farm relief will be found in reviving the war-time Grain Corporaton, empowered and authorized to purchase wheat in the open market when it reaches a price lower than $1.75 a bushel testing fifty-eight pounds. Wheat growers thruout the U. S. have been asked to coperate in furthering this united effort by selling no wheat and offering none for future delivery, until some definite measure of relief has been effected. ## 92,000 MEMBERS.

According to repotts from the field service department of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association at Lexington, the membership has grown to more than 92,000 and new contracts are coming in every day from all sections of the Burley district, including Virginia, East Tennessee and Masouri, recently organized. In spite of the prediction that East Tennessee would ignore the Burley Association, several hundred of the best farmers of that section of the state have joined with their fellow farmers of middle Tennessee to market their tobacco cooperatively.

Suits have perpared and the past week were filed against every contract breaker in Kentucky against whom the leld service was able to find evidence of violations. In many cases growers who dumped their crops have been given and have accepted the chance to settle without a lawsuit.

Several of the wealthy farmers of Fayette county, Ky, were among those sued by the association. President and General Managev James C. Stone spoke at Springfield, Ill., Thursday night and at Centrali. Friday night in a campaign to organize the wheat growers of that state into a o-operative. Mr. Stone's address was devoted mostly to the inprovement in conditions in the Burley district from the co-operative marketing of tobacco.

Lexington, Ky,—Close to 300 Ky, farm boys and girls who are getting; at 22 purebred baby beef calves ready; for the second annual fat cattle show and sale to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, Nov. 22 and 23, are out to repeat this year and win grand championship honors again over adult feeders, as they diy in the first show last year, according to M. S. Garside, assistant state leader of junior agricultural alub work at the College of Agriculture, who is in charge of the baby beef projects that the club dembers are carying on.

Warren county youngsters, who won the carload championship last year, will have anither good load this year in the 20 Angus calves that are being fed by 15 boys and one girl. The young feeders have the animals to the point where they are being kept up in dry lots and being fed a ration of corn and about one and a half to two and a half pounde of cetto-inseed meal a day each. The calves are each getting from 12 to 17 pounds of corn a day along with clover hay. This artion has proved a good beef maker and is putting an average gain of from two to threspeounds a day on each of the calves. Between now and the time of the show the young Warren county feelers expect to put at least an extra 100 pounds of beef on each of their rilimiss, which now overage 350 pounds.

BASE BALL.

On account of being disappointed by the Lawrenceburg ball team not coming as per agreement, Manager Berkshire, not to be outdone, pulled off a "spectacular" game last Saturday afternoon between the "Old Stiffs" and a team from Grange Hall neight-orhood. At the end of the ninth inning the score stood 7 to 7, and as Old Soi had disappeared behind the hills in the west, casting a shadow of darkness over the diamond reminding some of the "Old Stiffs" that the cows had to be milched, they threw up the sponge and the curtain war drawn over the 1923 base ball season.

THE COMING OF THE

Two more lower front teeth 7 to 9 months.

Two more lower front teeth 9 to 10 months.

Two more upper front teeth 9 to 10 months.

Four back (molar) teeth—one on each of side of the jaw teeth appear 10 to 14 months.

Four more molars—back of all the others—appear about 2 years.
Four cuspid ("eye" and "stom-oach" teeth) appear at 2 to two and one-half years.

Teething is a normal process and should—not cause illness if the baby-iswell and properly fed and cared for. There may be an increase in saliva and some fretfulness due to pressure of the teeth against the gums, but fever and diarrhoea are not caused by the cutting of teeth. Important as the mineral salts and vitamins are to the teeth of the unborn child they are of equal importance during the first years of is life. Soon after birth the process of forming the enamel on the primanent teeth is begun and at six to eight months of age it is well advanced. It was not until coparatively recently that we realized the teeth of the adults are largely made or ruined in infancy. Children suffering from richets and diseases of milnutrition have chalky bones and teeth; the bones of the jaw become norrower, the teeth are delayed and irregular crocked and crowled in position and are soft and non resistant to decay.

NOW BEST TIME OF YEAR TO PICK BREEDING HENS

Just now is the best time of the year to go through the poultry flock and pick out the hens that are to be used in special breeding pens next spring, J. E. Humphrey, poultry extension specialist at the College of Agriculture says. If the job is put off until spring it is hard to tell the difference between the good layers and those that are worthless as breeders, he says. Just as soon as the hens have been picked out they should be marked with lee hand. ... that they can be recognized in the spring when the breeding season start's.

Flocks in different parts of the stare that have been certified by the college and that are being handled as demonstrations to show the value of recommended poultry practices offer striking proof that the number of eggs laid by most any flock can be boosted by picking out fine beat layers and mating them with desirable males from hen that have records as egg layers.

LIFE, LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

The Declaration of Independence and the preamble of the American Constitution state plainly the objects of the separation from Great Britain on the one hand and the advantages which it-was expected woull be attained through the establishment of the Federal Government on the other. They may be made up in the words "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Organized government, then, in America means that individuals are entitled to protection from assault, arreat, and invasion of property, except as provided by law. It signifies that in this country one may pursue any exceptation of pleasure so long as it does not interfere with the rights and privileges of others. It means that individuals are entitled to innumerable advantages and comforts provided by public agencies such as schools, good roads, sewers, light plants, and water systems.

For these purposes and innumerable others every man, woman and child in the country, directly or indirectly, contributes to the expenses of the Federal State and local government. The bill is small for the services and the advantages which are levied and collected.

THE POWER OF FOOTBALL

It is wonderful what a power the game of football has obtained over the heart of American youth. And its power extends over age as well. Elderly alumni of colleges become gloomy of their alma-mater's team does not hold its own, but if they get a winning acore from the old college they yell and prance as if they were boys.

Football calls for the exertion of every bit of power that an athlete can possess. The good player must be a brainy fellow, he must have a gift of quick thinking and elusive strategy, he must have a heroic diaregy, he must have a heroic diaregy hurt. He must throw himself into the molecular heroid of the possibility of getting hurt. He must throw himself into the molecular heroid of the possibility of the property of the prop

This new bumper is being tested by the Chicago safety council in its efforts to cope with the dee lly results of "speedmanla." By means, of a mechanical device the driver is able to drop the bumper as a fender and a furled aproal is extended upward at the same time, thus making a canvas hammock on the front of the automobile which literally scoops the unfortunate vicilin into it and carries him along unburt until the car can be brought to a stop. Photograph shows the new bumper as it looks when opened and picks up the endangered pedestrian unburt and carries him along.

PIPE SUPPORTS SIMPLE GARAGE

Solution of Serious Problem for Man Who Is Constantly Moving Around.

The garage question is a serious proposition for many men who do not own their own homes or whe are compelled by their business to move from place to place. After building five garages in as many towns or locations, I designed two knock-down or portable garages and constructed the one illustrated, writes R. C. Liebe in the Popular Science Monthly.

The framework consists of %-in. galvanized pipe and fittings. There are three separate frames, one on each end and one in the middle. The pipe is thoroughly braced with wooden strips boited on with stove boits.

Holes 3-16 in. in diameter are drilled in the posts and roof sections about 14 in. apart 'throughout, and 4-in. dessed wooden strips are botted on to form the sheathing. The roof is covered with heavy tar paper, and the sides and ends with 8-oz tenting. The duck is then given a coat of auto top dressing, so that the color of the garage throughout is black.

With a heiper I can make this garage ready for my car in several hours, and it takes even less time to pull it down and pack it up in bundles for shipment.

The piping required for a garage of the wide, 8 ft. high and 16 ft. long consists of six posts 8 ft. long, six "ratters" of ft. long, and nine 45-degree ells. For a Ford car the garage can be 1 ft. less both in length and width. The diagram is practically self explanatory. The builder can brace the garage as much as he thinks necessary to meet weather conditions. Iron spikes driven into the ends of the posts and then set into the ground serve to anchor the structure. If a wooden floor is to be used, a sufficient number of sleepers should be laid to support the heavy planking.

Each of the three pipe frames is held together by a ¼-in. rod boited through the posts and tightened from the outside. Canvas curtains can be hung on this rod to form the cheapest kind of door, or other doors, which are pipe frames covered with canwas or wooden strips and tar paper or both, can be

HARDEST USE GIVEN TIRES IN SUMMER

Inspection Necessary Before Tours Are Started.

Not only during the warm months is the average passenger car driven at least twice as far daily as in the winter season, but it usually is driven very much faster. For these reasons tires are subjected to more severe service, and troubles with them come very nuch closer together, in point of time, during this period of heavy driving, which calls for a careful inspection and revision of the equipment before long distance trips and vacations are to be made.

o be made. In considering the stock of tires on to be made.

In considering the stock of tires on hand the mileage already delivered by each and its age form the best guides as to what future service may be expected of it. Knowing how far a certain tire has run and subtracting this distance from the average mileage obtained from similar tires on the same car gives the most dependable ruses as to its "expectancy"—to borrow a term from the life insurance man.

A useful check upon any such estimate is obtainable from its appearance and an expert tire man, if he has a casing off, so that a thorough examination is possible, may make some quite accurate predictions, but much less can be learned from inspecting a casing on the wheel.

If the tread has cut through it in places which have begun to raise sand bilisters; if there are any swellings in the surface or any indications of upproaching failure along the side walls, no great dependence for future service should be placed in it, but if the tread is practically perfect, barring normal wear, and no signs of weakness are apparent, the casing can be relied upon for the additional mileage indicated by service previously rendered and past experience.

The chief reason for estimating the expected mileage that remains in the experience. The chief reason for estimating the expected mileage that semains in the casings on the wheels is in order to provide requisite spare tire equipment, it going without saying that the extra casings carried must be more numerous and of better quality if the tires in service are old and worn than as if they are all new.

RESPONSIBLE FOR BLOWOUTS

Difficulty Often May Bs Traced Back for Months When Casing Re-ceived Hard Joit,

It is not always, easy to trace the causs of a blowout. The tire may have been kept carefully inflated at the proper figure, tread cuts filled and beads watched, yet the casing gives out.

out. More often than not difficulty of this kind must be traced back for months when the casing received a severe blow, weakening the fabric-structure and then, as time-wears-on, the entire casing becomes affected and blows out when least expected.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

The biennial session of the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite at Washington was opened by a memorial service in honor of Albert Pike, great Mason poet, soldier, scholar, and patriot.

General Pike is surely taking his place in history as one of the greatest of Americans. His services are being more and more recognized every year as being fundamental to many American institutions. There has never been any question of the greatness of the place he holds in the heart of every Mason, or the magnitude of the debt the fraternity owes to the man who gave voice to so many of the principles of the Order in such beautiful words and with such convincing logic as to confound its enemies and cemera; its friends in ever firmer bonds. But... like many another truly great men... Albert Pike cared nothing for piaudits of the multitude, less for advertisement, of himself, and less of all, for anything which took time from his life work. And so it was thry his labors, know only at first to means and more upon the holy ground of national veneration, not only as a true American, but as a truly great American, but as a truly great American, to whose influence this country already owes an unpayable debt, which must become. Increasingly larger as the years go by.

No hope abides in the present leadership of the Republican party for anything better in Kentucky. Mr. Dewson has been a part of and height of the present state administration. He endorses it. A vote for him is a vote to endorse it and to perpetuate 'to for four years more. The same forces which have dominated the Morrow administration, and force. ### TRAVELING IN THE RUTS

In many communitits, if you make a novel or original proposition, the objection is usually raised that "it has never been done that way before." In many oroganizations, the simple statement of that objection is enough to kill any idea, no matter how goad.

It is of course easy to follow in the ruts. The old machine moves along fairly smoothly in the old track that it has traveled many times before.

It is of course easy to follow in the ruts. The old machine moves along fairly smoothly in the old track that it has traveled many times before.

The field of business competition, and the world of civic advance, are full of eager minded people, who are not content with the former standards of achievement. With new ideas, and improved methods, the business world and community life are being transformed. The people and the communities that are content to travel in the old ruts will find themselves deeper in he mud with every year.

As the Editor Sees It.

Since the advent of fall you have, we presume, been doing some cleaning up around the home premises. It's the natural thing to do, and most people do it.

But why stop at the home premises? Why can we not have the vacant lotos and thealleyways and the byways generally cleaned of the refuse that collects from one year to another.

byways generally cleaned of the tefuse that collects from one year to another.

It is rather discouraging to view your own place, spick, span and fresh, and then gaze upon an alley that resembles the days of cave men.
We admit that what is overybody's business is nobody's business, but wit insist that Ameria has beone great within a short space of timbecause its citizens have proventhemselves capable of coping with every emergency, of taking advantage of every opportunity.

That capability should be extended to giving the town a complete cleanup as often as required, anstead of merely in spots.

This town is well supplied with citizens who are capable of "doing things."

Why not have them done?

Why not have them done?

Passing the buck is a great game that is being worked to a frazzle, especially in the enforcement of the booze law.

Washington passes the buck to the states, and the states toss it back to Washington. Posecuting attorneys are convinced that its enforcement is the duty of the police, and the police have a holy horror of depriving the prosecutors of that exquisite pleasure. Even many judges on the benth view it with averagion because they do not know whirh way the wind will blow at the next elehtion. In the meantime if you and to go anywhere and your car balks all you have to do is to vet aboat and paddle alony in the sea of booze.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

The science of thewhite race is doing its utmost to free the Asiativaccs of blights that have been their curse for iountless centuries. Much progress has been accomplished, although as yet only the surface has been, scratched.

In China especially millions of people die annually from the plague and like causes, hese lives might be saved if It.e Asiatir, antions would adopt ser' enforce the sanitary methods in vouge in the western world.

The Panama canal zone was a deadly plague spot when Gen. Goe-thals went there to dig the big cans!, Money and American medical officers have since transformed it into one of the healthiest spots in Latin, America.

It is just such a transformation.

one of the healthiest spots in LatinAmerica.

It is just such a transformation that science is endeavoring to create among the Asiatic peoples, and eventually it will succeed.

And what then?

In Asia they breed like feas, but the plague sweeps them off about as rapidly as they arrive. That is about the only thing that keeps down the population—that prevents it from literally running away with itself.

When western methods are introduced and death rate is kept down to normal it is only a question of time when the white races will be only a handful as compared to the yellow and the brown and the black men.

Are we, as humanitarians, forging the weapon with which we are to be ultimately conquered or destroyed?

It's an interesting question and worth careful consideration.

THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR.

HE QUESTION OF THE HOUR.

Birth control is becoming a burning question in many sections of the orntry, especially in the large cities. It has staunch advocates and bitter denunciators. It is praised and damned, but keeps right on climbing into the limelight and demanding consideration.

Without birth there can be no new luman life, of course; but with too many births in a family life often becomes a long existence of misery and disappointment.

The opponents of birth control claim that it is criminal and contrary to the laws of God. It advocates contend that it is the true solution of the future of the white race.

lution of the future of the white race.

It is undoubtedly true that a porfamily overburdened with children faces only poverty and endless drudgery. The children do not receive the care and attention they require and to which they are entitled. A high school education is about all that such a child can expect, and rany are deprived of even that. And Piferacy can hardly hope to cope with trained intelligence and enfahrment.

Pichtenment.

The parents in such a family are overburdened with work, are denied many of the pleasures of life, and are often without necessary medical attention.

And yet, is birth control contrary ti the laws of God?

Within the next few years it will be one of the dominant questions. hefore the American people.

Like the snowball, it gathers size as it rolls along.

There is no joke about the farmer eding all of us, and boarding him-feeding all of us, and boarding himself.

Have you ever stopped to think of the part the farmer plays in this glorious country of ours?

How far will you have to run your ancestry back before you find your forebears working early and late in the woods, chopping, grubbing, and clearing up the ground that become the homestead in which your father or mother was reared?

It isn't very far for the native born American, and he should be nroud of the fact since the best mea of America have come from American farsmis, or from near by.

You have only to go back a little ican farsms, or from near by.

You have only to go back a little reyould the scope of your memory, perhaps, to discover that the American gentleman was an American farmer. George Washington, Thos.
lefferson, Patrick Henry or a large majority of, those who led the establishment of the nation were farmers.

And, if you read history you can hardly help knowing that from the ver the nation, and that those who now constitute its most dependablesupport are farmers.

When you come to figure the thing down to dots you will discover that the farmer is the only independent man, really in the country. He it is who is first served with the fruits of the earth, therefore the last to fear death or disaster thru the failure of the ground to produce abundantly.

The fact that the best, the wisest.

The fact that the best, the wisest and the greatest of men were farn bred, and farm raised ought to caus, everyone of us to regard the farn and the farmer with great respect.

The farmer were been through and the farmer with great respect.

The farmer has been thrown into the shade somewhat by thrifty trades-people. And it is largely his own fault that his home is not as beautiful, complete and comfortable as theirs, for he has the ground whereon to build, and the means wherewithal to establish and make his home a place of pleasant resort.

But now a place of pleasant resort.

his home a place of pleasant resort.

But, never mind, the farmer will get there in good time. The city and town willnot always demand the brightest and the best of the flocks of boys and girls, and instead of leaving the ruder farm house for the dingy city, these bright, busy fellows will devote themselves to the interesting and profitable task of converting the farm into a country place with all the comforts of a town place, and more, beside making the fields bloom and bear as they have never done before.

He is coming, the farmer is, sure.

NO PARTY CONTROL

OF NEXTCONGRESS The politial line-up of the next ongress will probably be as folows: In the Senate—Republicans 50; democrats, 43; Third Party, 2 va-

In the Senate—Republicans 50; Democrats, 43; Third Party, 2 varancy, 1.

In the House—Republicans 222; Democrats, 200; Third Party, 3, vacancies 10.

This line-up shows that the Republicans have an indicated majority of only 19 in the House. There are more than 19 kepublicans in the House in almost any Congress who can always be counted upon to vote against the party organization. This would seem to show that the Republican party will have a very small majority, if any, for party measures in the next House.

In the Senate, the Republican majority is cut down to four or five. As there are some 10 Progressives in the next House, who was the senate and the senate in the Republicans, it seems certain that the dominant party will not have control of the Senate in the next Congress.

Therefore, the political line-up of the Sixty-seyenth Congress, when the Republicans had a large working majority in the Senate and an even larger working majority in the House.

Since the last Congressional election, three Senators and 14 Representatives resigned.

Says Republicans Tried To Put Boards In Folitics.

If it had not been for the Democrats in the state senate, Reach licans would have passed an act taking away the strength from the law under which the bi-partisan board of charlites and corrections with the penal and putting the state heard of charlites and corrections with the penal and charlitable institutions of the state back into partisar, politics and in the hands of the political spoilwans. Frank E. Daugherty, of Bardstown, Democratic fominee for attorney general, declares.

Mr. Daugherty was a member of the state senate at the time.

"It is utterly unfair for the Republican party to attempt to take credit for taking the institutions of the state out of politics. The Republican party, under William O. Bradley, put the institutions in politics.

"Democrats and Republicans alike have forced them to be taken out. "Under a bill introduced by Stite Senator Hiram Brock, of Harisn, the Republican floor leader in the state senate, the legislation under which the board operates would have virtually been erased and their effectiveness on the hoard reduced to nothingness, "I be been defeated by the Democrats in the senate.

"The Brock bill would have made this bi-partisan board nothing more than an honorary body. They would have sift complet their offices but they could not have functioned, and I charge the Republican party with trying to put the state's institutions back into politics instead of trying to keep them out.

"The Republican party has never succeeded itself in Kentucky and the reason for this is that it has always deceived the state and broken faith with its own people."

Cash Prizes Offered For Most Republican Votes in Lewis

The extremity to wince and depublican party has been driven in the present campaign to obtain votes for Charles I. Dawson, the nomines for governor, is revealed by the fact that in Leslie county a cash prize is being offered, to be given to each school district in each precinct which has the highest percentage of Republican votes.

Copies of the handbills which have been circulated advertising this fact have been distributed through the county.

The handbill reads:

The state of the same of the state of the st

"Perlie County
"Pirece wollars in cash will be given to ...th school district in the voting precinct in Leslic county which votes the highest per cent of Republican votes based on the poil book. For example Beech Fork polled 122 Republican votes and if they are 122 Republican votes the per cent would be one hundred. Wilder Pranch polled 298 Republican votes and in order to some 100 per cent they must vote 236, thus the little precinct and the big precinct the placed on the same basis. The prize of $15.00 will be given to the school districts lying in the precinct which wins and the children and teacher can spend it as they please, for presents, for basketball or for hooks, etc.

AND ANIMALS

People who have never tried life on a farm have no idea of the satisfaction that comes to a normal minded man or woman from living with growing things. There is a wonderful sense of companionship in farm animals. The m<sub>h</sub>'s who trea's them kindly finds they are warm friends, and there is something almost human in the response that they give to the considerate master. Even the flowers and vegetables in the garden seem almost to have personality. They make a grateful response to the effort put forth to rescue them from weeds and to give them water in the dry times, and seem to say "thank you" by redoubling their efforts to grow and flourish. There are many rewards of happiness in this contact with nature, which is more satisfying their artificial pleasures.

DAVID'S FIRST YEAR

DAVID'S FIRST YEAR AT SCHOOL.

AT SCHOOL.

Many little children are becoming acquainted with their first teacher. They are telling their mothers about her at night. Perhaps they refuse to shawer questions about her, but bely initiate her in talking to the baby, or in driving the cows home from the pasture, they sing as she goes. She is making them over and they are recording the fact in many ways.

goes. She is making them over and they are recording the fact in many f ways.

Do the mothers know her? Invite her home, mother, and see the young sor's pride as he watches her eat your delicious rolls and baked apples. She seems to like them almost as 'well as he and father do.

The teacher will thereafter seem different to your son David. She has sat at the family table and has helped mother with the dishes. She is not a far away person that a boy needs to be afraid of. She is like the dear Aunt Jane who comes to the house some times; a guest the family will always be glad to entertain.

Father handed her the paper when mother left to put the last touches to the meal and she told father how interested the big boys and girls are in the daily paper to school. David wonders how soon he can learn to read well enough to go to the school reading table and read the daily paper. He means to work very hard at reading so he can do it before long.

When the new teacher left she told mother how glad she is to know that itwat has such a happy home; when the lattice the can learn to read well to the daily paper. He means to work very hard at reading so he can do it before long.

When the new teacher left she told mother how glad she is to know that itwat has such a happy home; when the teacher, mother said:

"Mother, at one time, taught shool, David, and she has not forwer than the districts where she was invited to the homes."

SOCIALIZING THE HIGH SCHOOL PUPIL.

SOCIALIZING THE HIGH SCHOOL PUPIL.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the high school of the United States, in response to an insistent public demand, have introduced much material into various subjects of the curriculums offered in an effort to meet those needs of pupils which grow out of social orgenization and have quite generally reorganized class room method to the same end. High schools generally have gone much further than this, however, in ways not so generally known. In many schools today the secondary pupils participate quite freely in schoolgovernmenand through extra-curriculum activities are getting more active training through extra-curriculum activities which have large socializing

THE JUMEL MANSION

The Robert Morris house, more re-cently called the Jumel Mansion, lo-cated near One Hundred and Sixtleth street and Amsterdam avenue, in the city of New York, is one of the most famous of all the historic buildings in that greatest of all American cities, Well preserved, it is a splendid speci-men of Georgian architecture.

men of Georgian architecture.

As history goes, Colonel Robert Morris of the Forty-seventh British regiment and a comrade-in-arms of General George Washington, purchased the property and erected this maniston which he subsequently presented to his bride, in 1763, General Washington occupied the place in 1776, while 8,000 volunteer soldiers camped in the neighborhood, buring a battle which resulted in the capture of Fort Washington, his house was the center of operations. In 1777 it served as the leadquarters of the British arms. In 1778 it was occupied by General Baron Von Kuypaušen and his German following as Hessian hendquarters.

Following the close of the Revolutionary war, this building was familiarly known as Calumet inn. Stage coaches operating between New York eity and Athany changed horses at this point. President Washington and his caline figured here in 1700.

In 1810 Stephen Jumel, a French wine merchant of fame and fortune, purchased this mansion, restored it to its condition in the time of Washington. Junel died in 1832. The following year Mme, Jumel married the illustrious Asron Burr who, in 1801, was elected vice president of the United States, and whe shot and killed the celebrated Alexander Hamilton in a duel which was the outgrowth of a political feind, at Weehawken, New Jersey, in 1804. Subsequently, Autorney Chiase, who studied have in Burr's office and who married a niece of Mme, Jumel, necupied this house for 50 years.

(Falmouth Outlook.)

Every citizen in the large cities is growling with a frog-horn voice over the high rents they are paying. They call the property owners "rent hogs," and say there is no reason forments being so high. Here is one reason. Every city is head-over-heels in debt with bond issues. When thee bond issues were voted almost every renter voted for them under the impression that they would not bear their part of the burden in increase. I taxation, and that property owners would pay the bill. The facts are the renters are the ones who are paying the deht. cople who rent property are sure to place rents high enough to pay all taxes and upkeep and get 6 per cent on the investment. The renters should bear this in mind when bond issues are to be voted upon.

when bond issues are to be voted upon.

This is a very expensive age in which to live, especially for those who want to "keep up with Lizzie." The great majority of the people can not find enjoyment in the sacred confines of their homes, and look unon those who do as back woodsmen. It is a restless age when folks have become saturated with a passion that the only way to have a good time is shake a leg, and it maters not in what direction they go, just so they are moving. The advent of the automobile is assisting us in this action, and it is proving very expensive, but everyhody has got to go to almost any home on Sunday and you will not find any one it home but the cat. He acts as sentine! It does the eity man a world of

It does the city man a world of good to come out and see the folks in the country town. It broadens his vision and gives him a truer knowledge of the real conditions that exist in the rural districts. Many for the first time wake up to the fact that only he "hick" lives ip the country. When he gets thoroughly acquainted he finds that there are as many rubes in the city as in the tall and uncut. Many of the leading business men in the great business centers are country bred and trained. This fact gives them a hunch on the business man who does not know the country folk. We gave the one hundred or more business men from Cincinnati a royal welcome Tuesday hundred or more business men from Cincinnat a royal welcome Tuesday morning, and it did us both good. We especially call the attention of the members of the Pendleton County Farmers Fire Insurance Co., to an article on the front page of this issue. It is of vial importance to every person who is carrying insurance inthis home company. There is an effort being made to have a law passed compelling mutual insurance companies to charge full stock company rates for insurance. If this law should be passed it would tractically destroy all mutual fire insurance companies that charge only the actual cost for insurance. It would tost the farmers of this county thousands of dollars in advanced insurance rates. It is our advanced ins

About eight years ago a farm boy in a remote section of Rawan County, N. C., joined a pig club which the county agent was organizing, and, as pig club members do, under the guidance of the county agent, he fed and cared for a pig, in this case a Poland China gilt. During the next year the county lost its extension agent. Recently when a new agent came to the county and visited this section he found, according to reports to the Unived States Departigent of Agriculture, that he club affember, J. E. Morgan, now grown and on his own farm, has kept up his club practices, has developed a herd of Poland China hogs of excellent-type, and is regarded as the bergrower in his community.

Next Tuesday is election day, when a State ticket and a legislature-will be elected. The women have been given the right to vote, and they should take an active purt in the selection of evandidates. The women should be as vitally interested as the men. They should study politics and know what the candidates stand for and be prepared to cast an intelligent ballot on election day. Many of the women did not nak or care for the right of franchise, but now that it has been thrust upon them, they should vote.

CAN GET FALL PIGS ON HIGHEST MARKET

Lexington, Ky.—Farmers have a chance to get fall pigs, that are just now a month or so old, on the highest hog market of the year, the May market, by giving them the right kind of care and good balanced rations through the winter, according to Prof. E. S. Good, head of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture. They can be put in shape for the market by that time if they have comfortable, dry quarters, the run of a rye orbarl ey pasture, and get all the grain that they will eat, he says.

"These young, succulent pastures would furnish enough protein and ash to make the pigs grow right, if it were not for the fact that pigs do not graze as much as they should in cold weather and at times during the winter the pasture is covered with snow. To offset-this some protein feed should be fed, and for the winter moved the seed with snow. To offset-this some protein feed should be fed, and for the winter the pasture is covered with snow. The Barred Plymouth Rock pullet was not fed for a record, but is one of seven sisters used in an experiment with sour skinmilk and various grain mixtures as feeds for the laying hens. That she has the blood of a heavy layer in her veins is shown by the fact that the seven pullets layed a total of 1,542 eggs in the 12 months just ended, giving each of them an average of about 220 eggs for the year.

The new record holder is an exceptionally well built hen, according to Mr. Martin. LEARN TO CONTROL

YOUR JONGUE

In the book of Proverbs there are observations about avoiding causes of quarrels, and Solomon says: "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver"

Be discreet in words. Don't take about ill health or sickness, Nothing is worse unless it is the actual endurance of these afflictions.

Talk happiness; talk health. "Say fou are well, or all is well with you, and God shall hear your ords and mane them true."

Self-control in speech is one of the most important things in life—ne of the cardinal virtues. The happiness of many a fair life is ruined by want of power to suppress the word of bitterness, contempt or any ger, even under what might be call; ed "reasonable provocation."

Unline women is that their talk is largely gossip; or the down the women is the talk is largely gossip; or the down the women they come in a moment after the gossip ended.

Do not malign your absent friends. What is friendship worth if the moment the person is out of sight the tongue that has professed affection becomes a poison fang, and the lips which gave the kiss utter words of ridicule? Refuse to let your ear become the graveyard of another's reputation. There are times when keeping still is wisdom; it is love; it is Christianity. Learn to control your tongue.

and assistance to Chapters listed under foreign operations.

Ready for Emergency Calis
The readiness of the American Red Cross to answer immediately with effective service in cases of emergency is an outstanding feature of its program that is universally recognized. During last year $525,000 'was spent for relief in 110 disasters, which was $207,500 in excess of budget provisions. This year $400,000 has been appropriated for this service. Since 1881 the Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000 in relief work following disasters.

Other budget items in the schedule for domestic operations include $1, 222,524.20 for service and assistance to the $,600 Chapters and their Branches; $80,000 for assistance to other organizations, particularly stressing child health activities; $194, 600 for Jusior Red Cross projects and service; $10,324.20 for assistance to Nurses' Training Schools, and for oth er activities $111,456 80 For supervision of service activities and general management of the entire American Red Cross tess than $225,500 is allotted

IN HEALTH CAMPAIGN

Extends Service to New Fields and Brings Healing Hope to Remote Sections.

Remote Sections.

"The supreme opportunity for leadership" for the American Red Cross is its health service. Thus a committee made up of prominent physicians, sanitarians and public health experts, after months of exhaustive study, reported and urged that not only should the Red Cross continue its present service, but should undertake a comprehensive educational campaign slong public health lines. The annual report of the American Red Cross, just issued, discloses that it thas grasped this opportunity in the fields of public health nursing, instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, nutrition work, first aid to the injured and in water life-saving. Health service is fundamentally, historically and practically an important function of the Red Cross, and each year marks its extension into new fields and along broader lines. In the Red Cross Nursing Service there are enrolled nearly 40,000 nurses, 20,000 of whom served during the World War. The past year Red Cross nurses were assigned to duty in isolated sections of Alaska and North Carollan and to work among the fishermen of Penobscot Bay, Me.

The Public Health Nursing Service, inaugurated by the American Red Cross in 1912, which operates chiefly in rural sections untouched by other public health spencies, has 1,038 Red Cross nurses working under the direction of Chapters. This work has won so high a regard that many of the nurses are taken over by the local authorities to maintain health services for their communities. Instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick is noting a steady advance. Since 1914 certificates were awarded and 65,901 students were under the instruction of 1,014 Red Cross nurses.

The benefits derived from meals balanced to meet each person's, pecul-iar needs is winning widespread rec-ognition through the work of the Red Cross Nutrition Service, particularly in the schools. During the school year 2,688 carried on regular instruc-tion in nutrition, reached more than 150,000 children and adults. More than 2,250 volunteers assisted in this work. Throughout the country 35,283 health meetings were held under Red Cross auspices, attended by approxi-mately 254,500 persons.

Annual Summons to Red Cross Banner On Armistice Day

question, "What is there for the Red Cross to do in time of peace?" What the American Red Cross did at once when this crushing earthquake disaster came without warning showed that it was ready on the instant with country-wide team work to carry out quickly and effectively the request of the President to lead the national effort for the relief of the many thousands of sufferers. Preparedness to take the field when relief is needed is a charter duty of the Red Cross. Without a membership enrolled in every community in the land this readiness would be impossible. That is why your dollar membership is most important.

It is imperative that the structure of the American Red Cross be made up of millions of individual units. Opening Armsitice Day, November 11, and closing with Thanksgirthg Day, November 29, the Roll call this year will penetrate to the safes affing the seven seas. The 3.600 Red Cross Chapters in the United-States will have their busy volunteers enrolling members during this period imbued with renewed enthusiasm due to the recent revival of effort when the call came from Japan.

Heavy Punishment Advocated For Fraud On Public.

Washington.—Educators in the Nation's Capital are heartily in favor of the movement to increase the punishment meted out in the several States for that offense against their laws which consists in selling to a person not entitled to it, a bogus diploma, which purports to have been given the purchaser by an educational institute.

A confession has just been made in St. Louis by a man who tells of having sold more than a thousand high school certificates to people who needed them to fulfill the requirement of alleged "colleges," which later sold them medical diplomas.

The various State medical boards and their examinations on be depended upon to eliminate the spurious and unqualified medical fraud, but if a man can sell high school diplomas to one class of young people, he can to another. As Washington educators point out the worth of a certificate from high school as regarded in the college, depends altogether upon its sincerity. If high schools graduate pupils honest, those pupils are honestly entitled to go forward on their certificates. If such certificates can be bought then the colleges of the country will soon refuse admittance on a certificate "Selling a school diploma is a fraud on the public, as bad as selling gold brick or making counter feit money," said one teacher. The law should be made more drastic, and those who fatten themselves at the expense of the education honest young people work so hard to obtain, should be drastically punished."

ONE WAL TO STOP WAR

ONE WAL TO STOP WAR

President Hibben, of Princetor University, says there s a certainty
if a war between France and Germany unless we interefere.

But should we interfere? What right do we possess, or in what manner would we be justified to Interfere? Great Britain has dominated old world events for two of three generations past, and has contributed to some extent in creating exsiting conditions. Now that France has become the domnant military power of Europe, England mists on getting the United States embroiled on some pretext or another to pluck the political and industrial chestnuts—just as we did in the World War. If there should be a war it will be a direct and necessary result of the criminal greed of more than

AROUSING PUBLIC OPINION

AROUSING PUBLIC OPINION
It seems to take a regular political upheaval, or at least a great amount of propaganda and agitation, to get many measures through congress which are urgently needed for the public good.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon recently remarked, for instance, in regard to the proposed constitutional amendment prohibiting the issue of any more tax exempt securities, that "tax exemption is repugnant to every principle of the American constitution," and that "if public oplnion could be aroused," the proposed amendment could be put through.

But this seems to many people put through.

But this seems to many people an abstract financial matter in which it is difficult to get interested. It is just one example of how hard it is to wake up to the changes that need to be made.

need to be made.

One reason for the same is that the time of the congressmen is vo largely taken up by importunate constituents who denand appointments to office and other special favors. The government needs less attention to merely personal and neigh borhood interests, and more work on the big problems.

on the big problems.

HE WAS A "GREAT" MAN

The death if Charles P. Steinmetz, aged 58, of the General Electric Co., removes perhaps the greatest inventor and electrical engineer the country has so far known. He came to this country when 24 years of age without a dollar. He was handicapped with very poor eyesight and a frail body, but his brain was abnormal and his capacity for hard mental work was marvelous. His life work was devoted to the uplif of humanity, and he spurned fabulous financial returns that might have come as the result of his work. Such men are indeed rare in this world, and their going out is recognized as a public calamity.

routine of woman's work. The toils of women have on the while been harder in the country than in the eity.

Yet the problems of country women are not wholly solved even when all the labor saving improvements are put in. The routine of doing the same thing day after day, of long hours of laborious toil, gets on the neres of many of them. City if we would be the entertainments and more variety looks good to them. If their husbands get discouraged with their own business prospects, a woman who is fretting over those conditions may be ready to urge him to pull up-stakes and quit the country home.

But if such people live in a town of neighborhood where the women are well organized, they are likely to get a different point of view. For a host of such women, the regular meeting of the woman's club or the sewing circle or the Ladies' Aid society is a bright spot in their routine, and it colors their whole lives. The interesting discussion of surrent themes, the talks upon literature and readings from good books, the pleasant social life, the new friendships formed, send many women back to the labors of sweeping and cooking and mending with a new feeling. They find out that the country town is not a lonely place after all. They can see that it gives better opportunities for friendship, and a broader life than can be found in the average city street. They discover that they can have wide horizons if they want to.

Epery country town needs organizations that shall give the women folks the social life that they need to color the monotenous round of toll, and shall oher them a broader vision of life.—Ex.

TALK AND ACTION

You can find many towns that have talked and talked and talked and talked about tlesirable projects for a score of years, but have accomplished little or nothing. If the same energy that had been put into talk, had been used in actual work, they would have made these improvements and would have gotten out of the way, and would have been ready for something else.

The majority of towns awake from their slumbers long enough so they are willing to talk about progress. But such talk often seems to be merely a form of amusement, and there is no achieving energy behind it.

Fortunately there have been s

there is no achieving energy hehind it.

Fortunately, there have been good number of folks who have been willing to act as well as talk. But we have our share of sleepers who are willing always to arouse upenough to talk about progress, but they rarely do anything about it.

Green night ever staged in Burlington was that of last Wednesday night. Masquaraders galore, every kind and every description were on the streets, and it was one time when everybody looked alike and acted alike.

The children of the Methodist church were given a Oallow'een masquerade party at the hone of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Eddins on Hallow'een evening. The young folks wore masy of every description. Games were played which were highly entertaining to both old and young. Doughnuts and hot chocolate was served and the guests expressed their appreciation of the good time-offeed them.

The Halloween party given by the members of the Bible Class of the Burlington Baptist church in the basement of the church brillding, brought-out an usually large crowd and was highly entertaining to both young and old. Many of those present were attired in picturesque cost-imes suitable for the occasion. The merry making continued until late in the evening.

The basement had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. A lungof sandwiches, salads, pies and coffee and cider was served.

The Junior B. Y. P. U. held their social in the basement of the church Saturday evening, and the young folks enjoyed the program, and expecially the lunch

Our price for good, sound and high testing mink is $3.65 per hundred weigh, delivered at our plant via truck at Cincinnati.

This price is paid direct to the independent dairymen, and no "MIDDLE MAN" figures in on this question.

Our Company has been established in business in Cincinnati for twenty-three years and enjoys most pleasant business relations with several hundred producers.

Our milk proposition is one of permanency, that is, we receive milk daily and pay our shippers every TEN DAYS. The independent dairpmen shipping milk to our plant become regular daily shippers, and it is very seldem that we lose a milk producer.

Now the point is this---start today to make arrangements for future shipments of milk to us every day. We are not members of any Co-operative Association because we believe in the policy of

According to the daily press a nasty mess of graft and corruption has been unearthed in the veterans bureau in Washington. The condition of our wounded soldiers is said to have been exploited for the financial gain of private individuals. So much for the story as it appears in press dispatches.

The president has ordered a thorough investigation, but what will the investigation amount to?

Powerful interests will be set to work in behalf of the thieves, if thisway they are Evidence will disappear. Witnesses will perjure themselves for a consideration, or thruften. Foot Treatments are some suggestions for keeping the feet happy.

A great deal more attention is paid to the face than to the feet, which may be quite proper, since the face shows most. But there is nothing so disastrous to good looks as thorough uncomfortable feet. Here, then are some suggestions for keeping the feet happy.

Make up the following inexpensive powser and keep it for those occasions when the feet are swollen from fatigue: Powdered alum one ounce, salt two ounces, borax two ounces. Dissolve a heaping tablespoonful of this in a hot foot bath and soak the feet 15 minutes. Put on stockings and heelless slippers and lie down if you can.

feet 15 minutes. Put on stockings and heelless slippers and lie down fit you can.
Rubbing the soles of the feet with a slice of lemon will make them feel fresh after fatigue. This is an excellent "temporary cure" for tired feet to be used when there is no time for a hot bath or a long rest.

A temporary cure for a corn is effected by soaking the feet in hot. soapy water for 15 minutes, drying them at once, shaving off the callous skin on top of the corn. This will come off easily if you use a sharp corn knife, for it is softened by soaking in the water. If the corn has been very sore, touch the place with a few drops of collodion so the shoe can't rub.

If you are so unfortunate as to possess a bunion, a flaxaseed poultice or a slippery elm poultice will bring relief when it aches. If you have a bunion, you should change the style of your should be retartments from a good chiropodist. Now and then the feet should be rubbed with oil, especially if they tend to perspire. Hot olive oil is good, so is cold ream. White cotton stockings should be used after an oil massage, for the feet are bound to throw off some of the oil, and a thick cotton stocking is the best way to absorb it.

A Presbytemac ——ister, in a recent sermon, warned parents and young girls that free spenders before marriage are not, as a rule, good providers after marriage. That nay be true—it probably is true in many cases.

But let us look a little beneath the surface.

The average young man of today is a free spender because it is extrected and demanded of him. No spend, no fun.

The young man who is economical in his expendifures, who banks his money instead of "browing it in," is too effen looked upon and shum, med by the girls as a tightwad.

trees are killed before they are replaced.

"Cleaning the grass, weeds, and rubbish away from around the base of the tree with a hoe or mattock in the fall of the year is abigstep in stopping the damage done to trees by field mice, for these rodents make their roadways under such trash. The hoeing tears any tunnels or roadways already made by them and breaks up their winter quarters. In orchards where field mice are especially bad, grovers have found it necessary to poison them. A mixture of wheat, strychinne and syrup fin open-mouth bottles and put near the tree is an effective and cheap poison. Complete details on how to mix up and use the poison may be had free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

LUPUS

Lupus is the worst form of tuberculosis of the skin. It may occur on any part of the body, but in general it occurs only or chiefly on the face.
It begins, usually in childhoad as a small nodule in the skin just beneath the epidermis, semi-lucent and of a yellowish or reddish brown color and having what is usually described as an "apple-jelly" appearance. The nodules increase gradually in number and size, and the adjacent nodules grow together and form patches of variable sizes and of irregularly circular utoline. After a time the nodules or patches first formed either ulcerate or shrivel up. That healing process takes place at the centre of the patch, which continues to spread on the periphery by forming new nodules. The healing process always leaves a scar, and if the patch is large, one or more unchanged nodules will be found imbedded in it, those are simply the younger nodules, and, like the rest, will eventually be converted into scarvisioue.

The cheeks and nose are the parts redded in it; those are simply the younger nodules, and, like the rest, will eventually be converted into scarrisoue.

The checks and nose are the parts most trequently affected, but the mucous membranes of the nose and mouth are accasionally attacked. It is believed that the interior of the nose is one of the common portals of entry of the tubercle bacillus, either by inhalation or through the inedium of contaminated fingers. When the disease is allowed to run on untreated hideous deformity of the face may result, caused by loss of tissue and by the contracting scartissue on the eyelids or the lips.

Lupus differs from most forms of tuber-wlosis in that the disease usuall remains purely local and seldom or never causes death or even seriously affects the general health. From an aesthetic point of view the sooner treatment is begun, the better, for once a scar has formed it is permanent. Attention should of course be paid to the general condition of the patient, but the hope of a cure rests in local treatment. When there are only a few nodules or a small patch the diseased part may be scraped or cut out, or it may be cauterized with a hot iron or with chemical agents, or finally it may be frozen by carbon dioxide snow. But in most cases, the best treatment is that by radiation, direct sunlight, ultra-violet light, and heat by means of an electric lamp with a special reflector sending out parallel rays is also useful. Sometimes a combination of methods gives the best results.

FIRES ORIGINATING

FROM FUEL

There is no more prolific source of originating fires, than woodsheds, coalbins, woodpiles, or even heaps of loose coal.

Fires are caused by coalbins by lack of proper ventilation which frequently produces explosions from accumulated gases.

Spontaneous combustion is more to be feared from recently mined coal than from that which has been out of the mine for some time.

All this applies to atoring soft coal. Alternate wetting and drying of coal that is received wet should be avoided.

A few general suggestions and piccantions for preventing zrea. in storage of wood will suffice. Fucily the storage of wood will suffice. Fucily the supplies to the storage of wood will suffice. The ground around the woodpiles and in the aiales between should be kept clean of rubbish, shavings and old newspapers. Wherever wood or coal are stored there should be easy access to hydrant service and if piled in the house, hose and noszle should be convenient.

CLOTHES FOR THE

EXECTANT MOTHER

Motherhood is the most important and the most sacred service that any woman can offer to her country and to humanity, he Bureau of Chill Hygiene is therefore trying to look after every detail and every phasowhich will add to the success and the beautiful side of the service she is rendering.

Every human naturally loves the beautiful and so it becomes a part of the woman's plap to look after the beauty of her dress, the arrangement of her hair and the cleanliness of her body. Time was when fashions were such that the expectant mother was a sight to behold in her sloven ugly dress, but today that is not true and the type of clothing is such that every woman may appear well at that time.

All of the garments which a woman wears should be suspended from the shoulders, putting the weight or restriction about her waist line. This can be done with the present styles by her wearing a gauzunion suit, a princess slip and a one piece dress. Nothing is so ugly at that time as a tight wairf or a skirt and waist of different material. Ten or twelve tiny tucks may be put in at either side of the front of the dress, or at the side and may from time to time be taken out as needed. Many women can go entirely through this period and appear well without a corset. Others need a corset with clastic inlets which are comfortable and harmless to her and the baby to come.

It is absolutely necessary to avoil round garters; stockings should be suspended from the corset or from the shoulders if no coset is worm. Round garters interfere with the circulation in the legs and are likely to produced enlarged veins.

High heel shoes should be avoid ed at this time; it is best to procure shoes with a large flat heel.

"I tell you yet again, Banquo's builed; he cannot come out on's grave."
—Macbeth.

"That the dead are seen no more," writes Samuel Johnson, "I will not undertake to maintain, against the concurrent and varied testimony of all ages and of all nations. There is no people, rude or learned, among whom apparitions of the dead are not related and believed. This opinion, which perhaps prevails as far as human nature is diffused, could become universal only by its trutt; those that never leard of one another would not have agreed in a take which nothing but experience cap make credible. That it is doubted by single carliers can very little weaken the general evidence; and some who deny it with their tongues confess it by their fears." The great majority of chasts are of

The great majority of ghosts are, of course, frauds; but no research organization has ever been able to prove that all ghosts are frauds. No one has yet proved that Lady Macbeth was right when she asserted that Banquo could not come out of his grave.

The subject of gliosts is of interest because of its bearing on the subject of the immortality of the soul. If ghosts exist, then obviously the soul does not die at the same time that the body dies. Although Socrates, by masterly reasoning, convinced himself of the immortality of the soul, there are many who have not been convinced; because, as Plato quotes the soul, there are many who have not been convinced; because, as Plato quotes Cebes as saying, "in shat relates to the soul, men are apt to be increduins; they fear that when she leaves the body her place-may be nowhere, and that on the very day of death she may be destroyed and perish—Immediately on her release from the body, issuing forth like snoke or alr and vanishing away into nottingness."

Socrates was of the opinion that the soul that was pure at death would not return as a ghost. Such a soul was study severed from the body, at death, and gathered herself into herself, in a state that seems unalcome to the Buddhist's Nirvana, of which Arnold

Lifeless-

That change which never changes! Sorntes helleved, however, that few souls are pure at denth. For most of us, "each pleusure and pain is a sort of nail which nails and rivest the soul to the body." Most souls love the body and dread the invisible existence to which pure souls so. These are the souls that may be seen "prowting about tombs are sepurchers," made visible to our eyes by the alloy and impurity that cling to the soul as a result of the love of life and of the body.

The drouth which had extended over a period of nearly two months has been relieved by a nice light rain which commenced falling last Saturday and continued until Tneaday morning. Due to the dry weather there had been a great deal of complaint about the scarcity of all kinds of stock water. Cisterns about town had gone dry and water was externely scarce. Late sown grain had not sprouted. It is feared that a good deal of the earlier sown grain had perished.

FLORENCE CORN AND POULTRY SHOW

POULTRY SHOW

Let's Go! Tentative Dates Dec. 5th and 6th.

A meeting of all boosters for the Florence Corn and Poultry Show, to be held Wednesday and Taursday, Dec. 5th and 6th, is called for Thursday, Nov. 8th, at the Florence Farm Bureau. Final arrangements and selection of Committees, Superintendents of Departments etc., will be completed at this meeting, Interest from all sides is being shown in this Annual Winter Event. These community affairs are valuable to the whole country side. Such occasions serve as show or display windows for our farms.

It will be remembered what a splendid success last winter's show was, and with the support of the community can be made the biggest event in Northern Kentucky.

Come to this meeting and lend a hand.

It is strange but true that the manwho will finence his business sensibly and carefully, who will buy an I sell a house with acumen and wisdom, who will choose his bank with meticulous care and guard his personal financial affairs with the urmost skill, frequently throws caution to the winds when considering the raising and spending of money for roads.

It is so pitifully easy to arrange to have some one else pay fir a road! A bond issue to run 50 years, ruts the burden of paying on the men and women who come after us, while we use the road! This is bad crough, as a matter of unsoun i conomies, but it is worst, when the money so raised is so unwisely expended as to produce a road which wears out long before the bonds become due. In such cases, and there are the sum of them, the body politic for roads which no longer calst, and faced with the additional necessity of rebuilding the road and maintaining it, as well as paying the interest and finally the principal, on the bonds which built roads which wore out. out:

wore out.

There are cases where long term bonds are justified and necessare. But there are cases where the experditure of such funds is justified for anything less than a permanent panel of located, so buik, so planned as to length, gradient, width, and location as to make it of service to the people to come as well as those wro now use it.

the people to come as well as those wro now use it.

It has been said that there is nothing permanent about any road except its location, but this is only true when maintenance is an afterthought. It is as unsound to build a road and let it ravel to pieces as it is to build a house and let it go unpainted and uninsured. Paint the house, insure it, repair it, and it may stand for a hundred years or more. Maintain the road as it is used, and it should last indefinitively. Only such roads should be built with bond issue money, and only such roads should be built with money derived from town or county or stage bonds, as will serve town, county and state for all time to come.

516 CULL HENS PRODUCE ONLY 61 EGGS IN A WEEK

Lexington, Ky.—That culling the poultry flock in the late summor and early fall is a practical means of reting rid of poor layers and patting the flock on a paying basis is shown by the results of 23 denorations recently put on py W. R. Gabbert, country agent of Fayerter country, and the extension division of the College of Agriculture, to show farmers and their wives in this country have the flocks and pick out they hook and pick out the heat that had stopped laying to loaf until spring.

The 1,610 hens in the 23 flocks that were culled as demonstrations alid a total of 3,802 exgs during the week after culling. During the week after culling the 1,094 hens that were left as good layers laid a total of 3,676 exgs, while the 513 hens that were left as good layers laid a total of 3,676 exgs, while the 513 hens that were taken out because they showed characteristic signs of being poor layers laid only 61 exgs in the same time. Results of the demonstrations are in line with those obtained by the college in hundreds of other demonstrations and show that about one-third of the hens in the average farm flock are poor layers that can be culled out in the late rummer and early fall without any loss in the number of exgs laid. Giving the good hens the feed and care that went to the poor layers in time makes the good hens that are left lay better.

One of the striking things about the Fayette demonstrations was the fact that the 516 hens taken out as culls averaged just a shade better than a tenth of an exgs apiece during the week- after they were culled, while the 1,094 good hens laid 2 dozen a day.

A total of 169 chicken raisers attended the demonstrations to find out how to cull their own flocks. County Agent Gabbert went held for the flocks explaining in detail just how to tell the difference between the good layer and the loafer. The demonstrations were held throughout the county in order to give poultry keepers in every section a chance to learn the culling method.

At the same time the flocks-were culled a campaign was put on to rid the hens of lice. Ten of the 23 flocks were treated with sodium flouride used either in the form of a dip or powder.

AREA PLAN OF WIPING OUT CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS PROVES POPULAR
Testing cattle for tuberculosis under the area plan—that is testing all the cattle at once in a county or other area—is proving very popular in many parts of the country. One reason is that a county freed of this disease is a center to which cattle buyers are attracted; another is that large numbers of cattle can be tested at a lower cost than when only a few herds or a single herd are tested. During the past year nearly 1, 200,000 cattle were tested under this plan, and this was more than 50 per cent of all the cattle tested in the United States. A summary of seventy two counties reported as having finished testing all of the cattle within their borders shows that the work was done at a cost of approximately 3d cents, a head, which included all expenses, exclusive of indemnity.

NOTHING DOING, DAVE.

NOTHING DOING, DAYE.

DavidLloyd George, war time prime minister, of Great Britain, has been royally received and entertained in the United States.

But what is the secret purpose behind Mr. Lloyd George's visit? Why the rapid and extensive tour of our great cities? Why so many and such vigorous speeches dealing with European conditions as they are and as they might be if we would undertake the joob of pulling foreign nations from under the weight of foreign focks?

The distinguished statesman assured us that he came without a mission, and that may be true. But if he didn't come with a mission he snnexed one about as soon as he reached American soil.

We strongly suspect that the eloquence of Mr. Lloyd George has been devoted to the difficult task of coaxing us into the European swim. But the waters are too cold. It's no place for us.

MANY CONVENIENCES AID CLEANING WORK

"Scrubbing Charlot" Rolls Pail Around Without Effort.

Around Without Effort.

The woman in the platograph does not have unay conveniences, apparently, but sile has fearmed to make light work of cleaning by having a tull. narrow closet in a handy place in which to store her long-landied brushes, brooms and mors. Sile has also what is popularly known as a "serubbing chariot," which can be used either as this housewife is using it, to roll her pail easily about, or, if there are corners which must actually be scrubbed, to kneel on as she works. This "chariot" can be easily constructed at home by an amateur carpenter.

"Scrubbing Chariot" in Operation

Directions for making it have been given to members of home demonstra-tion clubs, by extension workers em-ployed co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges. Brooms, mops and brushes should either be hung in the closet by strings or acrew-eyes fastened to the handles, so that the weight does not rest on the straws, strings or bristles, or they should be set upside down on their handles. A small shelf or two for cleansing agents such as acouring powder, ammonia, lye, etc. is a convenience. The picture shows a homemade closet with shelves, placed on the back porch.

IN WELL-EQUIPPED KITCHEN

The kitchen is the workshop in most farm homes. In it the housekeeper and her helpers prepare the food for the family, and from it as a center carry on most of the other housework. More and better work can be done in a well-lighted shop arranged for the comfort and convenience of the workers and equipped with good tools than in a dark shop where much time must be spent in unnecessary steps and energy wasted with scattered equipment. Business men have found this a sound principle, and it should be applied to the farm kitchen so that the housekeeper can do her work more quickly and with the least fatigue.

RED CROSS MET TEST IN JAPAN FUND DRIVE

Spirit of Service Demonstrated in Readiness for Nationwide Activity.

When President Coolidge by proclamation designated the American Red Cross as the medium through which contributions for relief of the Japanese earthquake sufferers should flow, the President's desire came as an order to the Red Cross. Immediately the entire machinery of the organization was put in motion and within 24 hours the fund campaign was moving with vigor in every part of the country.

hours the fund campaign was moving with vigor in every part of the country.

This emergency test demonstrated the peacetime readiness of the Red Cross to cope with stupendous tasks in behalf of humanity. Within a month it had collected upwards of $10,250,000 in contributions, landed ten cargoes of supplies at Japanese-ports and was keeping pace with relief requirements—all without a single dollar of the fund being spent for administration.

President Coolidge, in expressing his thanks to the people, said: "When the news of the tragedy in Japan first reached us, the American Red Cross, pursuant to a proclamation, asked the country for $5,000,000 to meet the great emergency. The answer to this appeal was prompt and generous; in less than two weeks a sum far in excess of the original goal was given."

The work of the Red Cross for Japan is expected to influence a very large enrollment of new recruits during the Roll Cail, which starts Armistice Day.

Red Cross First Aid Standards Adopted In Great Industries

First aid in an emergency which assures the injured competent attention until the doctor arrives is making marked headway through the work of the Chapters of the American Red Cross. In populous centers 314 chapters conduct first aid classes and last year awarded 5,500 certificates to standents. Eight big telephone companies have enlisted their workers in first aid classes, police and fire departments in large cities are making the course compulsory in their training schools, and through colleges and high schools—large—groups of atudents receive instruction. The Red Cross also gives this course through Boy Scouts, Giff Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and similar organisations, and its standard methods have been adopted by railroads, electric and gas companies, mines and in the metal industries. The aim of this Red Cross service is to cut down radically the average of 60,000 accidental dashs per year in the United States.

"Our ceputry could secure no higher

"Our country could secure no higher commendation, no greater place in his-tory, than to have it correctly said that the Red Cross is truly American." —President Coolidge.

Junior Red Cross Spreads Good Will Throughout World

Nearly 5,000,000 pupils in the schools Nearly 5,000,000 pupils in the schools of America are following the standard of unselfish service as members of the American Junior Red Cross, the annual report of the American Red Cross discloses. This valiant host is represented in 125,072 school rooms of 24,283 schools throughout the United States. With a service program that is local, national and international in scope, the American Junior Red Cross is working unfaiteringly for health and happliness and in the promotion of activities among boys and girls wherever there is opportunity for usefulness.

of activities among boys and girls wherever there is opportunity for usefulness.

Increased activity on the part of the schools enrolled and deeper recognition by school authorities of the educational values of Junior Red Cross have been significant features of the last year. Carrying on educational and relief work in France, Poland, Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Albania, Bulgaria and Rumapia, the American Juniors have influenced the forming of Junior departments in the Red Cross organizations of these countries. American boys and girls wearing the "I Serve" button of the Juniors are proving apt messengers of the spirit of good will and mutual understanding through correspondence with pupils in schools scattered throughout the world. At the close of the school year in June 2,009 schools were engaged in correspondence with a like number of schools in Europe; 234 schools in our insular possessions and Alaska térritory carried on an exchange of letters with schools in the United States and South Africa. In fact, nearly 2,700 schools with probably 100,000 pupils were husy in this fine act of cheerful communication, while 8,347 articles passed through National Headquarters of the Red Cross in exchanges between the interested pupils here and overseas. An incident of the year's advance was the beginning of activity which will eventually install Junior Red Cross in the Indian schools of the United States of the country From every section of the country From severy section of the country Prom severy section of the Control of the United States and States an

The work of the American Juniors in foreign fields is emphasized in the advancement of playgrounds, scholarships in farm, trade and other schools, community and school garden work, and donations of cash and equipment to children's organizations. In these projects $112,660.17 was spent during the last year in ten European countries, in China and in the Virgin Islands.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

The world of science mourns the death oof Charles Proteur Steinmerts, the electrical wizard, whose labors in science, engineering, politics, education, and the art of living have so enlightened the world.

Of his material conquests it is hardly necessary to speak; of his far vision, his prophecies which came true, his uncanny ability to find the solution of difficult problems, every one knows. These, his works, will live after him, but long after they shall have been superseded by bigger and better inventions, newer discoveris, abler methods, his life will stand san example of what, America means to the foreigner w. of comes to her shores poor and friendless, yet with the wit to grasp the opportunity the United States holds out to all who may wish to take it.

Dr. Steinmetz, although an educated man, did not speak English when he landed from Breslau, Germany, in New York in 1889. His first "job" was as a draftsman at a bare living pittance. But he did his job so well, and learned English sof fast, that it was but a short time before his genius was recognized, and he had won a place for himself. A man of simple tates, hy ashed had he had won a place for himself. ## WASHINGTON ELM LIVES, THOUGH FALLEN

Shoot of His'oric Tree Flourishing

The fact that a beautiful memorial will doubtless be built on the site of the historic "Washington Elm," under which in Cambridge, Mass., Washington took command of the Continental Armies, will afford, much satisfaction to patriotic Americans who have reverenced this natural shrine and grieved when the old tree died a natural death and fell.

fell.

But the news that a shoot of the old wood, taken when the tree was strong and healthy, is now growing and thriving, will strike an even more responsive chord in the hearts of those who see in this continuation of a tree-life the source of which has died, a symbol of the continuation of the doctrines and the American influence of Washington, though the great general is long gone to his reward.

In 1896 Arthur Collins, a graduate gone to his reward.

In 1896 Arthur Collins, a graduate of the University of Washington, went to Harvard for graduate work. While there he obtained permission from city officials to replace a bot of soil in the limbs of the old Cambridge elm. A twig pressed into that soil took root.

This root he carefully packed and sent across the continent. In the apring of 1899 the baby elm tree was planted in front of Lewis Hall, University of Washington, which at that time had just been completed.

FOOD SALES.

One of the standard methods for raising money for church and charitable purposes, is to hold a food sale. Quite a competition develops at some of these events, to secure the product of the most noted cooks. Certain housewives will gain a reputation for a type of pies and cakes, and applications may begin to come in for their famed products many days in advance of the event.

The success of the food sale has been created by the high standards of cookeyr prevailing among the older women. To many of these housewives, the operation of the cookstove is as inteesting as playing baseball to a boy.

Turning out lucious foods is their greatest pleasure, and they get super-thrills when their product is snapped up at the church sales. But some crusty people say it will be some time before the modern pretty girl's cookery is the subject of equally jealous rivalry from would be buyers.

Self-government can be used as a mighty force for the common good, and we are a failure as a citizen unleas we throw the full force of our personality into it. Let us not evade our responsibility but fulfill it, and be a patriot in the highest and true.

The "Square and Compass" a Masonic paper, says that a new sickness has appeared recently and is known as Morkus Sabbaticus, or Sunday sickness. It is a disease peculiar to church members. The attack comes suddenly every Sunday. No symptoms are felt Saturday night he patient sleeps well, and eats hearty breakfast, but about church time the attacks comes on and continues until services are over in the morning.

Then the patient feels easy and cats a good dinner. In the afternoon he feels better and is able to take a walk, talk about politics and read the Sunday papers. He eats a hearty supper, and about church time has another attack and stays at home. He retires early, sleeps well and wakes up on Monday morning refreshed and able to go to work, and does not have any symptoms of the disease until the following Sunday.

IT PAYS THE YOUNG FARMER.

"In dollars how much does education increase the earning capacity of the young farmer." is a question asked by the U. S. Bureau of Education come of the transport of the young farmer." is a question asked by the U. S. Bureau of Education. Some of the State Agricultural Colleges are publishing figures in answer to this question.

The Georgia Agricultural College cellected the facts from 1,271 farmers of that State and found that these who had no schooling earned on an average of only $340 a year, these with a good common school colucation earned $565 a year and the who had completed an agricultural short course earned $664. The men who had completed an agricultural short course earned they were curring anaverage of 1,257 eports. The average young farmer with a common school education earned $422 a year, the high school graduate $554. The men who had taken the short course in agriculture earned $422 a year, the property of the state of the state of $555 a year, and the college graduate $554. The men who had taken the short course in agriculture earned an average of $555 a year, and the college graduate $1,352.

Attorney Harry J. Meyers, member of the State Legislature, was declared by Federal Judge Cochran to be guilty of conduct unbecoming an attorney, was disbarred from practice in the Eastern Kentucky District Court, and sentenced to ten days in jail, on the further ground that he was guilty of criminal contempt.

Favors Cooperative Livestock Commission.

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Boone County Farm Bureau Menday, plans were made to assist the proposed Cooperative Livestock Marketing Commission Firm to be established at the Cinclinati Stock cards. This local or ganization is cooperating with the National Cooperative Livestock Marketing Commission Firms at Indianapolis, Evanaville, St. Louis, Cleveland, Kanasa Cit, etc.

To assist in presenting livestock contract to the shippers of the county-the following committee was appointed: Clint S. Riddell, Bullitts ville, J. B. Cloud, Constance, Bernard C. TOWN AND COUNTRY

Man made the town, but God made the country, is the old saying. Man seems to have a way of defacing a good part of everything he touches. Many people of course take pains to build tassetli houses and decorate them beautifully. But many others erect ugly homes, and then city life is full of eyesores constit ted by disorderly grounds, uncail ted by different it is in country towns, where every natural prospect has its own charm. The people who dwell in such surroundings should be careful to keep their own places in harmony with this natural be uty, and see to it that their own disc per does not create a jarring note it anture's symphony of beauty.

RETURN POULTRY SALE.

The Return Poultry Sale held by the Boone County Poultry Association at Burlington, last Saturday morning was attended by a crowd of from 150 to 200 people, and the chickens sold under the hammer brought from 55 cents to $2.10 a piece. The chickens sold, of which there were about 150, were the returns from eggs furnished the farmers by members of the Poultry Association. As the chickens were brought in they were classified by J. R. Smyth, of the Poultry Department Agriculturalt College, Lexington, and placed in coops on the street in front of the Farm Bureau and sold to the highest bidder. It was a nice display of poultry, and the auctioneer was not long in disposing of the large number of fow!s. Barred Rocks brought the top price.

The country schools frequently have to depend for teachers on young women who were trained in city life, who never lived in a country town before, and who have no special enthusiasm for country life. Such girls are often excellent teachers, and the principal objection to them is that they are apt to quit their jobs so soon and go to some larger place. When the country towns get a ood steacher, they like to keep her.

The country folks should do their best to make life pleasant for these young women. Give them such a good time that they will conclude that country life is a far more interesting experience than they ever imagined.

LESSONS OF FOOTBALL

It is a common remark in daily life, that many men can not stand prosperity. Give them a little success, and they become proud, arogent and selfish. It is one of '12 benefits of college and school a helics, where the same are well conducted, that they help their players to get a different point of view, and take both victory and defeat in the right spirit. You see this exemplified on many football fields.

The thoughts of a gentlemanly team that has won a game are not merely on their triumph. Instead of gloating over fallen rivals, they try to soften the sting of defeat, making the losers feel how much their friendship is valued and their sportsmanskip and skill admired. Fellows who get this point of view should know how to act later in life if fortune emiles on them.

Germany is forced with another serious catastrophy. The new gold loan issue has been looted by speculators reaching into the highest circles. The new certilicates were exchanged in some cases for about 10 cents worth of marks for a dollar of gold.

RED GROSS NEWS

A written Roll Call is being con-ducted in most of Boone county. The speedy return of the enclosed envel-ope with your dollar will insure no forgetting.

November 11th was appointed Red Cross Sunday, and President Cool-idge recommended that churches dell-icate the day to thoughful consider-ation of the privilege and duty of-consecrated service to humanity.

The hunting senson opened Wednesday and the fields were full of hunters in quest of the quail and cotton-tail. It is our advice to read the column of posted farms in the Recorder and keep off the farms of these owners. There is a widesprend determination among manyfof our farmers to protect the quail and stock against reckless hunters. Some of the farmers say they would just as soon have their chickens killed as their quail.

ARMISTICE DAY.

Armistice Day celebration is an event that should commend itself to every American citizen. Five years of peace since that memorable 11th of November, 1918, which marked the victorious termination of the Great War, have enabled this country to recover from the distressing cifects of that terrible cataclysm and to attain its present state of properity and well being of its people. Between 400 and 500 of the loyal citizens from different parts of the country gathered at Burlington, last Saturday afternoon to assist themembers of Boone Post, American Legion in their Armistice Day exercises.

Legion in their Armistice Day exercises.

It was about 2 o'clork when the Engle Band, of Lawrenceburg, Ind, which had been delayed by a break-down, arrived at the court house. After their arrival members of the Post, in uniform, headed by the band, nuarched to the ball grounijust north of town where the crowd was in waiting.

Senator S. W. Tolin in a few aptropriate remarks introduced the speaker of the day, Hon. Orie S. Ware, of Covington, who, after giving a short review of the different wars in which this country had participated, and had been victorious, said:

"Five years ago to-morrow the wars in which this country had participated, and had been victorious, said:

"Five years ago to-morrow the whole world stood expectant for the news from the battle front which eignaled the end of the greatest war of history. It told of the signing of the armistice which closed a chapter of more than four years of alaughter of young manhood and destruction of property which no previous war ever equaled and for which no reparation can compensate or atone.

It is most fitting to celebrate the anniversary of the day. It is well to remember the sacrifices made to compel German submission. It is proper to applaud the victory of our brave soldiers, in which your son and mine took part, and their allied comrades in that terrible struggle. It was a glorious triumph. It was an armistice over which the whole civilized world rejoiced. The anniversary should be celebrated with reverent thankfulness wherever peace is held to. b. better-than-war.—Even if we cannot yet celebrate a real world peace we can at least join in this suniversary tribute to the victory of arms. It is preeminently fitting, therefore, that we exhibit some mark of appreciation due to those men and women, whether serving in our country armed forces or in civil pursuits, whose efforts and great sacrifices rendered possible our successful participation in the struggle; and our gratitude to those who served can be best expressed by joining whole-heartedly in the exercises and celebration of Armistice Day."

After the speaking the crowd was alvored with the song, "America the Beauty" rendered in a beautiful manner by the Erlanger Women's Club.

The day's exercises were concluded with a game of foot ball between Burlington and Pall-time.

Lexington, Ky.—Books of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Ce-operative Association will close for the 1923 crop December 1, it was decided ananimously at the final session of the board for its November meeting late Wednesday night. Up to December 1, every grower not now in the Association not only will be given every opportunity to join, but a concerted effort will be made by members to get their neighbors into the Association. After that date, however, mose contexts will be received by the Association. This action was decided upon as

This action was decided upon asfair not only to the members now fixeness that the Association has a giving the outsiders every chance to take advantage of the benefits of he co-operative plan of selling. Reports all the field service division showed 32, 200 growers already in the Association, and, according to the reports; of field service nen and directors, these still on the outside are, in the according to the selling service nen and directors, these still on the outside are, in the suits against contract breakers. It was the sentiment of the board, apparently, that while there was no desire to work a hardship on any rower, it was the intention of the Association to hold every member to his contract and hat those who had any idea of violating the contract had best remain out of the Association.

Arrangements for receiving of the location of the contract and the Association will be ready to receive the tobacco when a ctual date of opening is amounced. This probably will be about December 10, it was said.

What is considered to be one of the most important tactical maneuvers in the seven years' milk war in the Cincinnati district was successfully consummated when the membership of the Co-operative Pure Milk Association agreed by unanimous vote at the Emery Auditorium to accept an option for the purchase of the majority stock of the French Bros-Bauer Company and its allied corporations.

The deal, it is said, when carried to conclusion, will bring under the control of the Co-operative Pure Wilk Association properties valued at $3,000,000 and make his association the most powerful to-operating agency in the dairy business in America.

Joseph Case and wife, of Coving-ton, spent last Saturday night with Charles Birkle and family, Sunday with L. A. Tanner and wife and Sun day night with J. B. Rouse and wife.

KENTUCKY MAKES PROGRESS IN PUREBRED LIVESTOCK

Kentucky, long famous for its fine horses and blue-grass pastures, is not content with past laurels but is making rapid strides in improving the quality of its food animals as well. According to Wayland Rhoads, field agent in animal hubandry of the Kentucky Extension Service, who recently visited the United States of the State was losing sizes are bing replaced rapidly with purebreds. According to best estimates 16 per cent of the dairy bulls and 20 per cent of the beef bulls in the State are new purebred and the proportion is increasing. A few years ago one-half of the east Kentucky mountain counties had no purebreds at all, and the State was losing $15,000,000 a year due to scrub bulls and boars alone.

The reports of Mr. Rhoads are supported by figures obtained in the "Butter-Sires-Better Stock" movement, in which Kentucky now ranks third among all the states. A total of 1,508 farmers in Kentucky have sign ed written agreements that they will be the state of the world.

We hear a great deal about the pressure of taxation upon the farmer, and that that pressure is not to be doubted. When a darmer goes through a year and counts himself lucky to have broken counts himself lucky to have broken and then has to borrow money to pay his case, he feels that some counts himself lucky to have broken and then has to borrow money to pay his case, he feels that some counts himself lucky to have broken and the has to borrow money to pay his case, he feels that some counts himself lucky to have broken counts himself lucky to have broken and the has to borrow money to pay his case, he feels that some counts himself lucky to have broken and the nate to be of the man and had boars and he is right in free sever is not to be doubted. When a darmer goes through a year and counts himself lucky to have broken counts himself lucky to have

Our price for good, sound and high testing milk is $3.65 per hunered weight delivered at our plant via truck at Oincinnati.

This price is paid direct to the independent dairymen, and no "M I D D L E M A M" figures in on this question.

Our Company has been established in business in Cincinnati for twenty-three years and enjoys most pleasant business relations with several hundred producers.

Our milk proposition is one of permanency, that is, we receive milk daily and pay our shippers every TEN DAYS. The independent dairymen shipping milk to our plant become regular daily shippers, and it is very seldom we lose a milk producer.

Now the point is this---start today to make arrangements for future shipments of milk to us every day. We are not members of the Co-operative Association because we beclieve in the policy of

THE HERITAGE OF INACTIVITY, KANSAS REPRESENTATIVE

Up to recent years the business men of most towns played a rather lone hand. Many of them were satisfied with a small level of achievement. Then Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade become active, and good workers went in and got results.

But there are usually a lot of excellent citizens and business men, who have never formed the habit of doing public work, and who are not fully converted to the modern ideas of community activity.

These men only need waking up.

of community activity.

These men only need waking up. The firs thing is to give them no rest until they have joined one or more of the local organizations working for town progress. Get them to attend the meetings. Have good talk on what is being accomplished in other place, and could be done.

As a result of that kind, of treatment, a lot of former sleepers are getting aroused, and are making excellent community workers—and boosters.

FRANCE HOLDS THE CARDS

Raymond Poincare, premier of France, will take a place in the world's history, not only as an astate diplomat and politician, but as one with sufficient politician, but as one with sufficient politician. But as one with sufficient nerve and determination to execute his demands. Mr. Poincare gracefully yielded to the demands of Great Britain and the suggestion of the United States for an expert commission to determine what Germany can pay, but he adoitly imposed restrictions that served to take the teeth out of such a commission, and make it a simple sid or advisory to the regular Albed Remarks, and the suggestion of the regular Albed Remarks, and the commission of France, first, no matter what the new commission may recommend France bolics the carels, and hat nower shall be invoked to compel her to relinquish the security, in and? KANSAS REPRESENTATIVE

ON HOT TRAIL.

When the next Congress meets Representative E. C. Little of Kansas, proposes to make an effort to learn just how much money the Chicago wheat speculators spent to propaganda the claim that we raised too much wheat and must therefore sell it for less than cost and discontinue sowing it.

Mr. Little declares: "We have no surplus bushel of wheat. Every year the world disposes of one crop before the next comes in except the ordinary and necessary carry-over for flour and other necessary requirements. This surplus bubble is the biggest and cruelest fake ever perpetrated in this eountry. It cost our farmers millions of dollars and imadno money for anybody, except the speculators. We used up, at home last year, exactly as much wheat as we raised this year, and will use it again if we do not export a bushel."

"There has never been an houwhen a careful examination of the facts wouldn't have demonstrated without any question the absurdity of this surplus hoax, and yet our people have been told to give, away their wheat and discontinue sowing, it, because men who want to buy, their wheat for nothing were able to circulate that stuff. If the law of supply and demand had been in force in the United States since the last harvest, every bushel of good No. 2 wheat would have sold at it's owners home at $1.25 a bushel and would be worth that much right now."

As the Editor Sees It.

France owe us, or do we or

Since the government of the United States loaned the French government and the United States loaned the French government some billions of dollars with sub-it to prosecute their war with Germany we have been under the natural supposition that France is addebted to us just that amount, plus But apparently French statesmen But apparently French statesmen emtertain different views on the sub-facet.

Now listen to the latest wail from over there—this time from Francois Marsal, former minister of finance of the French republic and intimate Sriend of President Millerand.

This distinguished French political leader puts it naively, but bluntly and thusly.

The American government loaned France, by opening up credits, nearly three billions of dollars. This money was used by the French in buying food and war supplies from American firms.

The American government, says the distinguished Frenchman, has already gotten back 80 per cent of the amount loaned by levying excess war saxes. This, says Mr. Frenchman, leaves only 20 per cent of the debt to be accounted for. Astute reasoning, ch?

Again, says Mr. Frenchnian, they made their allies pay the cost of sail shipments in France with French two money, which was very much deflated in good American dollars. That, at the mind of the astute Frenchman entitles them to another scaling down of the debt.

And till again Mr. Frenchman hands us a chunk of mis remarked censoning.

When we Americans declared war against Germany, he claims, we were "utterly ignorant of cannons." The French, he asserts, taught us their cystem of seventy-fives, which they had only evolved after ten years of salar tun research. That secret, chirps Mr. Frenchnun, is surely worth something. Another slice from the debt.

But that isn't all. Just open your are and listen to this warble from the financial on of France. His country was ravaged, he insists, by the allies us well as by the fermans, and 1,500,000 Frenchmen yave up their lives. And that, he contends, should still further reduce the jebt—if there is any debt left to be ceduced.

Food for thought in the above?

Not a bit of it. It has all been thought out in adavace by this distinguished Frenchman of abnormal warms carefully prepared for easy and panless consumption by the dult and letting the Arrivan mind. We are not supposed to think. Our part of the brilliant scheme is to swaltow he bait—to swallow it so thoroughly there remains no opportunity for coughing up the hook.

But why stop at swallowing the shait and cancelling the debt? Could we expect the French to be satisfied with so small a slice of pie?

We still have out wealth, and our vactories, and our raw materials and our lands and homes.
Why not hand them all over to our selves included?
But even then they would probably how for more—for has it not above clearly proven that WE owe branches?

The man who is trying to build up a business should study the mental processes of the public, and do the things that seem to be necessary to attract public attention. If he just offers his stuff for sale, without much regard to popular psychology or effort to attract attention, he is likely to not get very far.

There is, a kind of mental official.

Lewis county farmers this year have used a total of 7506 tons of limestone in bulding up their land for bigger crop yields, according to a report of County Agent R. O. Bate. Arthur Vance, a farmer living near Carris, is the most recent one to make use of the material. He has just put a carload on his farm and will conduct a demonstration in cooperation with County Agent Bate and the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington to show the worth of the material as a soil builder.

If a producer or distributor makes it his regular practice to advertise in a newspaper, he gains Iwo positive advantages. In the first place, he will sell a lot of the special stuff that he advertises. If he is getting out things that people want, they will eagerly read his notices to see what these things cost and what kind of stuff he is offering.

But this seller does a lot more than merely win the interest of those who at any one time want the partisular stuff he is advertising. He also hreates a general impression—than the summer of the self-stuff of the self-

In our everythy conversations we judice race horses by their speed; dray their hutter yield; sheep by their yield side quality of wood, and men by their wealth or rank or education.

Brief consideration, however, shows that wealth is a poor standard by which to judge the value of a man, it is not hereditary, in the sense that speed and strength and high butter yield and long wood are hereditary; among animals. Then, too, wealth is often stolen or secured by unfairmeans or secured by gift or made by the community rather than by the individual.

Tolstoy, himself a rich man, ridiculated the tendency to judge men by their wealth. He represents a horse as explaining the human race to a coit. The horse says: "Men rule in life not by deeds, but by words. They love not so much the possibility of toding or not doing anything as the possibility of talking about different objects in words greed upon between them. Such words, considered very important among them, are the words my, mine, ours, which they employ for various things, beings and objects, even for the earth, people and horses, in regard to any particular thing they agree that only one person shall say, which they engage in, can say mine in regard to the greatest number of things, is considered the most fortunate among them."

BOONE CO. RECORDER THE FARMER—HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.

The President's commission to investigate the needs and necessities of the wheat growers in the Middle West, Messrs, Eugene Meyer, Jr., and Fran. "Ordell, ... "As Finance Corporation, has reported against all propositions for price-control of the method of the method of the method of the farners. Their recommendation in effect, is to regulate or curtail production, and sell through co-operative marketing associations. This receive marketing associations. This decisive opposition of the War Finance Corporation puts an end—tany plan for immediate relief, and, so far as the Administration is concerned the question will probably he left to future events.

Senator Ladd, of North Dakota, one of the most aggressive and progressive of the Republican farm blocharges that the wheat speculators have formed a plan to defeat the purpose of the Capper-Incher law against trading in—and accuses certain men of having a monopoly of wheat buying.

The American Farm Bureau follows this with the charge that Canadian railroads are giving much cheaper rates to Domino farmers than to American farmers.

Dr. T. C. Atkinson, legislative representative of the National Grange in Washington, asserts that farm taxes have increased many times over those of the pre-war period; fertilizer costs have trebled and its need is greater; labor is scarce and very high; all farm-machinery costs double and more; there is a widespread moving picture "craze" besides frequent family "joy rides" He does not believe legislation can remedy any of these evils.

John A. McSparen, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, asserts that for 60 years the government, state and national, have been giving manufacturers subsidies in the form of protective tariy's and exemptions in taxes. All agriculture has a right to sak is the same treatment other producers get. The burden must fall somewhere, of course, but it shoull not fall principally on property in stend of on incomes.

Mr. Steimnetzs Predictions

Mr. Steinnetzs Predictions.

Charles P. Steinmetz, the distinguished electrical engineer who diedrecently, used to make very hope-ful predictions about the benefits that would be derived from the further development of electricity and water powers. He felt that the rail-water powers, He felt that the rail-water powers, He felt that the rail-water powers, He felt that the rail-roads would electrify their lines as soon as they could finance such projects, he was confident that enormous amounts of coal would be saved through use of the water powers, and so on.

The question may be asked, if such great savings could be made by harnessing water powers, electrifying the railroads, etc., why more is not done to realize at once these economies and get the benefits of them now?

No doubt, rapid advance along these lines will be made within the next few years. The business world its becoming deeply interested in "super-nower" projects.

One Kreat fiftently relates to the commons amount of capital required for such changes. A great body of new securities would have to be offered, and the savings of the poople arer not sufficient to accomplish a great number of big projects at once. Also with labor scarce, it would be difficult to find the men to do the rough work of these projects. If the people want their water powers and other resources developed that there shall be plenty of funds available. If capital is scarce, high rates of interest have to be paid, which creates a serious difficulty.

Also people who could put money into such projects, won't go into such enterprises unless they get favorable terms. But if they do get good terms then the cry is raised that they are robbing the people. If the public want their resources developed they must allow a fair chance for profit to the capital that does it.

OUR GREATEST BLESSING

Should the order of things be reversed and we be required to spend the same amount of time for pleasure that we now spend for work it would soon lose much of its attraction and work would become our greatest pleasure.

It is necessary that we work before we can enjoy recreation, for without work there can be no such thing as recreation.

without work there can be no such thing as recreation.

We are placed in a world full of work by a wise Creator and it is our means of justifying our existence, to Him and our fellow men.

It is our only reliable source of permanent happiness and contentment as well as the means of worldly advancement.

All work is ervice, either directly or indirectly. That feeling of satisfaction and contentment that comes over use at the end of a day's work well done can be traced back to the rule that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." If we can look back over our day's work and feel that we have given to it the best that there is in us, we have done everything.

This applies to the humble laborer as well as to the high official. The job docen't matter, it is how it is done that counts. A day's work well done is one of life's greatest achievements Do your best every day at what you are doing now and your alb'ancement will take care of itself, the who is deepending on some special dispensation of providence for his advancement is doomed to disappointment. attering when he gets behind a steering wheel.

In the food industry constarch fields its greatest ose as the basis for the reamifacture of corn syrup, or glucore, about one-half of that produced in 4921 having been used for that purpose. It is employed by confectioners in making gundrops, by housewives and chefs in thickening sauces and making custards. Confectioners also use it for forms into which soft candy is porred in making bonbons. Large quantities are read in the manufacture of baking powder and pie fillers. It is also an important ingredient in commettes and pastes and is used to a limited extent in pharmacutical preparations.

The article in "The Scraper," which is headed "The Eelection," lfollows in part:

"In the campaign just ended the Governorelect did not go into much detail concerning the appointments which he would make, although the few that ' we announced will meet with very general satisfaction. So far as the citer appointees are concerned. Mr. Fields has assured the State that they will be high-class, substantial citizens and asked that the voters intrust these appointments to him rather than require hasty pre-election promises. A tremendous majority has taken him at his word and is assured that their confidence will not be misplaced.

Among the interesting birds imported into this country during the month of September was a "kiwi" shipped from New Zealand for he National Zoological Park at Washington. The Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture issues permits for all shipments of foreign mammals and birds, and inspects them when necessary in order to protect this country from the introduction of species which may prove injurious to agriculture. The ivi, which is native only to New Zealand, and even there approaching extinction, is rarely imported into the United States. The present specimen is the first that has been on exhibition in the National Zoological Park for 15 years. The last shipment was made in January, 1906. One of the birds coming in atthat time lived two years.

Sheriff Hume stopped a truck load ed with colored laborers on their way from the dam at McVille, to Covington when they arrived in Burlington, Saturday morning. November 11th. Sheriff Hume had received information from the Superintendent of the dam that two of the negroes who were on that truck, Arthur Williams and Alonzo Murphy, had robbed one of their fellow workmen, E. G. Bailey, and had stolen from him $35.00. Only one of the negroes who were on the truck was identified and he was held, and the other negroes released. Another colored man who left McVille on the truck, got off at the Commissary and went to the Aurora Ferry, where he was held until Sheriff Hume arrived. Williams and Murphy are in jail awaiting trial.

During September 430,191 cattle were tuberculin tested under the systematic plan of tuberculosis eradication conducted by various States and the United States Department of Agriculure. A otal of 14,604 reactors were found. The popularity of tuberculin testing is shown by the catent of the waiting list, which at the end of September consisted of 146,487 herds.

IMPROVED ROADS

Smooth Surface Needed for Concrete Highways

for Concrete Highways

If we are going to construct a concrete surface for our primary roads, it is very important that the surface of the concrete should be made smooth. Not only does this smoothness add to the comfort of the traffle, but it is also a factor in the leasting quality of che road surface. The ordinary layman very seldom thinks of the impact as the load pauses over the rough road. If the pavement is rough the impact may he serious. Recent experiments by the United States bureau of roads have given us data concerning this impact, which are very interesting.

For instance, if truck wheels drop.

For instance, if truck wheels drop one inch when travelling at a speed of 18 miles an hour, and if the wheel load is 8,000 pounds, they will deliver a blow to the parement of 53,20 pounds, or seven times as much as the load of the wheel. Under the same load, the pneumatic tired wheels deliver an impact equivalent to 14,000 pounds.

Often this impact is not caused by rough pavement but by a defective wheel, or a small obstruction dropped on the road surface, or if large skid chains are used. The wheel strikes the obstruction, rises ever it, and falls, delivering an impact. Or, if the soid rubber tire is defective, each revolution of the wheel delivers an impact to the pavement.

It may be that with our heavy truck traffic, the cement surfacing will be stressed to an extreme extent by this impact on account of the rough surface or defective wheel. The surface cracks and breaks, and repsirs are necessary.

The surface of the concrete for our roads can be made smooth if care is taken in surfacing the same, and the inspectors should see to it that this surfacing is rightly done.—E. B. House, Colorado Agricultural College.

Jacks Protect Highways

From Overloaded Trucks
Weighing lacks with which the load carried by a heavy truck may be ascertained by a heavy truck may be ascertained by road police are helping Maryland protect its new state roads from duning by overweight vehicles. Most roads are constructed to withstand a moving load of ten tons. Heavier loads break down the subgrade and start ruts, the police assert. Each weighing machine consists of a screwjack operating in an oil-filled cytinder. When four of these jacks are placed under the suspected truck, lifting it clear of the ground, its weight is transferred to the oil cylinders and can be read directly on the pressure gauges. If the truck is found to weigh more than uen tons, the excess material is unloaded by the road-side. The jacks are of siuninum alloy, weighing only 40 pounds each, so that the inspectors can carry them shout in a light car.

State officials estimate that this supervision reduced overloading 75 per cent within 30 days. Californis has also recently passed a law limiting the weight of motor-trucks, and road officials and tax-payers are seeking to reduce the maximum permissible weight below the limit now set—30,000 pounds gross weight for four-wheeled trucks, and 40,000 pounds for six-wheeled vehicles, providing the axies are at least 90 inches apart, and there are not more than 800 pounds on each inch of rubher tire width.—Popular Sciences Monthly.

Iron Cre Quite Useful

in Road Construction

Iron ore, found in northwestern

Louislana, has proven of great value in road hullding in that state and, in some localities where it has been used, has effected a saving of $2,000 to $3,000 a mile in the cost of construction.
Highway engineers in Louislana have been using the ore as a binder instead of sand clay and have found it far superior to that material in many instances. During 1922 the Louislana state highway department completed $50 miles of new roads. Most of this

Autos Shows Road Needs
With the growing popularity of the automobile, there has come a parallel increase in the need of building up the highways. Of course, it is not to be done within a few years. Many sections of the Old World have excellent highways, but they have been built for centuries. But certainly we should begin now to lay the foundation of a great highway system.

The result is a very comprehensive publication, Farmers Bulletin 1236, "Corn and its Uses as Food," containing more than sixty household recipes and covering the various products and corn preparations commonly used in the United States. The food value of corn, it is pointed out, is very similar to that of other cereals. When used in a diet that also supplies fresh foods, dairy products and vegetables or fruits, the choice between the various zereals depends more on personal preference and price than on the nourishment supplied. If corn is amundant or cheap, or if wheat, rice or other cereals are scarce or dear, corn may be sarely substituted for them.

Corn preparations may be used in place of starrity vegetables with as patience, saveet potatoes, or heans, but in such cases some other vegetable or fruit should also be included in the diet os supply the mineral matter and vitamins which are less abundant or lacking in the corn. Corn can be substituted for part of the wheat four in making yeast bread, but not for all, because it does not contain the accessary gluten. It can also be used in place of part or all of the wheat four in many good quick breads and cakes.

RED CROSS HELPS WAR'S SUFFERERS

Aids 200,000 Veterans and Their Families-27,000 Disabled Still in Hospitals.

Individual Attention Assured to All Physically Ailing or in Distress.

Washington. — War service five years after the armistice, which on November 11 the American Red Cross marks with the opening of the annual membership canvass, shows that during the past year assistance was extended by the Red Cross to some 200,000 exservice men or their families. To 130 hospitals throughout the country approximately 75,000 exservice men were admitted for treatment, and to 58,295 of these men definite and and to 63,296 of these men definite and ice men were admitted for treatment, and to 63.29 of these men definite and specialized service was extended, the Red Cross annual report discloses. In all hospitals under government operation a total of nearly 27,000 disabled veterans were reported by the Surgeon General of the Army.

These facts of the aftermath of physical and metal disability five years after the World War, and the burden resting upon the relatives and dependents of the ex-service men, show conclusively the great need of the Red Cross to act as a supplementary arm of the government in service to these many thousands of men who wors the uniform of the United States. It should be emphasized that government assistance is necessarily standardized along specified lines affecting them as a whole. The Red Cross service is to the individual man and the solution of his problems. This the Red Cross designates 'home service' for its aims to give the loving care and interest of the home to these men undergoing physical reconstitution af from their actual home influences.

undergoling physical reconstitution lar from their actual home influences. Year's Expenditures $5,886,256

In the year ended last June 30 the Red Cross reports $3,920,000 spent hy its Chapters in extending individual attention to the exservice men and $1,946,255 spent hy National Headquarters of the Red Cross, a total of $5,866,25% In behalf of the men called to duty in the World War the Red Cross since July 1, 1917, has spent nearly $161,000,000. Today there are 2,003 Chapters in as many localities exarrying on this work, aiding the Individual veteran, assisting his family. "—sishing steature comforts and funds to tide over troublesome periods. The strong connecting link between the Red Cross in this work requiring personal representation of the ex-service man has acted in appeal cases, insurance matters, personal and family prohlems, camp and hospital activities, and in cases of death. This service handled nearly 12,000 compensation and insurance claims, and 2,225 allotment and other claims.

allotment and other claims.

Solves Serious Problem

The financial problem of the exerrice man when traveling to and from mospitals is a serious one, and is meeting this constant demand the Red Cross expended $135,334.17 during the year. For extra recreational equipment in Veterans' Bareau training centers $14,306 was spent, and for the blinded veterans in the government school funds were supplied to enable some of these unfortunate men to easter business as storekeepers and poultry raisers.

ter business as storekeepers and poul-try raisers.

In Veterans' Bureau hospitals the record of a single month illustrates the large service rendered by the Red Cross. For example, 15,504 new cases required attention, and a total of 26, 007 cases were acted upon; 43,368 let-ters and 1,838 telegraph messages written, and more than 1,600 enter-tainments given in recreation houses for the benefit of the patients. Authorities declare that the pres-written, and more than 1,600 entertainments given in recreation houses for the benefit of the patients.

Authorities declare that the present is a critical time in the lives of many of the disabled exservice men who during the five years since the armisitch save developed misgivings of recovery.

Work Among the "Regulars"

Service to the cultated men of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps is a charter obligation of the Red Cross, which in the last year recorded over 100,000 cases of assistance extended and $34,20 visits to the sick and distibled. Inquiries by the Red Cross at the request of Government suthorities into the home conditions of soldiers, satiors and marines aggregated 11,113, and there were nearly .5000instances where the Red Cross solidiers, all these activities constituting a single responsibility of the American Red Cross demonstrated during the rear that its 'war service' in hebaif of the veteran and the man enlisted in the nation's defensive arms must to forward unfaiterinky and withsut stint of funds. The work of the sax five years has welded a close bond of regard between the men who accrificed and the Red Cross, whose sifforts are praised and indorsed by the veterans' organizations. To do till that can be done to soften the conisquences of the lard blows of war a the supreme duty of the Red Cross, o which it is giving its best work and noat liberal service.

EXCELLENT-VINEGAR FROM RASPBERRIES

if Properly Preserved It will Retain Flavor Indefinitely.

Prepared by the United States Department
An excellent vinegar may be made from ruspherries which will reatin indefinitely the odor and flavor if propeseryl preserved: Experiments carried out in the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture, have shown that this deliclous vinegar can be made in the home when the garden affords a liberal supby of this fruit.

Vinegar unde from raspberries is dark in color. Sampfes made in the bureau of chemistry and properly botited were found after three years to have rerained not only the original degree of achilty hat the odor and flavor. In salads and other table deliracies the raspherry-flavor is—very agreeable. A refreshing hot-weather drink can be prepared by adding a small amount of this vinegar to water, and keing and asvectening to taste.

Two fermentations, the elcoholic and the acetic, are necessary in unking vinegar. The method is as follows:

Use ordinary straight-sided opentopped stune lars as receptacles. With the aid of a potnto masher, mash up first hearts of good, ripe rospherries of eliher red or black variety. Stirthoroughls into this mast onetific hire. Ler jur stand in a warm

110 DISASTERS IN YEAR SEP-20-20-20-20-20-20-20-00-00-20-20-ENLIST RED CROSS AID

Nearly $400,000 Spent in United States - Greek Refugee Work Completed.

For its preparedness to render relifet through effective and generous aid to the sufferers from disaster the American Red Cross is universally regarded as the one organisation from which response to appeal for help is immediate. In the last year, according to the annual report of the Red Cross, lis disaster relief operations were carried out in 110 localities in the United States. This work, with activities carried over from the previous year, required the expenditure in the United States of $397,485.04 by the American Red Cross, its Chapters and Branches. In the emergency following the defeat of the Greek forces in Turkey and the burning of the city of Smyrna, which entailed the relief of nearly 900,000 men, women and children, Red Cross National Headquarters expended $2,605,996.09. The food distributed in Greece aggregated $2,500 tons; garmenta, 809,000; hlanckts, 48,550; new shoes, 5,000 pairs; medical, hospital and sanitary supplies, 304 tons. In the feeding of the refugees there was listed upwards of age.

The disasters in the United States refugees there was listed upwards of 32,000 children under three years of age.

The disasters in the United States during the past year reported 240 persons killed, 991 injured, 12,631 rendered homeless. The total property loss was estimated at $20,710,000.

Relief of suffering caused by chasters of such magnitude as to overwhelm the resources of the comainities in which they occur is fundamental to the charter of the American Red Cross. In addition to making approvpriations from its treasury 'ud assigning trained personnel to relief work, the Red Cross in disaster centralizes and makes more effective relief funds and supplies contributed by the country at large.

Since 1851 the Red Cross has administered more than $2,000,000 for the single purpose of disaster relief. That it may continue to accept the responsibilities which grave emergencies place upon the American Red Cross appeal is made for a nationwide renewal of membership during the annual roli call, which opens on Armistice Day, November 11, and closes on Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

Life Saving Work Of Red Cross Corps Wars on Drownings

Wars on Drownings

The insignia of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps on the bathing apparel of men, women and youths is seen everywhere at favorite bathing places along the coasts, rivers, lakes and ponds. In its unrelenting campaign to reduce loss of life by drowning the Red Cross is making constant headway. The demands for instruction from organizations in all parts of the country were so numerous the past year that it was necessary to more than doubte the staff of Red Cross instructors. This work of realings for water like-awing showed an enrollment of over 30,000 volunteers enlisted for duty on patrol, for rescue and resuscitation, all compenent to instruct others in the standard water-aafety methods. The Red Cross by request of the War Department gives water first aid training at the United States Military and Navai cacdemies and in the military training campe for reserve officers and civilians. The four cash prizes awarded by the Red Cross last year for heroic reacues were conferred upon two girls, a boy and a man, indicating that the youths of the country stand well at the top in conserving life along our water courses.

Red Cross Field Of Action Covers All the World

Represented by 93,668 members, the American Red Cross penetrates to nearly every part of the world. The insular and foreign roll call statistics for the past year are a most conclusive manifestation of the Red Cross spirit carried into the most remote lands. In Europe there are 4,088 members; in Turkey, and active in the Constantinople Chapter, 3,545. China has an enroliment of 2,252; Africa, 136; India, 224, and Australia, 23; Even Vladivostok, in frigid Siheria, has a live chapter with 100 members. The Philippine Islands can mobilize 58,747 under the Red Cross banner and Hawail 7,363. The total funds raised through foreign and Insular membership enroliment and sent to national headquarters in Washington mounted to $60,216,54, while an additional $33,350 was forwarded, for the endownent (und of the American Red Cross. The high sear roll call in 1922 was an inspiring success. The Navy signed on 4,331 for the Red Cross and the merchant ships 4,141. Of the total membership outside the United States 25,960 are registered with chapters in foreign lands, the insular possessions and dependencies. dren:

France, Germany, Norway, and Sweden.

Eleven ships, with ten thousand immigrants, landed in New York through Ellis Island about the first of November, which leaves two months of this year and six of next during which no more immigrants can be received from the countries whose quotes are entirely exhausted. The quotas, running during the fiscal year from June 30th to June 30th, have thus lasted these affected countries, but four months. In this fact is seen the geatest argument for a continuation of the quota law, which some industries desire to see broken down in order to get more cheap and unskilled labor. Proponents of a restricted allen citizenship, who desire to see immigrants are and the continuation of the quota law, which some industries desire to see broken down in order to get more cheap and unskilled labor. Proponents of a restricted allen citizenship, who desire to see immigrants become naturalized citizens, point triumphantly to the quick exhaustion of quotas from countries from whom undesirable immigrants are apt to come, as an unanswerable argument in favor of drastic enforcement of the present law and a tightening of its provisions, rather than unlakening of its rigidity.

The good folks who may be called sleepers in the relation to civity pregress movements, are not usually copposed to progress. #### THE RURAL CREDIT MOVEMENT

THE RURAL CREDIT MOVEMENT
It seems singular, considering how tremendously- alert the American people are in so many ways, that they have been so alow to put farming on a correct basis.

Take the rural credit movement, for instance. The so called Raffeison system was begun in Germany in 1854, and it supplied loans to farmers in that country for an average of 5½ per cent. In 1915 there were 1800 such credit unions, in Germany, 8,000 in Austria, au i 2500 in Italy.

The rural credits movement became active in this country about 1910, and in 1916 the federal farul loan act was passed. The difficulties of the farmers in this country are largely due to the tardiness shown by the American people in taking inp an idea that became popular in Enrope many years ago.

THANKSGIVING.

Who rhall say that the worship of those whom the world calls pagan is leas devout or leas acceptable to the Giver of all good things than that of imore advanced civilization?

The Indians believe in "The Great Spirst who sits at the border of the happy hunting grounds, siroking forever his pipe of peace." They have at least five Thanhagiving Duya dun'n g'he year with feats and danning and sifts. The lindian motter curries her baby in arms to the dance until it is old enough to learn the first ateps. Then she teaches the little one with as much reverence as the white mother teaches her kneeling baby to lisp its first prayer.

It is a tribe observation in recent years tat our season of Thanksgiving has lost the religious significance fervor and feeling that marked the celebration of the day by our New England forefathers. The Puritans, who offered praises and thanksgiving for their manifold bleasings were in so deplorable a situation that the whole population, if living today in the same plight would be objects of pity and compassion.

If Americans were to meditate calmly on the matter, the very fact that they are Americans is a sufficient cause for rejoicing and thanksgiving. Instead of that we are confronted with a growing discontent which seeks to place the blame for read or imaginary evils, not upon the shoulders of the inhabitants, where the blame belongs in a free, self-governing community, but upon the government or the system. The number seems to be increasing of those who have doubts about a republican form of government, and there are those who go as far as to proclaim that it cannot endure.

"A noble discontent is the path to ne's own short-comings and a determination to do better and to deserve better things.

The right tests for Americans in estimating their blessings are, How does their present benefits compare with those received by the early Americans? How does the condition of America compare with that of other peoples of the world? President Coolidge says: "We have been lessed with much of mater

LET'US "JUST BE KIND"

Wouldn't this be a nice world if people made only kindly speeches to one another instead of indulging in ill-tempered remarks and mean crit-icism?

people made only kindly speeches to one another instead of indulging in ill-tempered remarks and mean criticism?

Even the bravest of us, the most silf-relient, the ones of us who are most libecally endowed with common sense, have our moments of yearnings for sympathy, the periods when we want one-to-tell-us that we are just the nicest creatures that ever happened.

Of course, we won't believe it, any of us, but it makes us feel good just the same, and it helps us to work a little horder, and to be a little more diligent, and to be a little more diligent, and to postpone for a little longer the day that just seems to end everything.

Families often indulge in unkindly criticism of one another. Kind remarks are as unheard of in some as two Sundays in a week, and natures that would blossom into new benuties and broader development under the influence of praise, are starved and dwarfed and stunted for its lack.

A pleasant feeling, for yourself helps' you to get through your given work more easily; things glide along on wheels devoid of friction, the duttes, that looked mountain high divin the down to hill-like proportions, and all because some one has been ive enough to say a word that mada-you feel at peace with the world and yourself.

And since unkindly criticism hurts so guich, and since praise leaves such a pleasant impression, let mail turn over a new leaf commencing with this Thanksgiving season and be nice to cachother as we journey along.

What does it matter if some one accuses us of "jollying?" We are light and strong and can stand having latts aid to us when we know that two are infusing a little ches, and gladness into some one's life so let us all from now on, as James Whiteomb Rilev says in his familiar prem, "Just he kind."

EDUCATION WEEK

EDUCATION WEEK.

The week-beginning November 18 is "Education Week." When public bodies and speakers and writers shall discuss this observance, they might well ask the question, What aspect of education mose needs attention in the average community? Our people are already taxing themselves heavily to support the schools and they realize their value. What more can be said or done?

Emphasia might well be placed during this week, on this thought, that in spite of all our expensive schools, a mass of young people are coming on who seem to be poorly fitted for either business, industrial pursuits, or citizenship. The community having made all these should ask itself why so many fail to get the benefits of this education?

The principal cause of such failure is the habit of dropping out of school at an early age. The figures of attendance show that there are 1,644,061 pupils 16 to 17 years old in the united States who are in the schools, or anaverage of $822,000 for each year of age. But for the ages seven to thirteen inclusive, there are 13,869,000 in attendance, or anaverage of 1,967,000 for each year of age. These figures indicate that more than half of the school children drop out at age 15 or younger, which is usually before they have had a chance to do much on the studies that create general intelligence.

These figures indicate that more than half of the school children drop out at age 15 or younger, which is usually before they have had a chance to do much on the studies that create general intelligence.

The biggest practical problem in American education is how to induce these young people to stay in school, and how to help them to get the good of a high school course.

Mucb can be dena by looking up every case of a boy or girl, who drops out prematurely, and trying to find some means for keeping them at their studies for a few years longer.

ALL-DAY PROGRAM

To Be Held at Burlington Baptist Church, Sunday, Dec. 2.

tist Church, Sunday, Dec. 2.

Burlington, Ky.
Nov. 19, 1923.
Editor Boone County, Recorder,
Burlington, Ky.
My Dear Sir:

1 am very anxious to get a word before the membership of my church and before all who are interested in the same. We are formulating plans for the most forward-looking program our church has ever consider, ed. Many causes lie back of this,
Many causes lie back of this,
Many causes lie back of this,
Many causes lie back of this,
Many causes lie back of this,
Many causes lie back of this,
Many causes lie back of this,
Many possibilities are involved. In short, all of our people are compelled to be interested in what we are about.

On December 2nd we will have an all-day program in our church. We will serve dinner for all. We will have some visiting speakers. The main object of it all is "financial."
Full details will be presented relative to our work. The largest freewill offering ever made in our church will be made that day. We want the people who are really interested to come with open hearts and be prepared for what we hope to do—put our church forward with a great offering.

We want this to be given wide publicity. We want the people to keep these interests in mind, prepare for the day. We want then to count it a joy to have a good part in a work which is for the good of all of us.

And a hearty "Thank You" is extended in advance to all who helu from the least to the greatest.

Yery Sincerely,
W. W. ADAMS.

PEOPLE VS. LEADERS.

It will not be long before another election comes along, and now is a good time for the people to begin discussion of possible candidates for public office.

discussion of possible candidates for public office.

When the people crack the whip the 'leaders' trot along like docile ambs. They dare not go against the rowerful will of the votera determinedly expressed. But when the people are apathetic the self-created kackers are quick to seize the reins, flevrish the lash, and drive the voteri line sheep to a shaughter pen.

In isolated cases where the people have selected their own candidates they have invariably elected good line who were true to their trust. When the designation of candidates is left to the leaders the fortunate candidate must do the bidding of his boes, knowing full well that a failure to do so will put an end to his political carver.

Do a lot of thinking, and then do as much talking.

SCHOOL UNIFORMS

The idea is advanced by some ucators that it would be well for the girl students of high and "press schools to wear some distinctive form. It is argued that such plan takes the attention of girls assert from dress, and makes it easier two concentrate their thought on other aims. Also it promotes democraer. The girl from the humble home is not placed at a disadvantage by the need for economy on clothes.

The girl who is aubitious to make a fine appearance is forced then to depend upon her fine carriage and aosture, her pleasing manners, instead of making up for defects by spending more money for clothes. Much can be said in favor of the idea.

Seen in Proposed Equal Rights Canstitutional Ameadment.

(Toledo Blade.)

An arrangement has been made for introducing the equal rights constitutional amendment into Congress which is so greatly desired by the states, which is so greatly desired by the Mallon Women's faulty. This amendment if attifed by the states, will put women and men urion exactly the same basis in the eyes of the law. Of course, should the women insist upon having it, Congress will not hesitate about offering the measure to the country. But women do not all favor it. Many fear that they will lose more than they will gain. There are, for example, certain laws restricting the condition of labor of women which do not apply to men, and equal rights amended, it is declared, would wipe these statutes out. And equal rights amended, it is declared, would wipe these statutes out. Whether the is true or not, a battle will be fought along this line. # FAYETTE FARMERS JOIN IN WAR ON SCRUB STOCK

IN WAR ON SCRUB STOCK

Lexington, Ky.—With the organization of the Fayette County Purebred Sire Association, Fayette county has joinjed the ranks of 50 or more counties in which an organized effort is being made to build up better paying herds of livestock thruthe use of purebred sires. The new association, which is composed of prominent livestock breders representing every line of stock raising in the county, will work with County Agent W. R. Gabbert and the extension division of the College of Agriculture in advancing the nation-wide "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign in this section of the state. The intensive drive against scrub investigation in the county will be started soon after the first of the new year, at which time a series of night meetings will be held throughout the county to show farmers the abvantages of purebreds over scrubs and get them interested in the campaign. The day following these night meetings in each community, teams representing the association will cake a cenaus of all scrub livestock and euroll the farmers who already are using nothing but purebred sires in the campaign. Wayland Phoads, beef cattle extension specialist of the college, who is directing the better stock campaign in Kentucky will assist with this phase of the work.

"Kentucky now stands third among all states of the country in the many conference who have

"Kentucky now stands third among all states of the country in the number of farmers who have been encolled in the empaign the use nothing but purebred sires in all their breeding work, while the leading Kentucky counties in the drive are Union and Oldham," County Agent Gabbert said in speaking of the empaaign. "Kentucky should be at the head of all states and certainly no county in the state should be ahead of Fayette when it comes to the matter of good livestock."

As the Editor Sees It.

The latest bid The latest bid for the supposed purpose of which is to put the Ku Klux Klan out of business.

No. We do not know much altout this.

We do not know much altout this.

We re-reciation, and we are equally informed as to the real purposes f the K. K.

But this spirit of underground rife has grown to the point where demands attention from all loyal mericans.

it demands attention from all loyal Americans.

If this country is to be overrunt by a lot of secret societies making war upon each other let's have a federal law requiring them all to conduct their warfare in the open and in the light of day.

Congress might do well to pass a Law requiring all secret organizations or societies of every nature to publish annually a certified list of their officers and members, together with their declaration of principles.

If their purposes are loyal, lawful and within reason, then they should have no objection to such publicity. If they can not measure up to that standard, then they should not be allowed to exist.

We have no place in America for secret.

Sometimes we publicly criticise our officials for something they have done. Then again it is something they have failed to do that calls forth our words of censure.

They are at fault for their errors, and we are equally at fault for talking about them instead of to them. When a public official is adopting a course that is inimical to the public weal the better thing a course that is inimical to the public weal the better thing to do is to go straight to him and state the case as we see it.

The patriotic fervor of some of these would-be presidents is a markelous thing to behold. It is heart couching and soul stirring to a degree, until one remembers that these pastriots who would "cast their all upon the altar of their country" are just plain politicians, seeking the globy of the highest office in the dand instead of waiting for the office to seek them.

Patriots? They remind us of a hungry fisherman waiting for a nibble.

Daniel Webster once remarked that the farmers are the rounders of civilization. He ponted out how in primitive history there always came a time when the tribes of natives began to stop getting a living from burning and fishing, and began to establish themselves in one place and till the soil. When that time came, civilization begns, and all the other arts of modern life follow. So it remains true that the other industrial arts can not be prosperous unless farming is well kept up. It is to the farms that the country looks for young people having integrity and mechanical skill. There are a constant reserve from which the country's industrial ability is drawn.

Kentucky's total production of to-bacco of all kinds in 1923 is esti-mated at 476,280,000 pounds in the November crop report for Ken-tucky, issued by the Louisville of-fice of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics, in co-opera-tion with the State Commissioner of Agricultural Economics, in co-operation with the State Commissioner of Agriculture.

This is about 7 per cent increase over the 46,250,000 pounds pro-duced in kentucky-ir- 1922 and the state's average annual production of 445,002,000 pounds, 1917-1921 in-clusive.

Gov. Morrow has called a special election for the Fourteenth Senatorial District, for Dec. 6th, to fill the wacancy caused by the resignation of Franc Daugherty, Attorney-General elect. The district embraces Nelson, Washington, Marion, Taylor und Green counties.

"A motor truck was put to work, and nased on the old price of 25 cents a barrel for haulling the potatoes by horses, this truck paid for itself the first season, hauling 24,000 harrels."

This is not an advertisement of the notor truck. Any motor truck would do it, in provided it had, the road and no motor truck could do it unless it has a good road over which to trave!

no reofor truck could do it unless it has a good road over which to travel. This is not an advertisement of potato farming. The same economy may be had with any produce, whether lettuce or grain, hay or onions, affatfa or corn, if there is a good road over which to haul it. No crop, no matter how profitable to raise, is as profitable to sell, if it has to be marketed over a poor road.

has to be marketed over a poor road.

This is an advertisement of the need of good roads!

For if there has been no heavy road grade, which cut down horse hauling to the point where the price was prohibitive, the motor truck, which could make it, could have made it at twice the speed or with double the load and half the cost.

Mud stalls the horse. Grade (sts. down his load. Mud stalls the truck.)

Grade cots down its speed. "Lot." and "speed," as used here, are both synonyms for "profit." Good roads proper grades, quick, sure, heavy hauling at low cost. ... that's the answer to the farmers' need of some way to make his business pay better.

They state that the responsibility for the ultimate collapse of civilization must rest upon our shoulders. They would have us believe that America has but to reach out its hand and all Europe will be transformed into a Garden of Eden, a land of peace and plenty.

Cold, selfish, and indifferent to distress? Let us see.

When God but recently placed the hand of destruction upon the Japanese people, visiting upon them a series of earthquakes unrivaled in hittory, the American navy was on the scene within a few hours with food and supplies for the destitute and aid for the injured. American saliors labored side by side with the Japanese in relieving distress, and no questions were asked or conditions imposed.

Within a few days more American ships with immense quantities of army and navy supplies arrived in the stricken Japanese ports, and these supplies were turned over to the Japanese for distribution without restriction.

Five years ago our army and navy were at death's grips with the powerful German empire.

Today the German population is crushed, humiliated, discouraged, and many are crying for bread that is not. Five years ago our enemies, but today holding out their shrunken hands to their big brother for relief. And that appeal has not been denied.

American aid is pouring into Germany, just as it has been given in every case in history where there was justice and mercy to be found in the appeal.

American is quick to aid genuine if distress, but the American people are averse to making catspaws of foreign governments that place greed and selfishness above justice and honor.

When the governments of Europe when the governments of Europe demonstrate by their own actions that they are entitled to further aid from the United States that aid will be forthcoming, and there will be no delay in the profer. The fate of the world does not lie in the palm of the American hand. Civilization can not be saved until civilization does something to save itself.

UNCONSCIOUSNESS

One of the most difficult problems that confronts the physician who is said to see an unconscious person-for example an unknown man picked up in the street—is to determine the cause of the unconsciousness. Yet it is important to know the cause if possible, since unless he knows it he may not be able to make a correct diagnosis of the case.

The most common cause of Intermost common cause of unonaciousness are: injuries to the head, approplexy or brain disease, poisoning by opium or some other narcotic drug, alcoholism, sunstroke, or heat stroke, heart disease, hysteria, or an infectious disease such as pneumonia or typhoid fever. Finally, the person may be malingering.

The skull should always be examined to see if there is any depression showing a fracture; when the fracture is at the base of the skull there may be bleeding from the ear
-the only sign pointing to the injury. In appoplexy the cheeks will often flap with the breath, the mouth will be drawn to one side and the pupils will be unequal in size. The same symptoms may be present in cases of tumor of the brain. In meningitis the muscles of the neck may be stiff, and the patient will be feverish. In epilepsy the unconsciousness is usually preceded by more or less. violent. convulsions during which the patient may have bitten his tongue; possibly a scar will give evidence that he has bitten it in some previous attack. In the unconsciousness of Bright's disease or diabetes there is usually a peculift sweetish odor to the breathy conclusive, though it is always possible that appoplexy or heart failure may be the cause and not the drink. In sutty weather the unconscious person may be suffering; from sunstroke or heat stroke; if so,
the skin will be very hot and dry in the case of sunstroke and clammy

SCRUB BOAR COSTS FARMER $1,000.

How a scrub boar owned by a far-mer in Union County, Ky., cost him $1,000 is told by Wayland Rhoads, field agent in animal husbandry of the Kentucky Extension Service. The first cost of this boar was $8. He was bred to 12 sows, each of which pro-duced two litters of pigs while the boar was head of the herd. All the 24 litters made unsatisfactory growth.

boar was head of the herd. All the 24 litters made unsatisfactory growth.

Later, in connection with the "Better Sires—Better Stock" movement, the farmer replaced the boar with a good purebred and used the same sows. The pigs sired by the purebred boar brought the owner $1,090 more in the same length of time than the pigs which the scrub boar had sired. The two experiences caused the Union ciunty farmer to conclude that the use of the scrub boar for 24 litters of pigs had cost $1,000. According to United States Department of Agriculture livestock specifists, to whom Mr. Rhoads related this incident, scrub sires are the most expensive kind a farmer can keep, a fact supported by the foregoing result.

ROOT ROT IS CHECKED BY NEW BURLEY STRAIN

Lexington, Ky.—he root rot resistant strain of burley tobacco developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station this year in Fayette county again proved its worth in checking root rot and saving growers heavy annual damages in the way of reduced yields and quality caused by the ravages of the soil disease, according to a report of County Agent W. R. Gabbert. Proof of the merits of the resistant strain was obtained from 65 demonstrations put on by farmers we cooperated with County Agent Gabbert in growing the new strain alongside of common strains to compare them. In each demonstration the resistant and common strains to compare them. In each demonstration the resistant and common strains to compare them. In each demonstration the resistant and common strains from the rame way.

In 31 of the 65 demonstration plants from the resistant strain grew faster and were ready to be topped from one to two weeks earlier than plants from common strains, according to the report. In only two demonstrations did the common strains, according to the report. In only two demonstrations did the common strains, according to the report. In only two demonstrations did the common strains of the resistant and in 32 of the demonstrations. The common strains were the most uniform in three of the demonstrations and in 32 of the demonstrations in 30 demonstrations. There was no difference.

The soil on 17 of the 65 fields where demonstrations were staged was found to be badly infected with root ref. This indicated that there is even some advantage in growing the own strains in 30 demonstrations and was mere uniform than common strains in 30 demonstrations and in 32 of the demonstrations in 30 demonstrations and in 32 of the demonstration were sequent to the resistant strain were of the county is shown by the fact the oil and vinegar in mixture; but if the sauce is set away for a time, the oil breaks its bonds and returns to the top.

If we toss a measure of stone, gravel and sand into a vessel of water, shake the vessel thoroughly, then set it saide to settle, we shall find the stone at the bottom, the gravel above that mid the sand on top.

The oil and the gravel hoth found their places by means of their weight—heavy things sink, light things float. No one has yet figured out what there is in burnan relations that corporate in the sand invariably fails into it sooher or later.

Whatever it is that determines rank men are conscious of its presence when it is present. Let the officers of a regiment be killed and if there is a leader in the ranks he will assume command. No one will tell him to lead—he will step forward and the others will follow him. Hatory tells us that the thing has happened time after time in hattle. Gather together a hundred boys from all parts of the contray and put them together in a camp somewhere and within a week three or four boys will take the place for themselves as naturally as oil takes its place in a mixture. It is not inertial ability that causes the difference in rank, as was obvious in the case of Carton and Stryver, where the highler man held the lesser rank. It is not energy, for the excessively energetic man often ranks lower than his more deliberate brother. It is not deneation, for many a man with his Ph. D. ranks lower than bis more deliberate brother. It is not deneation, for many a man with his Ph. D. ranks lower than bis more deliberate brother. It is not deneation, for many a man with his Ph. CARE OF TEMPORARY TEETH

CARE OF TEMPORARY TEETH.

November 1.7—After the coming of the first teeth, until the child is two years old, the mother should clean the teeth daily with absorbent cotton wrapped around her finger, using a boric acid solution—I ounce to a pint of boiled water. Between the ages of two and three years the child should be given a smooth tooth brush and taught to wash his own teeth. He should be made to understand that this is just as necessary as washing his hands.

From the age of three the child should go to the dentist regularly for an examination as the supervision of the dentist will go far toward preventing decay and cavities will be discovered before much harm has been done, thus making the treatment less painful and preventing the child from developing a fear of the dentist. Many parents think that temporary teeth is on the ned to be filled—they will come out anyway so what is the use of all that trouble and expense? The preserving of the temporary teeth is of the UTMOST importance, as they are needed to the very moment the permanent teeth are ready to take their place. About the sixth to the eighth year the first teeth become loosened as their roots are absorbed in preparation for the coming thru of the second teeth. Too early removal causes the remaining teeth to fill in the space left, thus interfering with the eruption of the permanent teeth and creating a tendency irregularity Too early loss means imperfect chewing, poor digestion, contamination of food from decayed teeth, frequent toothach and loss of sleep at night, which even in early childrood, often cause abscesses at the roots, infected tonsils and many other diseases.

Notable Victories For Kentucky Horses

Dasha Brackenridge in The Lexington Herald.

In the brilliant cosmopolitan crowd which througed Latonia to witness the Latonia Championanip Stakes Saturday there were purely by papers from swary section of the country, to give an account of the race which would settle the championaip of the three year old thoroughbreds. From New Xork, Obicago, St.-Louia, Kansas-City, Buffalo, even-from fear away-protiand and puritantical Boaton there came writers to witness and describe the duel between Zev, the conqueror of Papyrus, and My Owa, which many Americans thought should have been selected to race against Papyrus. Comparatively few of those who came from away even gave condideration to any except Zev, winner of the Kentucky Deby, and My owal of the State o precision of the beauty of the Latonia race track and the arrangements made for the convenience, comfort and pleasure of race goers at that track.

There were in a number of the accounts we happen to have seen frank comparison between racing in Kentucky as exemplified at Latonia at the running of the Lotonia Championship and at Churchill Down at the running of the Derby, and at other tracks, and all in favor of racing in Kentucky. The handling of the crowds, the accromodation of the patrons, the couriesy of the attendants, and the beauty of the grounds is an attention of the patrons, the couriesy of the attendants, some feature emphasized by one at some long particles, the content of the writers, some feature emphasized by one at some long particles. The particle is a some long particle is a some long particle in the result of the writers, some feature emphasized by one at some long particles. The particle is a some long particle is a some long particle in the result of the Latonia Championship, Due to the interested in the result of the Latonia Championship, in which Zev was to demonstrate his superiority over all rivale, or was it to be revealed that though he conquered the winner of the English Derby there was another three year old in America better than he. The news of the result was eagerly awaited in racing circles in English, France, Argentha, Brasil, Raly and Spain, wherever the thoroughtered is produced and rised.

We have never seen a race that created such intense interest among those who were present to watch it. The throng filled every crevice of the grandstand and parkway, and overflowed into the in-field, was tense and sileat for minutes before the horase came on the track, and the greeding given to the horse was far more like an involuntary exclamation forced from minutes before the horase came on the track, and the greeding given to the horse was far more like an involuntary exclamation forced from minutes before the horase came on the track, and the greeding given to the horse was far more li

WACES AND LIVING COSTS
The American working man is better off today than ever before. Measured by purchasing power wages are higher than in the months of so-called "peak" wages in 1920.
The National Industrial Conference Board reports that the wage situation reflects at present the higher level for real earnings as weighted with what these earnings will buy than at any time since the war, not excepting the peak of 1920. Cost of living in July of this year, which is the latest time when comprehensive figures are available, was 61.9 per cent above the 1914 level. This was a decline of 20.8 per cent from the peak of high prices in July 1920. Most noteworthy were the increases in rents throughout the country, averaging 75 per cent higher than in 1914 and comparing with the former peak of 71 per cent in spring of 1921.
Since March, 1922, up to July,

Boys and girls who travel over the new good road, can help. Watch the road. Look out for the bad places, Keep your eyes open for the spot where the surface has "raveled" or worn off showing the basic rock beneath. Look out for the uneven ridge, the "waving" which sometimes occurs in oiled roads. As soon as you see any such spot, note carefully exactly where it is, so that you can describe the location accurately on paper. Then write a letter to the road official who has charge of that stretch of road, and tell him about it. You may think that so tate road official will not pay any attention to it, but write and then are such—he will not only pay attention to it, but write and than you for your good citizenship. This was a decline of 20.8 per cent from the peak of high prices in July 1920, Most noteworthy were the increases in rents throughout the country, averaging 75 per cent higher than in 1914 and comparing with the former peak of 71 per cent in spring of 1921.

Since March, 1922, up to July, 1923, there has been a gradual rise in the cost of living aggregating 4.7 per cent. Of this increase 1.7 per cent occurred since March of this year.

Average cost of clothing increased less than 1 per cunt since March of this year. In March 1920, the clothing peak was 17.7 per cent. There has however been a slight increase since Marc of this year, averaging 8 of 1 per cent for the average families clothes. The increase in the family clothing bill is now 70 per cent more than in 1914.

Comparing living costs with wages and hours of employment, the board finds that wages n whave a higher purchasing hower than in 1920, when they vere supposed to be high est. During first half of 1923 increased pay and the higher level of hours worked resulted in substantially increased earning.

MAGNITUDE OF AGRICULTURE.
Farming is the largest industry-in the United States. Few people comprehend its magnitude. The officials of the National Association of State Marketing estimate that the farmers of the United States sell a sufficient amount of farm products to load 23 cars a minute, valued at $20,000, and buty $200 worth of farm supplies everytime the clock ticks. They also estimate that during the next decade farm products will amount to 225,000,000 carloads, valued at not less than $175,000,000,000,000, and that more than $100,000,000,000 worth of this will be placed upon the market. They estimate that farmers will not buy less than $400,000,000 worth of farm supplies. The purchasing power of the farmer and the magnitude of his business are not appreciated until the total account is brought together and then the figures are so large they cannot be comprehended.

Mhat other language ever spoken by man can compare in richness of opportunity with English! Take, for example, these words: self-concelt, self-assurance, self-sufficiency, self-complacency, self-swill, self-confidence, self-exteen, self-rellance, self-respect. All of them express something of a man's mental attitude toward his own abilities and achievements, yet with what various and delicate shades of meaning! As they are here set down they form almost a progressive series from the neutral or mildly condemnatory to the worthy and desirable, says Youth's Companion. There are both racial psychology and history in that list.

Japan is reaching out for a new to-dustry. According to consular reports the Japanese government has invested in machinery for the making of woolens, and to encourage the manufacture is loaning the machines to private concerns at a nominel charge. This is a new departure in Japan, says San Francisco Chronicle, where the cloth industry has been limited to cotton and silk. The action of the government is very likely distrated by the prospect of diverting to the island empire the wool production of Mongolia and central Asia in general.

Flesh of Guineas Much

Like That of Game Birds

Guineus are good layers; the eggs are good for cooking and table ase, and the meat, while not as popular as chicken, is used extensively in hotel circles to take the place of game birds, which their flesh resembles very closeity. The meat of old guineas is very tongh, so they should be eaten before they are a year old, unless kept for breviling. They do not scratch like hens, so are very useful for eating bugs in fields and gardens. This suits them fine, for they dislike confinement, but are great foragers. When the guinea hen starts to lay you may remove some of the eggs, but this must be done very carefully and without touching any of the eggs with the hand. It is recommended that they be taken from the nest with a wooden spoon. Not less than five eggs must be left in the nest all the time the hea is laying. She will lay many more than are required for one stitting if properly managed. The extra ones can be marketed or used in the household, or set under hens or turkeys, but if, after the first five eygs are layed, there are not that many in the nest at any time when the her returns to lay, it is said she will abandon the nest and start another elsewhere.
Some people say the guinea fowl cancount five, if not she has a remarkable mitution, and it is well to humor her with regard to her peculiarities. They should not be confined with hens, as they are very domineeping and will chase hens all around the yard or pen and prevent them eating with any degree of comfort.

Feed All Young Chicks Like That of Game Birds

Feed All Young Chicks Little but Do It Often

Little but Do It Often

Young chicks should be fed a little at a time and often. They should be fed early in the morning and just before going to 'bed' at night, and not less than two times in the intervening period. For the first two weeks they may be fed 'bitses treals of soft feed and two of hard, feeding less soft feed as they grow older.

No more indistened soft feed should be given at one time than they will eat up clean. If any feed is left it should be removed or it will grow sour and cause bowel looseness and dysentery. The finely cracked grains may be safely used from the start, but the chicks do not as a rule grow as rapidly as when a part of the feed is ground. When the chicks aro from four to six weeks old the frequency of feeding may be decreased to three times a day.

From the very first chicks should he ladued to exercise. Activity is a prime factor in promoting health and growth. Feed grain in the lower, and make them seratch for it. A little fine chaff or finely cut clover makes a good litter.

Talse the head or have any control of It.

The trouble, according to Harry Embleton, professor or poultry husbandry at Oklahoma, A. and M. college, is brought about by the eating of decayed animal matter. "The best means, therefore, of preventing further trouble is to look the premises over for a carcass of some kind," Embleton says. "In some cases we have found it to be rabbits, in others, snakes or carcasses of fowls. Castor oil given by means of a small funnel and a rubber tible inserted in the food passage seems to help somewhat in restoring the affected birds to health."

Light Brahmas Are Too

Large to Mature Early The Light Brahmas are used commonly for capons, but they are rather too large to mature during the comparatively short summer season. Nine or ten montha would be required for them to mature if they were standard weights.

POULTRY POINTS

The rearing of ducks for murket on a large scale requires extensive capital and experience.

About 50 per cent of the chicks hatched die. For every six eggs næed for hatching purposes one mature pullet is produced.

After the growing poults "shoot the red" as it is called, that is, after the bright red begins to show on their heads and necks, there is comparatively little danger of loss except through accident or hostile animals.

A flock of turkeys requires lots of water during warm weuther. Be sure that a fresh sapply, in a cleun pall or keg, is always availabile.

Practically all the inrge chick farms are attented on streams of running water, and this water aids greatly in successful dack farming.

By means of the E. P. patent old Symons had built up a nation-wide business and become a millionaire. Whenever he-looked at his son he thought of his own humble beginnings and vowed that Edward should never experience hardship in life. Miss Beverley, and old Symons. Agnes Beverley sat down. #### WASHINGTON COMMENT.

A novel presentation of an angle net usually considered in refuting the arguments of those who want the doers open to all immigrants because of sentimental pride in America as "the melting ppt of the world" was veiced by Representative William N. Valle (Colorado) in a speech before the immigration conference dinner given by the American De fense Society.

Mr. Vaile said in part:
"The argument that we are 'all immigrants or sons of immigrants,' is mialeading, because it ignors and directs attention away from the essential point, which is that the American people represent a distinct European stock, having a distinct European stock, having a distinct European and distinct history, and that they brought with them, not from Europe generally, but from a small part of Europe, certain definite as mall part of Europe, certain definite dieals of life and government which they embodied in a Constitution of their own and with which they have their the world."

TEACHERS TO SOLVE ILLITERACY PROBLEM

Washington—Miss Olive M. Jones president of the National Education Association, at a luncheon given in New York, by fifteen hundred educators and teachers in her honor, laid especial stress upon the need of ill-teracy and doing their utmost, not only to eradicate it by their efforts in teachin, but by their efforts as citizens to arouse others to the need of a more intelligent campaign to being this country from its present position away down in the list of literate nations to a position at the top. "The one green problem facing the United States is how to provide an education citizenry which will preserve American ideals and the American form of government," said Miss Jones.

"Every great problem facing education of the proper desired and the said of ican form of government," said Miss Jones.

"Every great problem facing educators to-day-leads back to this one fundamental issue. Illiteracy must be eradicated in order that the courtry may have intelligent voters. Americanization is merely the expression of the need to teach democracy to a tremendous mass of immigrants from undemocratic countries. Citizenship training means traching appreciation for the right to vote so that voters will conduct themselves worthily of the gift. Moral education means training character to the end that the Nation may have righteous citizens. It is not alone for the sake of America, but for the rake of world civilization and the ultimate victory of the forces of good over evit that teachers must accept this challenge to their conscience."

COUNTRY CHILDREN

COUNTRY CHILDREN.
Country life can not be expected to prosper in neighborhoods where the great majority of the children drop out of achool when they have completed the grammar grades.

There should be organized compagins to induce the young people, when they finish with the rammar school courses, to attend some near by school of high school gradules of the school of high school gradules. Teachers, ministers, newspapers, clubs, etc., should work toward that end. Pupils who are about finishing their grammar grades might well be invited to high school functions and given a good time, so they should get interested in high school work. Those who seem inclined to drop out, should be personally visited, and they or their parents persuaded to have them keep on at their studies.

EDITORIAL.

"Who builds for the present, builds only for the past," was not written of good roads, but Is as true of them as of temples and meeting halls. The organization which, knowing it is growing, builds only for its present membership soon finds it has built too small The "present" which is soon comes, brings a membership too big for the building.

The hard road built just big enough, wide enough strong enough, well enough for today's traffic, is built for to-orrow, too only when it is known that the tra c does not, can not grow.

But there are few places where traffic does not grow!

The village of to-day is the thrivingtown of tomorrow. The town of today is the big city of tomorrow, and the big city of tomorrow, and the big city of tomorrow, and the big city of the ment only when the Boston Post Road was built, no such thing as the "capacity of a road" was known. But today, this road (among many) is strained against its capacity limits most of the time, and always on Sundays and holidays. The good roads connecting any two large cities of the nation; Boston and New York and Albany, Baltimore and Philadelphia, Cleveland and Toledo, Chicago and Detroit, to mention only a few, are often inadequate to carry the traffic, but at greatly reduced speed, and speed is as much a part of transport as motion.

New roads should always be built for to-morrow; never for today, For "tomorrow" soon becomes "today," and the road, big enough and to spare for present needs, is speedily used up to its capacity. To paraphrase the quotation, "Only he who builds for the firme heritage to the present."

DAY OF THANKSGIVING

old time Thanksgiving day had four features. First, a church service of thankful recognition; Sec-ond, a feast of good thaings to eat; Third, a reunion of kinsfolks; Fourth kindly provision for the poor and needy.

The modern Thanksgiving observance should include all four of these features. If any of them are lacking, our lives will miss an enriching influence. If our modern folks demand their holiday for rest and pleasure, they can maintain the thankful heart just the same. But human life needs the quiet hour of religious devotion. Unless opportunity is found for that at some time, our natures will lose connection with the deeper springs of inspiration and happiness. Most of us have been happy in the main, or could be so if we would live generous and useful lives, and we all owe something of recognition to the universal love that enfolds us.

It is not necessary to urge anyone to provide the second element of feasting. Any duty that appeals to the stomach is performed with great enthusiasm.

The hird element of faily reunion.

feasting. Any duty that appeals to the stomach is performed with great enthusiasm.

The hird element of faily reunious kept allve fairly well, perhaps as much as can be expected considering how families are scattered over this wide land. The thronged trains on the day before the holiday, and automobile parties filled with jolly bunches of people going back to the old home or meeting relatives elsewhere, tell that side of the story. Family friendships are worth while keeping up. They constitute a binding tie in a day when friendships often change as frequently as styles of clothing.

Don't forget the fourth element of charity. The people who just provide for heir own pleasure, and neglect the opportunity for generous acts to those who have a hard time, miss the best experiences of Thankegiving Day.

TAX REDUCTION.

Secretary Mellon suggests a program of tax reductions which he estimates would cut down the total assessment by $323,0000,000.

If this reduction would go into effect, many concerns that have reckoned their federal income taxes as one of the expenses of their business, would no longer have to addits their prices a sum sufficient topay these assessments. Thus such a reduction would benefit the non-tax paying consumer, It would encourage people to put their money into industrial enterprises instead of into tax exemut bonds.

A heavy weight of taxation rests as a kind of cold blanket on the courage and enthusiasm of the whols community. Opinions will differ as to just how such decreases should be apportioned, but the courty is in great need of lower taxes.

TUBERCULOSIS

The reports that turkeys for Thanksgiving dinner would sell for a lower price this year have been received with enthusiasm in many quarters where the price of the bird for the past few years has seemed a hardship! Offit turkey bird makes a wonderful feast, and you can most see the kidlets' eyes pop out when his rotund form is borne in triumph to the dinner table.

There is probably no period in the life of a boy that seems longer, than the space elapsing between the time that Father begins to carve this noble bird, up to the instant when the youngster gets his helping. It seems one of the ironies of life that the hungriest one has to wait the longest. The Thanksgiving dinners that the housewives of former days used to serve were a marvel, and the young crowd will have to study cookery a long time to equal those records.

Issues that were projected into the primary election and into the regular election, whether real or matters of expediency, will sound again and will have to be disposed of once more.

The Cantrill-aBrkley race for the Democratic nomination and the Fields-Dawson race for Governor will be revived for the sessions of the General Assembly, Certain matters that promise to be recurrent in Kentucky politics for years will come to life after a period of quiescence. Looking ahead to Frankfort next January and February and taking a prophet's chance on saying what will come to pass, it appes... to be a safe prediction that the two "paramount issues made by Charles I. Dawson in his unsuccessful campaign for the Republican ticket will not cut much figure in affairs of the Legislature, for the reason that neither stands a chance to be enacted into law. One is a proposal for a production tax on coal; the other, agitation for repeal of the aw legalizing pari-mutuel betting.

Some railroad corporations have dona much to promote acricultural development along their lines. One illustration of the value of such undertakings is given by the boys potato clubs promoted by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

The story of one of these clubs at Seymour, Indiana, shows that the railroad gave each club member four bushels of certified seed potatoes, with the understanding that each member should plant one fourth of an acrc.

The boys were given competent instruction as to methods, and the result was that the yields varied from 108 to 325 bushels per acre, while the average of potato crops in the whole country is only 35 bushels. Such results would suggest that it would pay the railroads to promotimproved farm methods on a greater scale.

He did not amplify what Cantrill had said but the answers he made to Dawson's insistence that the declare where he stood upon these formation, had opposed repeal of homination, had opposed repeal of the pari-mutuel law and the production tax on coal. appear to have satisfied the voters of Kentucky, as avidenced by the vote that was cast Nov. 6th.

Now that the result of the election has been digested certain Democrats are urging that the next Legislature adopt both measures. They appear however, to be in a hopeless, aminority. The situation was expressed during the week by the Louisville Post, which was the only metropolitan paper outside Lexington the supported Mr. Fields and the Democratic ticket. The Post said with regard to the proposition to repeal the pari-mutuel statute:

"We cannot escape from the fact that in the only referendum conducted this year inside the Democratic party the vote was unfavorable to the repeal of the law. A repeal law, however, will be proposed. The Post does not believe it should be strangled in committee. In fact, the more rapidly it is advanced to a vote the better. Everyone knows that, it will not be passed. Of the 38 Senators it is said that as many as 24 argainst it. While we do not say that this matter is unimportant, we do say that that there are other matters much more important. There is no reason, however, why there should be a division in the party over a matter that already is determined, so far as this session is concerned.

"In the matter of coal production tax, the situation is much the same. Cantrill opposed such a repeal and Cantrill win in the primary election. Fields, who has been elected to be Governor, is opposed to a production tax at this time. But Fields proposes to appoint a tax commission which will make a real effort to tax coal fairly through the ad valorem system. One, two, three, or even four years' delay in imposing such a tax in ot a matter of importance, if—Kentucky coal,—in—the meantime. # DIFFERENCE BETWEEN

The dog is man's most faithful friend.

A man may lie, but a dog won't; a man may get drunk, a man may slander his neighbor, a man may smbezzle and defraud, a man may borrow money, a man may steal money, a man may go into politics, a man may run people down with an automobile, a man may gamble him self to ruin, a man may waste his substance in riotous living, a man may go to heaven—but a dog won't.

Can these things be truthfully spoken of the other friends man has about him?

There is a strong affinity hetween man and dog; it must be the affinity of contrast. Yet any man will resent being called a dog.

Possibly the dog would resent being called a man if he understood.

The maxim works but one way: and if we should say, "Man is the dog's most faithful friend," there would be many to cavil, saying that it was mighty rough on the dog.

Muskogee, Okla.—Declaring that disabled veterans of the world war are "heroes, not objects of charity," Joe C. Thomas commander of an American Legion post in Muskogee said that the legion never has, and never will ask for charity.

Thomas' statement came in answer to words of certain Muskogee cluhmen who had referred to a proposed legion entertainment for the benefit of disabled soldiers as a "worthy and charitable cause." The funds from the benefit performance were to provide controfts for the disabled men at the Soldiers' Memorial hospital in Miskogee.

"The state owes, the city owes—here boys a debt which can never heald in money, regardless of the amount offered them," declared M: Thomas." The wounded and disabled boys in the institution are not charity patients—they are he cos, many who would rather die than he considered as charges of charity."

"The American legion acts as an agency through which the citizens may work to show their appreciation of the boys here, am' he added.

BEFORE HE IS WEANED

Nov. 4.—Mothers frequently ask, "what shall I feed my baby before weaning time." From six months to weaning time breast feeding may be supplemented as follows: A teasoonful of oatmeal or barley jelly, or Cream of Wheat, well mixed with a little warm, fresh milk, after 10 a. m., and 2 p. m., breast feedings. Or bottle of two parts cow's milk one bart boiled water, in place of one breast feeding. Orange juice and water, given once between feedings, or strained tomato juice, same proportion.

After aims enoths the baby may be given small pieces of loaf bread dried in the oven after breast feeding also broth of beet, mutons, and strained vegetables soup—also vegetables that have been mashed and put through a sieve, as were carried, applie, prune juice, or mashed and put through a sieve, as were at the order at the owner of broth of beet, etc.; also scrared apple, prune juice, or mashed prune pulp. Only one article to the voice of the people. Just at present the voice of the people is principally heard rah-rahing at the some of them could get along if they were supplied with bees.

The next session of Congress on a take up the question of tax-xempt securities. The congress will take up this question if it desires to be as fair of the man of small means and the poor man as it is to men of millions.

When the government wants to borrow money it issues bonds that are exempt from taxation. These foods usually bear 4 per cent in terest.

Millionaires buy up these bonds in large quantities because they are non-taxibl. They are more profitable to men of swollen incomes than higher ....erest bonds that are taxable, because the surfax would more than eat up the difference.

The man of modest means can not afford to buy them because the interest rate is too low, and he has no surfax that he wants to cheat.

no surtax that he wants to cheat.

If men of great wealth were required to buy the same bonds the goor man buys, and at the same rate of taxation plus the surtaxes, hundreds of millions of dollars would be added to the government treasury, and this in turn would justify a general reduction of taxation with out inflicting an injustice upon any class.

Through combiations of capital, stiffing of competition, evasion of taxation and systematic gouging of the consumers so many fortunes of staggering magnitude are being built up in this country they constitute a menace to national safety. If congress does not do something to check the growth of these enormous fortunes the owners will soon reach the point where they will be able, through their billions, to control both the government and the congress.

Even now they are too near that al for the public safety.

Andrew W. Mellen, secretary of the treasury, is to the fore with a people of the treasury, is to the fore with the treasury, is to the fore with the treasure of the tree or four hundred mil-Lions of dollars.

A prominent feature of his scheme for reduction, however, is the lowering of the maximum surtax on swolsen incomes, with a slight lowering of the surtax on smaller incomes.

Thus it will be seen that the man stiff great income, who doesn't-need redief, gets it by the wholesale. The man of small means, who does need it, gets a pittance, and the poor man and small.

If Mr. Cell's and his way.

Presidential candidates should hink carefully and long before they wallow the Mellen bait.

The American people will welcome reduction in taxation if it can come them in honer. They will not welcome it, however, if it means a remaination of the debt they owe to he service men.

American manhood has not fallen uite so low.

A total of 108 bushels of grain that later was planted in seed plots this year were treated in seed plots they are were treated in demonstrations of this kind staged on 12 different farms of the county. In addition a number of farmers had smut-free seed grown from barley that was thereted and planted the year before, with the result that there are now about 25 demonstrations in progress in the county to show the worth of the seed treatment as a means of sontrolling the sinusts. There 35 demonstrations are expected to yield between 5,000 and 7,000 bushels of practically smut-free barley. 1924 plantings is expected to go a long way roward wiping out the sauts.

There is not a barley field in the south, unless it was planted with treated seed, that oes not have either he loose or he covered smut in the county Agent Gabbert said. A brief of representative fields showed that farmers were losing from two treen bushess of grain an acre due to the ravages of he smut. The practice of treating barley seed for control of the smuts has become more innoctant than ever in the county in the sast year or two, due to the fact that the barley sereage has been increased 50 per cent to make up for a drop in the wheat acreage brought, about by the low prices for this grain. The hot water method of treating barley seed can be used by any farmer, but it is not wise to attempt to treat all he seed that is to be sown in any one year. The best practice is to treat enough seed for a seed plot each year and in this way get smut-free seed for the field plantings.

Results obtained in the county this year from seed that was treated before planting last fall show that he hot water treatmen gives almost outplete county farmer, 4. H. Huffman, had less than one-tenth of one er cent of smut in a field that was planted from treated seed, while 18 to 20 per cent of the barley heads in another field that was planted from untreated seed were smutted.

POULTRY FLOCKS HIT BY COLD WEATHER DISEASES

Lexington, Ky.—The season for roup, canker and chicken pox is here and scores of farm soultry flocks throughout the tares are being hard hit by these three diseases, according to inquiries being received at the College of Agriculture from chicken raisers wanting to know how to check them. The three diseases are related and often are found in the same flock, according to J. H. Martin, in charge of the college poultry work.

All three are highly contagious and the first precaution against them is to take all diseased birds out of the flock immediately. The entire flock should get a dose of epsom salts through the drinking water, a pound of it for each 100 hens being dissolved in the water and the hens kept in the house until they drink it all. Copper sulphate (bluestone) dissolved in the drinking water at the rate of one ounce to the rail of the drinking water at the rate of one ounce the rail of the drinking water at the rate of one ounce the rail of the drinking water at the rate of one ounce the rail of the drinking water at the rail of the drinking water.

The way to eradicate illiteracy in Kentucky, he said, is to give all Kentucky hildren an equal opportunity to obtain an education.

He expressed exasperation that the said of the said

"Illiteracy is no worse here than it is in any other State," he maintained. "Illiteracy is not Kentucky's greatest menace."

In urging equal educational opportunities for Kentucky boys and girls, Mr. Colvin attacked the constitutional provision requiring a percapita distribution of State "school thus and pleaded for proper enforcement." #### THROWING OFF THE YOKE

THROWING OFF THE YOKE

The recent judicial election in Chicago is of -vo particular interest to the people of this community except in the significance it here to the country as a whole.

In that election the leaders of both of the two great parties on deavored to foint a handpicked coalition ticket onto the people. But the people said no. Then the party chiefs caused the momination of straight party tickets, much of which were carefully handpicked. If they couldn't control the judiciary in one way they proposed to control it in anoher.

Did he democrats vote the straight democratic ticket? They did not.

Did the republicans open their mouths and swallow the party pill as presented? They did not.

For once the yoters concluded they would use their own brains at the polls, instead of heeding the appeals of political leaders. They disregard-ed party lines almost entirely and voted for men of ability, honesty and integrity. Political candidates are still holding the bag.

Why can not the same be done in every election, no matter how insignificant it may be?

Why should the great majority of voters be eternally dictated to by a few professional politicians?

Why can not the repople use their own brains for their own good instead of trailing along as rubber stamps for politicians who thins much of sell and little of anybody else?

Of course we will always have political leaders, but those leaders whould be great majority of the political leaders, but those leaders whould be given always have political leaders, but those leaders to study some book on etiquette that would tell them not to put their foot in their mouth.

Select the Breeding Flock—This is the time of the year to select the breeding uock, which is to produce the eggs for spring hatching. The best results will be obtained where the birds are quartered with others that molted at approximately he same time.

Storing Potatoes—Caution sh be taken not to pile potatoes deep in storage, especially with proper ventilation. It may ce black spots to appear in the tu which lower their value as t stock.

Minerals For the Dairy Cowspractical way to feed minerals dairy cows is to allow free access a mixture of one part of salt to fparts of bone flour.

Thinning the Woodlot—Now is the time to lay plans for taking the poor trees out of the woodlot to give the good trees a better chance. It is a good deal like eating the cake and having it too," for the thinnings make good firewood and a better woodlot is the result. This work can be started as soon as the corn is in the crib.

reaung Calf Scours a simple remedy, often used for calf scours is lime water. Cut the feed to one half and add a pint of clear lime water for a feed or two. Then bring the calf gradually to full feed again.

Interesting sidelights were thrown on railroad problems by E. A. De-funiak, of Louisville, freight traffic manager of the Louisville and Nash-ville Railroad Company, in an ad-dress before the Transportation Club, of Louisville.

dress before the Transportation Club, of Louisville.

"Every time the average family of five eat a meal," said the speaker, "the transportation cost of the food they eat is only slightly more than one cent—less than four cents—a day for three meals. Boiling the problem down to fundamental units, a railroad to earn a little more than three cents must move one mile 9,000 pounds of losgrage and the weight of a passenger, or asy an average of 9,300 pounds. "To earn 1.1 cents the railroad must carry 2,000 pounds of freight lone mile and move 1,700 pounds of train equipment, plus 100 pounds of train equipment, or total of 3,700 pounds. To earn the average pay of one railroad employee for one year a railroad must carry one ton of freight long miles, or more than 48 times the distance from New York to San Francisco, or carry 138, 100 tons one mile.

"To get an idea of what that means, the Louisville and Nashville employs 60,000 men, the Southern 60,000 and the Illinois Central about 60,000 men."

Mr. Defuniak was speaking on the subject. "The Tra c Manager—Industrial and Railroad," in the course of which, during a dipression, he took a stand against Government ownership of railroads. The result of such ownership, he said, would result in added burdens to the people as against the present-day lighter expenditures.

The young crowd are urged to "hend every effort" for success. Possibly that is what the girls are up to when they practice the debutane slouch.

prevents the dumpness and suchmess as dreaded in other subtropical regions.

The cause of this unusual sea hreeze, which is the swiftest and steadiest on the Texas coast, is explained by the weather bureau as due to the topography of the hinteriand of Corpus Christi and the contour of the constline at this jaint. Barren plains, devoid of marshes, rise gradually helina Corpus Christ laby, extending inland for 30 miles. The Elusive "Amparo."

The Elusive "Amparo."

Use of the "ampuro" as a legal recourse in Mexico is to he restricted in a bill which the government intends to present a congress. Abuse of the measure is the reason. President Obegon recently declared that in many instances persons arrested have already provided themselves with "amparo." which secures their ammediate release without ball.

The "amparo" is one of the most generally used and at the same time the most complex procedure to be found in Mexican courts. It is a sort of injunction and writ of habeas corpus combined, and is employed either to restrain a court from acting or to secure the release of a prisoner from custody. Attorneys here admit that an exact definition of the word is impossible, and point to the fact that books have been written about it, with its specific meaning and origin still obscure.—New York Tribune.

Shows Exact Sizs.

The exact size of a loaf of bread is determined by a new machine, shown in Popular Mecbanics Magazine, and designed by the Department of Agriculture while making tests to fix the standard volume of a loaf. A tunnel is fitted with fluxseed, and the loaf to be tested is placed in a container, of known cubic capacity, immediately below. The fluxseed is then allowed to pour in until the loaf is completely immersed. Any overflow will full into pans, placed at the sides for this purpose. At the bottou of the container is a small valve, which, when opened, permits the seed to fall into a narrow graduated container. The measure of the seed in this container subtracted from the known cnibc capacity of the larger container, gives the size of the loaf.

Fur-Bearing Animais Increasing.
An appparent increase in all varieties of animal life in Aniasko, aided by a general respect for the game

Cooling Tank Essential

for Producers of Cream

Cooling Tank Essential

for Producers of Cream

Every farmer who milks a few cows should have a cooling tank of some thad. It makes little difference whether he patronises a creamery, sheeces factory, selia milk or keeps it for his own use; a coeling tank is necessary.

Why net capitalise the great storehouse of cold which lies in the ground?
This can be done by aimply passing the water designed for live stock first through a tank which will serve as a refrigerator for all products which need cooling. Well or spring water in most of the dairy states has a temperature warping from 55 to 65 degrees Fahrenhelt, writes A. L. Haecker in the Illinois Farmer. This is about as cold as the average domestic refrigerator. By utilizing this cold water to chill down the milk, cream or other products we are getting refrigeration at the lowest possible cost.

Millions of follars are jost annually to the cow-keepers of tilis country purely on account of the neglect of milk and cream while it is beid at the farm. Buter and cheese would be greatly improved it every patron used a cooling tank. As a matter of convenience it is worth while for every farmer to he thus equipped, for it is necessary to have a pinne to keep the milk and cream, and where a reerfrigerator can be put into use the housewife will find it very efficient and convenient.

A cooling tank is n-seded in both winter and summer; in winter to pre-frigerator can he put Into use the honeswife will find it very efficient and convenient.

A cooling tank is n-eded in both winter and summer; in winter to prevent freezing and to re-call the cream or milk at a uniform and favorable temperature, while certainly in summer it is n-eded to prevent extreme souring and the development of undesirable flavors. Cold is a wonderful preservative. We are told that the prehistoric mammoth has been preserved by the less of the polar region for 50,000 years. Whan dairy products or perstrable foods are kept at a low temperature de-omposition is retarded, and with dairy products this means much in the way of hetter quality and price. A can of cream kept in a good cooling tank is worth a dollar more than the same cau kept outside and exposed to the heat of average summer weather. The producer is more interested in this dollar than anyone else. He may not feel that he is losing the dollar simply hecause he gets the same price for his product, but this is only a temporary condition; the industry is losing the dollar, and he is the most important and biggest pure for the industry is found to worth while to turn out a good product when it is nearly as easy to do so.

The grading of cream and paping a differential for quality is rapidly and the products and the product is a succession.

It is nearly as easy to do so.

The grading of cream and paying a differential for quality is rapidly soming into general use. In a little shille the cream producers will either have to get cooling ianks or suffer a big loss due to producing second grade cream. The cooling tank is sound, sensible, economical, and demanded by devent and progressive farming methods, and we should all be, for anything that has so much merit.

Farmers Now Realizing

Importance of Good Sire
Importance of Good Sire
These are days of opportunity for breeders of purched cattle. Farmers in general are realizing the importance of putting first-class purebred sires at the head of their herds. With this good demand for buils it is poor policy for breeders having young buils for sale not to give them good care and plenty of the right kind of feed. Improper feeding of the young buil is poor economy.

proper feeding of the young bull is poor economy.

The man out looking for a bull is not much impressed when shown an undersized half-starved bull, no matter how well bred he is. Better prices always are secured for those that are in good thrifty condition and of good size for their age. We cannot afford to sacrifice size in developing the bulls. Remember the bull that has not been well fed is generally disappointing to the buyer. A disappointed buyer is a poor advertisement. A stunted animal is not always satisfactory as a breeder.—W. L. Billzaard, Professor of Animal Husbandry, Oklahoma A. and M. Coliege.

of Good Purebred Sires

of GOOD l'UreDred Sires
The value of good purebred sires in grading up setub or grade cows was shown at the lowa state college in an experiment starting in 1907. Native seruh cattle from Arkanss were graded up through the continuous use of purebred, sires. The granddaughters had an average increase of 4471.7

What Cow Should Produce.
A good dairy cow should produce at Six women, standing on board the steamship, riggled nervously as site approached the little Labrador harbor. They were the surplus of the young feminine population of the lower coast, and were going up en the chance of indigh busbands.

Primitive? Yes, but perfectly natural, Labrador bas a surplusage of men, the lower shore a surplusage of men, the lower shore a surplusage of women, what more reasonable? Sentiment 's for the rich of the great world beyond. Olist Hansen stood by the coil 'C' rope. He was a Nowwegian, forty years of age. Every time the ship approached those shores he dreamed of settling down there and living by sening. He could build so fine a boat. But the loneliness applied him. He always shrank from it at the end.

Olist was forty, yet there had heen only one woman in his whole life. Slish and died—that was seventeen years before—died on their wedding eva. He had lived a dreamy, introspective life since then, intent upon his duties, comunning with his memories. He watched the women. Five of these were comely enough; the sixth a little, finzen-haired, shappless girl, plain, dowdy—who was going to murry her? He saw the look of apprehension on her face.

"Good linck!" he said.

She smilled in response, but he saw tears gilltering between her lustices. The ship drew into the port. Olid tirsew the ropes. She was minde fast. A crowd of Labrador men was waiting there—imany of there was a great chattering. The girls, at first shy, soon responded to their advances. Couples began to pair off. It could not be deeded in a hurry; there were several hours before the ship went on her way, and there was ample time to talk things over. Could she cook? The labrador?

Corn Is Probably Best

Single Fattening Food
Any rations compounded of such fattening foods as corn, oats, buckwheat, baries and wheat will give good results ia poultry fattening? Corn is probably the beat single fattening food, but arises better results when combined with other grains. Under farm conditions the aimple rations will usually give the most satisfactory results, as they are easily mixed and bandled.
Since the jushing ration is essentially a fattening ration, aftening foods should be supplied. Cornmeal under milk or beet craps are usually used as their base. A ration composed of six parts cornmeal, one part beet scrap and four parts middlings is very satisfactory for fattening. By its use about one and one-half pounds have been added to reachers in two weeks.
In runge fattening the ration is largeity grain. Usually corn is used, not because of better gains secured, but because of better gains secured, but because it is inconvenient to feed a wet

Every Year From Gapes

"Ohe in, you'll get a man soon," he sind.

"Oh, I hate them!" she returned, stamping her foot. "This is the second year my people send me up here to see what I can do, because nohody will marry me at home—I'm so homely."

If she was homely, the eyes that she turmed on Olaf were like stars. And, oddly enough, it seemed to bim that the face of the dead Freda looked out of them.

And once more that infinite sorrow filled his heart at the memory of the love of his youth.

"Only hate them?" she returned, stampling her foot. "This is the second year my people send me up here to see what I can do, because nohody will marry me at home—I'm so homely."

If she was homely, the eyes that she turned on Olaf were like stars. And, oddly enough, it seemed to bim that the face of the dead Freda looked out of them.

And once more that infinite sorrow filled his heart at the memory of the love of his youth.

"You ain't homely," he said with conviction. "Trouble is, these men up here don't know good looks when they see them. They want big women, like cattle. Think they can work better."

"Till never come back!" the girl crited. "Think they can work better."

"Till never come back!" the girl crited. "The thred of being hawked around like this. It's wicked. It's infamous."

Olaf said timidly: "You wouldn't many a man you didn't love, I suppose?"

"Love? What's marrying got to do with love?" she retorted. "Love's to do with love?" she retorted. "Love's for children."

"Could yon—would you marry a man who loved you, or guessed he might love you?" said Olaf fearfully.

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

Too often the relationship between good roads and schools is considered to begin and end with the use of vehicles to bring students to and from their Institutions of learning. As a matter of fact, the relationship its much deeper, of greater significance and of more exect.

For it is the universal history of all mankind, that where transportation is ready and easy, civilization follows; that where transportation is difficult and scarce, is barbarism and lawlesaness. And where is civilization; the demand for education, where is barbarism is satisfaction with ignorance.

CONSTITUTION CHANGE

The child labor question will no down, in spite of the decision of the Supreme Court and the efforts of certain industries to prevent the passage of any legislation affecting the employment of children in certain mills and factories.

Representatives of twenty-five organizations of men and women comprising the Permanent Conference for the Abolition of Child Labor, have just met at the American Federation of Labor building in the Capoital of the Nation, and agreed to have introduced at the coming session of Congress the following amendment to the Federal Constitution:

amendment to the Federal Constitution:

"The Congress shall have power to limit and to prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age, and power is also reserved to the seeveral States to limit and to prohibit such labor in any way, which does not lessen any limitation of such labor or the extent of any prohibition thereof by Congress."

It is believed by those responsible for it that such an amendment would be entirely in accord with the principles of constitutional law and that it would have the ecect, when bulwarked by enforcement legislation, of ending the evil of allowing children to work when they should be attending school.

EPERIAM WOODS REPEATS VICTORY OF LAST YEAR

Single Grand Championship Honors With His Steer.

Ephriam Woods, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woods, Stanford, Ky., duplicated his feat of last year and defeated both adult and junior agricultural club exhibitors for individual grand championship honors in the Second Annual Fat Cattle Show and Sale at the Bourbon Stoep Yards last weeg.

His steer, Blacp Boy 2d, a half brother to the steer that won for him last year, was made the grand champion individual of the show over 384 baby beef calves exhibited by approximately 300 junior agricultural club members and 375 head of fat cattle shown by seasoned feeders. It is 16 months old and tigped the scales at 1,070 ounds. Young Woods fed and developed it under direction of County Agent C. B. Elston and the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington. His winnings totaled $140 in cash and several special awards.

that long nights are restful and induce people to take more sleep. They do not produce that effect on the shorty folks, who kick higher as the night advances.

In many quiet homes, the long evenings have been the time when the children dug into their books, and the older folks read and thought, and a lot of real work was done. Those days are said to have gone by, rew that life has been provided with many more amusements.

It is a mistake for people to spend all 'heir winter evenings in going and spending. Most people get a little jaded after a few nights of high jinks, and the fireside and evening lamp and home music seem refreshing to them. Every winter season ought to see some good books read and the problems of life better understood.

Claimed there should be more creative development among the children. The kids anyway are willing to make mud pies and get their clothes all dirt.

The old time complaint against rural life was that it was too isolated. As conditions now are, with plenty going on in the majority of country towns, with automobiles to take the folks flying around the courtry, not much is heard about isolation.

country towns, with automobiles to take the folks flying around the courtry, not much is heard about isolation.

People need a certain amount of toward in the season of the season in order to make the best of their own natures. The majority of great men came from small towns. Their quet lives gave them a chance to think and to study. They acquired deeper-perceptions of human nature, and were able to shappout plans that would improve human life.

The ideas-of-such men are apt to be practical, and to fit human nature. They have seen many new ideas tried out, which promisted brilliant success, but proved not to fit in with human nature. The man whas lived in intimate contact with his neighbors in a country town will have a restraining common sense that eeps him same. When he suggests some idea for the inprovement of society and the state, it sapt to be sound and to appeal to the masses of the people.

The person who lives in a crowded city does not have much time to think. His mind is so constantly assailed by new impressions that take the place of thought. His mind is a kind of mirror that reflects the life of others, but which originates no light of its own.

The future of this country is thus being shaped largely by the people who are doing quiet thinking and planning in the country towns. That is why it is absolutely necessary for the welfare of the nation that the country towns should be prosperous and should give their young people educational advantages. Country town life is a school in which the nation's best minds are being trained.

There is an oid joke on the contry towns, express of by the man who said: "You I came from a country own. I came as fast as I could," it is also true that as I could," it is also true that a let of these folks who were so anxions to get away from the country towns were enually anxious to get back to them a little latter.

WHERE TO BUY

Many people at this moment are considering where they a' uld buy their Christmas stuff. They uight terelize that our merchants are better supplied with holiday goods than ever before.

Our business men have been studying the problem of holiday purchases for weeks and months. More thought and inquiry goes into preparation for the holiday business: than people have any concepting of. The merchants have been investigating the tendencies of this ear's target than good in the second to make sure that they were keeping up with the latest ideas. They are giving their customers a selection that includes the most recent developments, yet is of such standard quality that purchasers and recipients of gifts will receive substantial value.

THE WOOD PILE.

About this time of year in former days, in the country towns, the boys used to face the job of sawing up a pile of wood for winter use. In some families they never received any cash for the labor, but were told that it was their fair contribution to their own support. In others they got their pay, and many men thereby earned the first dollars of the capital that they subsequently accumulated. The boys used to dread this annual job, and complain plaintively about backache. But many of them developed into powerful wielders of the saw and axe, and the stunts they subsequently accumulated. Today many woodpiles are cut not yown, and complain plaintively about backache. But many of them developed into powerful wielders of the saw and axe, and the stunts they subsequently accumulated. Today many woodpiles are cut not yown, and their fathers aboved. The fact that 40 of the newly wood all cut, so that a lot of the byse escape the job at the sawhors over, wanth their fathers aboved. They have an amicable violops at a cut of industry as a reset.

things it will justify to a vast number of the people who elected it.

The Mellen proposal for tax reduction has been hailed by some of the great newspapers as a master stroke. It is a master stroke—for men of great wealth. Mr. Mellen himself is supposed to be in that class, or at least on the fringe.

Men whose incomes are greater than they can comfortably spend pay a heavy surtax. Mr. Mellen would wipe out a great proportion of that tax. This would relieve the man of wealth, but would do nothing for the poor man.

Then he would have a scaling down of all general taxes, and this would affect the rich, the comfortably fixed, and the poor with evident fairness.

The poor man, having no income upon which to pay a surtax, woulf receive of slight beneit through the ceduction in general taxation. The multi-millionaire with his swollen insome would have his general taxes reduced at the same time have a large slice of his surtax lopped off.

There is just so much money in this country. When a new multi-millionaire is created it means that he bas absorbed the money of others less fortunately situated. As the wealth and number of multi-millionaires increase, so does the financial status of the test of the people desertes.

Even a novice can see to what the billing up of great fortunes will even-ably bring us. Evry day sees the experimental properties to condition pre-calling in many distracted Europea countries—the aristogracy of wealth on one side, and the peasantry of powerty on the other.

Tax exempt securities are a haven of refuge for the men of swolled incomes who want to beat the tax assessor.

The welfare of the nation requires that the Issuing of tax excepts securities be prohibited, even if it requires a constitutional amendment to do it.

Congress is on the job again, and if we are to judge by advance press reports the session will resemble a bottch of scrambled eggs. In theory, senators and congressmen are presented to be imbued with Joseph and the services of the country as a whole, with fair and equal justice to all.

But that is a difficult thing to do in these days of practical politics.

In actual practice, a majority are elected or dominated by certain interests, either political or otherwise, and these interests strennously insitu upon. The enactment of—legislation favorable to them.

There are so many divergent interests represented by lobbies in Washington the average senator or congressman is often at a loss which way to turn. He is pulled and wheadled and threatened and stuffed with conflicting arguments until in his desperation he feels like telling them all to go to Tophet.

Even the people of his home state or district are never united. He represents all of the people of his district, yet it is manifestly impossible for him to-please them all. If he favors one groupe he offends another and the holds aloof and does nothing he is damned by them all.

Congress will have many important but vexatious questions to hande at this session, but we are condent that the ultimate welfare of the great mass of the people will be kept principally in mind.

Undoubtedly there are some who are but puppets in the hands of their masters, but the average senator and congressman is not of this stripe. It is our privilege to criticise our public servants, but we should first be informed ourselves before we has judgment upon others.

For what would you do if you were in congress and found the national situation so hopelessly scrambled you didn't know what to do,

A GOOD THING TO PUSH ALONG

A GOOD THING TO PUSH ALONG
When the Boy Scout movement was first inaugurated it was regarded as a joke—as the plaything of a great soldier who had seen his day.
General Baden-Powell, its founder, was the object of much good natureed chaing, if not ridicule.
Today the Boy Scout organization spokes in the wheel of progress, high citizenship and good government.

Men of the highest standing are lending it their active personal and tinauctal support. So it is membership.

Sisters, aunts and cousins are applauding the young fellows as they step off briskly and uprightly under the tutelage of the scout masters.

The nation as a whole heartily approves a movement that it once laughed to scorn.

And the boys therewives are learning a higher degree of honor, integrity, self reliance and good citizenship.

Since the Boy Scout movement is all to the good and nothing to the bad, why can we not have a flourishing troop in this town?

their wings?

Will the United States stop builting motor cars, close up its factories and return to horse-drawn vehicles? Absurd question! Yet there is only one alternative; if we are not to less the economic and social benefits of motor transportation, we must supply roads upon which the powerwhicles fing run.

It is impossible to separate the water from the wave, the fold from the bracelet, or the track from the locomotive. It is equally impossible to separate read from the track, or the passenger car from the highway. They are halves of a whole; transportation is never vehicle alone, or highways alone; it is both together.

Our roads were planned and built.

Our roads were planned and built for a means of transportation which is gone. The earliest highways were for horse riders, the stagecoach came next, after which we had the buggy and the wagon. The narrow road, the teep grade, the soft surface were all admissable for these; none of them are economic for the swift and powerful motor.

AIM OF MEETING DEC. 13.

Lexington, Ky.—Further improvement of the Kentucky spring lamber. By the commission men and traders with the problem at hand and enlisting their cooperation is the object of a spring lamb improvement conference which will be held at the College of Agriculture De. 13th. A preliminary program for the meeting, which will cover every-phase of spring lamb production in the state, was announced today by Thomas P Cooper, dean of the institution. Representatives of the trading interests at Lonisville, Cincinnati, Jersey City and Nashville and of the packing interests of the country are expected to attend the conference, as well as some of the leading live-stock men of the Sutth and farmers and sheep raisers of the s.-te. Some of the prominent speakers on the program will be Robert S. Mathison, head lamb buyer of Swift & Company, Chicago, H. K.-Nickell, of the United Dressed Beef Company New York, and G. H. Lamson, of the Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs and an authority on stomach worms in sheep.

One of the features of the meesnecticut Agricultural College, Stores and an authority on stomach worms in sheep.

One of the features of the mering will be a series of short talks by sheep specialists and animal husbandrymen from other states in which they will outline what is being done in their respective states to improve the quality of the spring lamb, Improved quality as a means of increased lamb con apption the rart that purebred lar of can play in making better quality lambs, what kentucky is doing to standardize spring lambs, why castern packers want strictly high class ewe and wetner lambs, the qualifications of a top lamb, and the control of stomach worrs in sheep are other subjects that will come in for attention during the conference.

The object of the conference is in keeping with the results that already have been accomplished by the college extension division through several years of intensive work for a better lamb crop. Elimination of bucky lambs by docking and altering and the increased use of purebred tams have made Kentucky on of the leading states in high quality lamb production.

MORE WINTERSCS

IF HENS FED RIGHT

At least three-fourths of the hens in-farm flocks: of Kentucisy would lay better in the winter if they were fed right, J. E. Humphrey, poultry extension specialist of the College of Agriculture says. This has an important bearing on the profits that chicken raisers make from their flocks, since eggs are higher in price in winter than at any other time of the year. The flock that lays heaviest during the coming four or five months will pay for more profit on a yearly basis than one that yields with the profit of the year of the year and summer months, he says.

"Feeding plenty of grain alone will not guarantee a full winter egg basket. Experiments on the college farm and tests that have been made by farmers in different parts of the state show that some form of animal protein sch as meat scrap or tankage, must be supplied in the ration if hens are to lay the most eggs in winter. However, if as much skimmilk or buttermilk as a gallon a day for every 30 hons an be had, it is not necessary to feed a dry mash containing this protein in the flock of the profit of the samount being do hens in the flock, and the summer and summer and the summer an

INFLUENCE OF SURFACE

ON POWER REQUIRED

Tractive Effort Experiments Condemn Earth Reads.

That the surface of the road has much to do with the amount of effort required to move a wheeled vehicle and to keep it moving is well known; just what these various efforts are has been determined by a ersies of experiments conducted by the Herachamers Association of America, by means of a testing apparatus invented by Mr. E. V. Collins, of the State Agricultural College, at Ames, Iowa.

According to these experiments, a given load of 7,700 pounds was started by a team of horses on a level brick surface by a 200 pound pull while the same load on an asphult surface required 300 pounds pull and a good cinder and dirt surface needed 250 pounds pull. A concretz ond ellowed the team to start the load with a pull of 125 pounds.

The experiments further demonstrated that the "character" of the horses involved had something to do with the ability of a team to pull a lead, since a small team of bronchos, weighing nearly five hundred pounds less than other teams of larger horses, were able, apparently prounds gameness, to start and pull larger loads than their comppetitors.

PROGRESS WITH THE ROADS

PRIOGRESS WITH THE ROADS.

The people of many rural sections feel that their road conditions are very bad, and they are often right. But if people will look back ten years, they will sually see that road conditions in their own sections have decidedly improved.

So long a school "manma" do not anoke in the school, there's no hore reason for expulsion than there would be excluding them from the church. An age of poverty."

— Merchant of Venice.

There are two periods in the life of the average nun when-his wenth is low- and with povery close. When he had been so been so had been allowed in the life of Shall children dependent upon him, and when he is becoming too old to held his place in the industrial world. The young man starts out in life with a great reserve of youth and health. Unless he enters one of the professions, he begins to make the maximum wage within a few years of the time he begins working. As a general rule, he is wealther at this period than at any other time during his life. As soon as he martles and begins to bring up a family of children, his expenses begin to run even with his locome, or, perhaps, a bit beyond. This is a period when poverty threatens, but it is a temporary threat as soon as the oldest child becomes eld enough to earn money or to ald in the father's work, conditions hegin to ease ap for the father. Then follows a second period of comparative financial wase, as the children begin to contribute more and more to the family support. As the younger children begin to contribute more and more to the family support. As they ounger children begin to contribute more and more to the family support. As they ounger children begin to contribute more and more to the family approaches the age where he is in dancer of losing his work, because he is too old for his place, poverty again approaches.

A most curious and significant thing about Christmas is the way in which it has drawn to itself customs and rites from various heathen sources—the gifts and merry-making of the Roman Saturnalia and brumalia; the plentiful feasts and bazing logs, the evergreens and the mistletoe bough of the Northern Yuletide. Some of our Puritans object to this and would strip it all away. It seems most wonderful and fitting that the natural impulses of human kindness and generosity and hopefulness, symbolized in those old rites and customs, should naturally come to the birthday festival of Him who is "the desire of all nations," even as the Persian Magi came of old, bringing gifts from afar.

The enormous multiplication, expansion and elaboration of Christmas presents has become a serious handicap on the joy of the season. Old Santa Claus is in danger of being strangled by the weight of his pack. Shopkeepers seem to rely upon the enthusiasm of fond parents who doe on their children and remember their own joyous Christmasses.

There are exceptions of course,

There are exceptions of course, but if one visits all the shops in this town looking for evidences of the Christmas spirit, they will be amazed at the result.

"Merry Christmas" is not a one-day event. The weeks preceding should be weeks of joyous anticipation and preparation, culminating in the actual celebration of the birth of our saviour.

the actual celebration of the birth of our saviour.

In the early days of our history the Celts and Germans celebrated the season as the beginning of renewed life and activity of the powers of nature. At the winter solstice At the winter solstice the Germans held their great Yule-feast in commemoration of the return of the fiery sun-wheel. Many of the customs of the old Germans and Romans were adopted by Christianity, followed by the "manger-songs," carols, dramas, feasts, and at a later period the Christ-tree adorned with lights andigits, reciprocal presents, and became a universal social festival for young and old, high and low The Christmas spirit among the

and became a universal social festival for young and old, high and low The Christmas spirit among the people largely depends on circumstances. If shops and store adopt a funeral aspect, merchants must expect a correspondingly depressing sentiment and lack of interest. Indifference begets indifference.

A few dollars expended in fancy fixings for the window, a little interior decorations in keeping with the season, marks the live man, inspires enthusiasm and contributes to the Christmas spirit in the customers. But more important than all else is the ecect on children.—For many of them this display is their only Xmas. For all others it is a joy and pleasure that permeates the home and results in renewed interest, larger purchases and a more prosperous and happy season.

To those who are so inclined the property of the Government of the Government and see these places which it visited at ones own expense would entail an expense that could be afforded only by the most weathly. The life in the Army as is well known does not entail or demand an excessive amount of work. It is all a man's work and an out-door life that makes for health, strength and viyor, and at the same time clothes, feeds and gives medical attention should one become iil. The pay at the end of the month, is all clear gain and profit without any demand mede upon it by anyone. A soldiers pay is all his own and can be spent by him as he sees fit. There is the impression that the soldier is required to be in uniform at all times. This is not so. The wearing of the uniform when not on a post or military reservation is optional with the soldier. In some sections only the highest class of schools are run for the benefit of the soldier who wished to take advantage of the opportunity of learning some special trade. The schools are the Air Service School. Chanute Field, near Chicago, Ill., Signal Corps School at Camp Vail. New Jersey, where telegraphy, radio and kindred electrical subjects are aught. The Engineers School at Fort umphrey, Virginia, where the fundamental principials of Civil Engineering, Mapping, Highway Maintenance and Constructions are taught. With the opening of these several schools at the various posts the Gorment is affording an unvarielled of opportunity to the young run to wishes to learn a trade or technical training while he at the rame time is being paid by the Government.

SMOKE IS LITTLE PROTECTION TO ORCHA DS AGAINST FROST.

A smoke cloud is of small advantage in retarding radiation of heat in an orchard on frosty nights. This conclusion was reached by the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture after a series of experiments at Edgewood Arsenal, Md. Investigations were carried on jointly by the Weather Bureau and the Chemical Warfare Service of the Army, to establish, if pressible, the feasibility of this method of frost protection.

There seems to be a conviction in the minds of many who have had to do with smoke screens, when a west-used during the war to hide the movement of troops, that orchardant tender vegetation could be protected from frost by this means, It has been though that a chemically produced moke cloud would furnish a cheaper, cleaner, and perhaps more effective frost protection than is obtained from burning crude oil or other fuels in small heaters.

In the experiments a field was covered with dense smoke by burning white phosphorus on nights when conditions favored frost. The temperatures were carefully measured under and in the smoke and also in a near-by field free from amoke.

Results showed that while the moke cloud decreased the rate of dooling about one-half, it had little effect on the air temperature, probably because of an inter-hange between the air under the smoke and that outside. The cost of maintaining a dense smoke cover over a field by burning white phosphorus, which was the most economical material available, ranged from $125 to $376 per hour for a 40-arre orchard or $3.15 to $1.40 per acre per hour; whereas the average annual cost of protecting lemon trees by the heater method is known to be about $79 per acre with an average of 10 heatings per year, or $5 per acre per night. The phosphosus is difficult to handle safely, as it ginites at 113 degrees F.

The experiments confirm previous conclusions that the most economical material available, ranged from $125 to $376 per acre per night. The phosphosus is difficult to the air temperature, probable southern and economical meth chean fuel.

The Stimulus of Competition.

It was a very wise teacher, in ome timefar back, who conceived the idea of letting the best-pupils stand at the head of the class, while those who failed had to arop down. In that way many chiuren who were naturally inclined to be easy going, would wake up and make an enor to keep up with the game.

The same principle can be applied in the natter of town progress. They are people who can not be stirred up to support improvement measures on their merits alone. But if they are told that this or that city is putting over some similar plans, and getting results that threaten to leave their own home town in the stade, hey begin to get uneasy. The victinct of competition is stirring in them.

In great majority of people hate.

In the Mode for Misses

The three sprightly hits pictured here, for young glis, convey the appeal of naive and happy youth, in their simple designing. The hat at the top has a cap crown—made in sections—and brim rolled up saucily at the front. Below is a vivet fam with sectional crown resting on a narrow upturned brim and little velvet apples dangling from the side. In the third hat the wider up-rolling brim is featured by placing on it triangular straps having their edges buttonholed with heavy silk floss.

The many friends of W. E. Vest will regret to hear of his death which occurred last Friday night at Levington, after an illness of several months.

He was born near Verona, April 16. 1861. In 1882 he was elected to the office of County Surveyor of Boone county and served in that capacity for several terms. About fiften years ago he moved to Covington, where he was engaged in the real estate business and was an extensive buyer and seller of farm aid city property until his health failed.

The remains were brought to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Everett Aylor, of Walton, Monday, and after a short funeral service, were taken to Highland cemetery and burried by the side of his wife, who preceded him to the grave several months ago.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. & erett Aylor and Mrs. Mary Gulick, of Cincinnati, who have the sympathy of a host of friends and relatives in Boone county.

Farm Agent Sutton will leave Boone county.

Farm Agent Sutton will leave Boone county Jan. 1st, and move to Madisonville, where he has been employed as farm agent for Hopkinr county. Mr. Sutton is one of the Lesi farm agents in the state, and the Hopkins county folks have nade no mistake in employing him. Mr. Sutton has worked hard in Boone county to assist the farmers, and he has been of great benefit to them. He was always looking to the farming interest, and worked untiringly, in the organization of club work, and the young club members will miss him. Boone county farmers regret that Mr. Sutton must leave this field and they wish him success in his new work. The Fiscal Court at its session Tuesday employed R. J. Matson to take Mr. Sutton's place. Mr. Matson is from Ohio and has been assisting Mr. Sutton in the work in Boone county for the past two months.

Batton, visited the high twelve in each club, according to the report given in two weeks ago by the individual members.

Mr. F. H. Sebree, in East Bend was awarded first in the Rabbit Hash Club while Mr. John Bachelor received honors in the Burlington club. There were some three or four heach club that were close after the winners. The prize will be a free orchard conslating of 50 choice trees. Mr. Magill was much struck with this project on the part of Mr. Hanna to interest the people of Boone county in the fruit industry. He further stated that if all the fruit trees set in the county during the past ten years had averaged as well as this 50 orchards the fruit industry today, making fruit an important source of cash.

Numbers.

Lexington receiving plants of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative—Association will be opened to receive the 1923 crops of members on December 6th and the receiving plants in all other towns of the Burley district will open December 10th.

Growers who are members of the Association throughout the district are preparing to deliver their crops promptly. The severe drop in prices on the outsider market is reported to have discouraged many of the outsiders and it is believed likely that those who, for the past two years, have remained outside the co-operate with a view to obtaining continued high prices and payment for their crops in full on delivery, will turn to the Association for the certainty of stable prices.

Members of the Association have filed protests with a number of warehouse comers against the sale of to-bacco at auction by members—and some warehousemen have answered the protests with the statement that they will not sell tobacco' for anyone except in the name of the grower.

SUNDAY A BIG DAY.

Louisville, Ky.
Dec. 2, 1923.

Editor Boone County Recorder,
Burlington, Ky.,
My Dear Sir:
Sunday was a big day in Burlington. One's community is worth no more than the spirit of her citizens.
The joy of living is measured by one's friends, by the sort of fellowship he enjoys and by his sense of duty fulfilled to God and to man.
There is not a citizen in Burlington with a conscious so deadened by neglect of duty to God who cannot feel that the spiritual life of our people is being helped up. And Burlington is a better place to live im—and we are all happier as a result "But the end is not yet."

There is no way to express our tratitude to all. Members of my church, members of no church, members of other churches joined in making this day more than we expected. Every phase of the program was more than we had asked.
The various committees, the visitors, the speakers, those who spoke a kind word for our aim or helped in any way—you know who you are,
and God knows.

My blessings attend every christian of whatever faith in Burlington and a good wish: to everyone. Naw, if anyone wants to know more ask one who was there.

PUTTING CHAINS ON IS EASY JOB

Unless Method of Attaching Is Practiced a Bit, It Is Usually Awkward Process.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automative Engineering, Chicago). Very often it is only that the automobile owner is not sufficiently acquainted with the method of attaching chains that causes him to take a chance when the street or pavement is wet, and not put them on. Enless the method of attaching chains is practiced a bit, it is an awkward process, and as such an automobilist rather than spend a number of minutes fumbling with what he considers to be baddy fitting attachments, will run along and may meet with a serious accident.

Practice is Heipful.

The first couple of times that chains are put on it may take a considerable wible to do it, and the motorist inhar even believe, although he has the indicated size for his tires, that the things are not the right dimension. A little practice, however, will make attaching chains a matter of only a moment or so, and this is time that any one can well afford to spend. In putting on chains it used to be thought necessary to jack up the wheels, but now, of course, it is realized that this is not needed.

The best way is to lay the chains over the wheel with the hook part toward the rear and tuck in the other-end snugly underneath the wheel in front.

over the wheel with the hook part toward the rear and tuck in the otherend snugly underneath the wheel in front.

When both chains are in position thus, the car is started and run altead only a foot or so. This pulls the part of the chain that was tucked larunder the front wheel taut and leaves some extending beyond the point where the wheel touches the ground. It also tightens up the hook end.

Then It is only a simple matter of joining up the ends. Of course, It is suggested that the end on the inside of the wheel be hooked up first. This can be done by hand and the chains will fit as a rule tightly enough.

Learn to Put on Chains.

By way of conclusion it is earnessly recommended that a little time be given to learning how to put on chains. It was the experience of the writer that what at first was a laborious and bungling process became after a couple of trials a matter of seconds only, with the result that "at first drop of rain" the chains go on, as they should.

DRY BATTERY FAILS RAPIDLY

Many Instances Real Reason Is That They Are Not Protected From Moisture. CEIM.

Car owners who use dry batteries often have occasion to lament the brief existence of these devices. In many cases the real reason why the dry batteries fall so rapidly is simply because they are not protected from moisture, dirt and excessive vibration. It is easy to make a story would be the story of molsture, dirt and excessive vibration. It is easy to make a stout wooden box, fitted with a cover and permanent terminal connections. The sides, bottom, ends and cover are made of hard-wood three-eighths of an inch thick. The box may be made to accommodate as many cells as desired, either in single or double rows. The various parts of the box are acrewed together and the inside is riven a very core. and the inside is given an even coal of meited paraffin wax to render it moisture proof. The cover should be made to fit flusb with the box sides.

LOUD CREAK GIVES WARNING

If Noise is Noticed When Clutch is Engaged it May Be Due to a Loose Wheel.

If a creak is noticed in a rear wheel when the clutch is engaged it may be due to a loose wheel, provided that the rear axie is of the semi-floating or three-fourths floating type, in which the wheel is not rigidly attached to the axie. In this type the wheels fit on the end of a tapered shaft and is locked tight by a large cottered nut. If the nut is not drawn up fully and the wheel is a trifle loose the axie will turn alightly—when power is applied and give rise to an sunoring creak. Though the wheel may seem tight upon inspection, an attempt to farther tightes the nut may prove the endorsor.—Automobile Digest.

GASOLINE TO BE PREFERRED

Better Than Kerosene for Washing Bearings, Cleaning Brakes and Running Board.

Running Board.

For all cleaning purposes, including washing of bearings, cleaning brakes and running boat is, gasoline is al-ways to be preferred to kerosene for the reason that it evaporates directly after completing the job. Gasoline, however, should not he used for external cleaning of, the engine; and kerosene that is used for this purpose should only be applied when the power plant is cold.

A little scheme that makes it easier to back out of a driveway is to make a little notice in the under side of the steering wheel nearest the driver when the front wheels are in a straight-ahead position. If the driver starts backing straight and keeps the noted in the original position the car ought ngt to-run off its course.

PLAN TO ADJUST GENERATOR

A good way to adjust a generator to increase the flow of the current to the battery is to lighten, the adjustment of the fan belt which drives the generator. This will speed up the generator and thus increase the output. Another method is by adjusting the tension of the spring on the regulator armature. Increasing the pressure raises the charging rates and decreasing the pressure lowers it.—Automobile Digest.

AUTOMOBILE MARIANTSAIM

From 1909 to 1918 the number of automobiles in use in the United States increased 1,700 per cent.

When timing the ignition of an en-gine it is necessary to know when the pision reack the top of the stroke.

Dairy Animals Help in

About 17 per cent of the matured dulry minuse in this country find their way to the slaughter and packing plants, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. If this percentage is applied to the number of matured dulry animals reported on farm by the last census, and the average live weights and dressing yields are used in calculating the heef production, the result aliques about 1.502-6000 pounds of carcass heef produced from dulry cattle during the year 1220. This quantity represents more than 23 per cent of the total beef produced from the total beef produced by dulry calves leaves slaughtered in 1020 and the resulting figure multiplied by the average live weight and dressing yields, the amount of veal produced by dulry calves is about 500,647,000 pannels for the year 1920.

The principal conditions which cause dulry cows to be discarded for all the calculation of the first production proposes are old age, disease, physical defects, low milk yield, and sterility. Many old, dairy cows and others that are unproduble as milk producers are futiceed for short properly fed such cows make rapid gains, aithough the tendency is to accumulate fat externally and in the look callies rather than to produce a well-mariled fiesh. About 85 per cent of the cow carcasses are graded as common or lower, and the meat is used inargely in the preparation of sausage and canned meat.

Buils that are no longer desired in the heard for variatus rensons make up a part of the meat from dairy cattle. They are seldom suitable for dressed beef, a large proportion of the rounds lecing used for dried or smoked hear and the renabuling portions of the carcasses for sausage.

While the quality of beef produced from mature cows and hulls 'so of lower grade, that is not necessarily true with respect to the veal obtained from dairy calves. Probably 35 per cent of the mal faul and 150 per cen

the furn-bling of drinking, water.

A cow in milk requires about 100 pounds, or 125 galions, of water daily, and heavy producing cows frequently double this amount. During hot weather a cow must have the normal, supply of water and an added amount necessary for adjusting, her supplyfrom normal to hot weather needs.

The question of how often cows should he watered, when they are notkept with a constant supply hefore them, varies with the condition of the weather, kind of feed, etc. It is safe to say, however, that cows in milk should have water at least three times a day.

Profitable Cow Ought

to Produce Much Milk To Froduce Much Milk It is pointed out by successful dairy-men, that to be profitable a row ought to produce at least 5,000 pounds of milk in a year. In producing this quantity of milk, her hutterfat would amount to shout 200 pounds. In addition to the sale of butterfat, the skimmed milk, the manure, and the calf must be reckoned as of value.

Daily Water Supply Is

of Greatest Importance (flow which produce 25 pounds of milks a day require 75 pounds or more of water dally, and instances are on record in which heavy milkers have consumed more than 300 pounds of water a day. A gallon of water weighs eight pounds.

Young Calves Should Be

Fed Good Grain Ration Young calves should be fed grain as soon as they will ent it. Ground oats, corn chop and wheat bran, mixed in equal proportions, constitute a good grain ration. Feed twice daily all calf will clean up, remembering also that calves must have plenty of inlik.

Valus of Soy Beans.

Regarding the value of soy beans for milk cows, the lows station says that soy beans are worth $60 s ton when oil mealths worth $45.

High Quality Butter.
High quality butter is in the greatest demand and it is natural that creamery men should be willing to pay more for the hetter grades of cream.

Ruin Expensive Roads

Juck Frost and Merry Sunshine are wrinking the brows of highway engineers and contractors. Their pranks are ruining expensive hard-aurfaced and paved highways.

During the winter months frost penetrates deep under the road aurface, freezing and refreezing the subsoil numerous times. Then, just like freezing water breaks the water pipe, the subsoil bulges up and cregke the surface of the highway. Rain and slush seeps through these cracks, freezes again, and the process of destruction goes merrily on.

When spring comes the final touches are put on the hreaking up of the road,
The spring rains rush through the subsoil, leaving a hollow shell. The warm sunshine aids in the destruction, drying the surface and making it britttie. It is no time then until the road crumbles away under the heavy traffic lunjacts.

Highway engineers of a hig rubber concern travel and transport hureiu declare that rapidly-increasing lighway travel is focusing the attention of road-building experts to this underlying cause of highway destruction. They say that governmental and private agencies have, in the past ten years, lost sight of adequate subgrade, soil treatment in their eagerness to produce hard, wenr-resisting surfaces for highways.

Men prominent in highway develop-ment, say the hureau's experts, new recognize the urgent need of spending the necessary time and money to build proper road foundations and drahunges before expensive stretches of highway are constructed. Searching study and analysis of subsoils will figure more prominently. In future road-building than any other phase of the work, they say.

A comparison of the truck registration figures with those for the preceding year shows an increase of 30 per cent—indicating—that this phase of highway transport is undergoing rapid development. The increase in truck registration is not confined to hubstrial sections. Such agricultural states as Virginia. Indiana and Florida show increases of 33 per cent. 30 per cent and 29 per cent respectively, which seems to indicate that many farmers are changing their method of hauling as a result of road improvement.

The total gross registration revenue amounted to 152,047,823, of which $117,093,116 was applied to road work under the supervision of the state highway departments. Eighteen states taxed gasoline, deriving a revenue of $11,923,442, not all of the states recording for a full twelve-month period. Of this amount, $0.474,178 was spent under the supervision of the state highway departments.

Angeles, Chl., along the Guif coast and through the territury immediately north of the Mexican border, is desthed to include several sections of road the equal of which wir not be strong enough to withstand any guif storm and to bear the weight of artilery would cost from $390,000 to $400,000 a mille.

Motor Cars Responsible

for Good Road Building The great demand for motorcars that is responsible for many automobile factories working day and night is attributed in a measure to the work accomplished by good roads advocates during the past few years. In turn the automobile itself is accountable for many good roads movements. The two are closely linked.

Aratralian Government

to Introduce Road Bill It is expected that the Australian government will introduce a main road bill for New South Wales at the next seasian, creating a hoard to take charge of and finance the main roads for that province, says Cansul R. Wormath. Sydney, in a report to the department of commerce. At present there is a lock of coherence and consequent inefficiency in the matter of road building, because the control is divided among municipalities.

"With only 40 days to devote to study of legislative needs of the state and my recommendations to the Legislature; it will be impossible for me to devote any portion of that time to discussion or consideration of appointive positions in the state Government: I, therefore, respectfully must decline to discuss further or to consider appointments of the Legislature," said Mr. Fields.

Mr. Fields also made it known that he would permit heads of departments to name their subordinates without interference, On this subject he said: "I will say, for the information of those desiring positions, that the Governor has at his disposal few appointments, former Legislatures having placed the appointive power, in the main, in the hands of departments are responsible to the state Government. In view of that fact and the turner of the state for the faithful and efficient discharge, of the duties devolving upon their direct that heads of departments are responsible to the state for the faithful and efficient discharge, of the duties devolving upon their direct, hall not attempt to infringe upon their-legal rights to elect." Frank Rolfsen, proprietor of a tin shop at 361 West Oak street, Ludlow, Ky., and his two brethers, Geo and Joseph Rolfsen, Bromley, Ky., were arraigned Thursday before O. H. Roetken, Federal Commissional at Covington, on charges of having vicilated the prohibition law.

The men were arrested by James M. Wood and W. C. Huddleston, prophibition agents at Covington, and It. It linns, Sheriff of Ponone County, who said they found a still of 70 gallors capacity in a garage loft in the rear of Kolfsen's tin shop.

Officers also found a number of cardboard patterns in the tin shop, which they said, were designed formarks nedicating the cepacity of the still each pattern was intended for. Rolfsen said the still found in the garage had been left there for repairs by a farmer several days ago and he had refused to work on it. Pedenied the patterns found by the officers were for stills, and asserted they were used in the manufacture of farge cames.

The same officers said they found a ten-gallon still in a building near Bromley, Ky., which was said to by Jeong to the Relfsen brothers.

The visit of the officers to the tin shop was the result of a request by Sheriff Hume, who said the still from the side of the said, had been removed to Rolfsen's tin shop in Ludlow.

LOVE FOR THE HOME TOWN

lt is often noticed that men of an easy going disposition, who have never been inclined to work at all hard, will change their natures radically after petting married and acquiring a family. The feeling that a weet woman and fine children aradependent on one's industry, is a tremendous stimulus to energy.

offs a good deal the same in trying to arouse some sleepy folks to an interest in home town activities. Most of them cherish a genuine at feeting for their home community. They would feel a pang if they had to leave it.

The idea should be impressed unon them that the future of their home town is dependent upon the activity of its citizens. The thought that unless they took hold and help-ded, their home town would drag and fall behind and fail to keep up with the times, has been a thought that has aroused many men to do their part in assuring its future.

Cananything ever be more important to this Nation than seeing to it, thru Government help, that its schools are making the best possible citizens of its children?

EMERGES CLEAN.

Louisville, Ky.—Kentucky emerges clean and without a breath of suspicion against her in the "24 hour doctor diploma" scandal that has cast shame upon other States. Much of the credit for this condition can be laid to the door of the vigilance of the State Board of Realth and the model health laws which recent ly were so highly praised by Dr. Charles Mayo of the Mayo Brothers. Clinic, Rochester, Minn. However, Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health officer, says the credit for this condition should go to the newspapers of the State.

Right after the close of the Span shame-lean war, through the efforts of the late Dr. J. N. McCormack father of the present secretary of the State Board of Health, the State press agreed to refuse the advertisements of quack doctors. At that time Dr. McCormack was nighting with his back to the wall to climinate through the sole of "cure alls" that cured nothing. Neither of the Dr. McCormack have looked with distavor upon legtimate advertising by doctors, but the height laws of Kentucky, are such that permits to practice medicine in this State are contingent upon the prospective practitioners passing rigid examinations. To use the words of the present health officer, this puts every doctor upon the same level, all mux, know their business, hence, none can advertise that he can do more than any other. This is one reason for Kentucky into being a happy hunting ground for the "doctors" wno became such by the prechase of discuss that they mig; t was fat of the misfortures of their fellowmen. Dr. Mayo in his address to the University of Louisville students and the first that hew are the model for proback "Careers and it is important that those States which have copied Kentucky's health lews are the model for proback "Careers and it is important that those States which have copied Kentucky's health lews are hemoel for proback "Careers and it is important that those States which have copied Kentucky's health lews are hemoel for proback "Careers and it is important that those States which have co

which will result from the Bok pride

In former sessions, this, to the future perhaps the most important piece of legislation which Congress can enact, has been sidetracked in favor of more important bills.

Pechaps it has been pushed to one side because of the strong pressure brought against it by enemics.

But this session can not be sidetracked. The pressure on Congress to pass it is overwhelming. Everparticitic and almost every fraternal order it behind it. Churches endorse, alumni associations, and undergraduates are for it. Chambers of commerce and civic organizations demand it. Parents want it. School organizations want it. Almot every one who knows anything about it, wants it. And Congerss is not apt to turn a deaf ear to so deep-seated a desire, so strong a feeling that the time has come when the U. S. should

But to achieve this victory over quackery, the State Board of Health has had a hard battle. Much of its energy and time has been devoted to warring on the politician who sought to drag the State Board invapolities. Politicians of both parties have tried for forty years to shackle the work of the health police force. The length of service of father and son as secretaries of the State board have set a record in this country, where the average term of the State heath for the state of the stat

RAISING CHURCH MONEY.

The raising of money for the country churches is a big 'problem in many towns. The expenses of a church plant and operation thereof have gone up like everything else. Country ministers are a whole much underpaid for the service they give, and many churches should be ashamel of the small salaries they offer.

People shoull realize that it is often cheaper to make liberal ddirect gifts of cash to a church, than to try to raise money through roundabout ways that call for both labor and expense.

According to officials of the Treasury Savings Organization, there is still outstanding in the Fourth Federal Reserve District approximate y $16,000,000 worth of the second series of War Savings Stamps, issued utring 1919, and which are due for payment January 1, 1924. The foregoing amount it is estimated, is held by some 250,000 people. No county in the District is without holders of some of these 1919 stamps.

It would be a sad ending for these beople of small of noly moderate means to be deceived into throwing away what they have saved and held, through rigid self-denial in times of stringency. Each will decide for Imself in the end; but for investors to whom absolute asfety is a paramount consideration, what better renvestment of their. War Savings Stamps fund can be named than the new 4½ per cent Treasury Savings Certificate, issued by the Government on the same five-year planas the 1919 War Savings Stamps. They are available at the post official denominations of $25, $100 and $1.000, maturity value at lasue prices of $20, $80 and $800 respective. The fellows who go to the cities for an easy job, frequently work very hard walking the streets in search of work.

And the folks who are too lazy to keep their home places looking very well, usually have to work very hard to sell them at a decent price.

As the Editor Sees It.

Now have noticed many times how insects flatter around a bright ligh. The light is ewerful, the insects weak. One attracts, and the other responds to the attraction.

I so with mankind.

Some men possess the mental power to forge shead, to sweep and obstacles, and to attain positions of honor and trust. Others flatter around them, humbly accepting the crumbs that are tossed their way.

Be a human light, and let other emulate the insects.

You will go far and accomplish much.

King ful fived three thousand years ago.

He has been dead a long time, long enough for the present generation to become morbidly curious and descerate his last resting place in the name of archaeology. They wan, his ancient body.

Some day you will die, and your remains will be laid away, and perhaps three thousand years hence our more talightened descendants will be digging my your bones or ashes and wondering how many sins you possessed.

But the session has begun andict jealousy and bickering, and the outlook is not bright. Each group is attempting to supplant the other groups and grab off the plums. That isn't the purpose for which we must expect and which we must accept—until the political graves are filled.

Since we can never agree upon any subject ourselves we can hardy expect congress to improve upon the example we set before it.

LET THE PEOPLE SPEAK

Political leaders are guitshoeing around in an effort to determine who they want for president to succeed. Mr. Coolidge, Apparently they want to supply motive power that propels the popular band wagon.

Through long and honored custom it seems to be the prerogative of the leaders to select the proper candidate, and the exalted privilege of the voters to-shumbly a vallow, the selection thus made.

Now is the time to apply that realization.

Omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries."

Julius Caesar.

Modern writers speak of this "tide in the affairs of men" as the psychological moment. Anything attempted is sure to succeed: That which is attempted at any other moment is likely to fall.

Sofether spoke of the "tide" as a time or season—"To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven." No man would plant postatoes in frozen ground and expect them to grow, for winter is not the season for planting pointoes. It is just as honeless to start a venture at the wrong season as to plant postatoes at the wrong time.

Our inventious show the importance of the "tide in the affairs of men"—whether we call it that or the psychological moment or the right time. It has often been pointed out that the people of antiquity knew the petholipo of the printing press decime they stamped coins with a die. There was no need of a printing press during the time when the only material men had for writige on was parchment or vellum or pupyrus. When the discovery of a way of unknik psuper afforded the psychological moment, the printiples of the pairly with sireraft. Leonardo is said to have known the principles of the aliplane four centuries ago; but he did not hother building aircraft hecause there was no development of commerce and industry sufficient to make his century the psychological time for such an invention.

The martyrs to science and to region were those who attempted to popularize heliefs for which the psychological moment than do it with creating the psychological moment what no means of knowing. Commerce was no development of one with creating the psychological moment we have no means of knowing.

Grandly, e must seek as achieve fortune not so much because he cannot recognize the "tide in the affairs of men" as because he Is not ready to take advantage of R.

Every twenty years or less we have a financial depression in our country, a financial depression in our country, burdly this depression stocks and bonds and property usually sell for a fraction of their real value, and the ann who has savings has his opportunity to humch forth on the tide that will carry him to fortune. As the Socich express it, however, "When it rains portidge, one seldem has a spoon."

North Carolina's Example. If you could transport a few of your skeptical citizens or chronic objectors to the State of North Carolina to see what has been accomplished in that State by their building of their highways all at one time instead of stringing the work out, the State of Kentucky bond issue would long since have been passed and the roads finished.

In 1915, with poor roads, North Carolins had 14,815 automobiles. On July 1, 1923, after her roads were roun, "240, she had 29,400 over fourteen times as many—and the largest number of any State in the South except Texas. In Kentucky this increased auto tax with your gas tax would take care of your bond issue.

The Dixie Highway crosses the two great National Highways north of Cincinnati and the Atlantic-Pacific Highway, which will be completed next year, passes through the city. Cincinnati will spend large sums of money to bring traffic down to Kentucky where you have attractions we have not and I know if several very large advertising contracts, which will be placed when your high ways are in good condition.

"Hick People."

Some farm organizations are protesting against caricarturing the farmer. They object to having him represented as a bushy whiskered fellow of the "Reuben" type. They claim the modern farmer is a very different looking fellow. pares favorably with any other business men.

There are "hick" people every-where. You and a lot of them in big-liles, who lool: just as uncouth as any products of the remotest village. Many successful business and professional men are careless about their appearance. The "hick" type may properly be caricatured wherever it is found, but the impressionabould not be given that the farming element has any undue proportion of it.

PROMPT RELIEF.

Director Hines of the veterans' bureau, urges his subordinates to find a way to render relief rather than to block or delay it," in dealing with the cases of veterans.

In a private business it is usually possible to get prompt action, as it is realized that delay may do more harm to a concern's reputrion tha a mistake. In public work official are often inclined to avoid responsibility by "passing the buck."

The veteran who offered his life to the country and has sustained injuries, should have the most immediate and generous help. If he has few friends, and runs up against government delays, he may give up trying to get the attention he ought to have. Such a result would put the country in the light of failing to fulfill its most scarced obligation.

WHERE IS THE "WATERED" STOCK?

The Interstate Commerce Comimssion, pursuant to aw, partly designed by the sponsors thereof to determine the amount of 'water' in railroad stocks, is now valueing the railroad properties. The author of the bill asserted the work could be done at a cost not to exceed $2,405,000. The Commission has been engaged in this work about ten years and the expenditure so far has agpregated approximately $3.4,000.000 if which about seventy-two per cent was paid by the railroads, the difference being borne by the Governsount. The tomatission so far has aumounced tentative valuations for herry eight of the American Railference being borne by the Governcont. The tommission so far has aumounced tentative valuations for hirty eight of the American Railcoad systems which comprise a littlecoat than one-third of the railroad not "catered" but that they are substrictively solidified.

The truth is, most American railroad stocks have always been singularly free from "water" as to the few instances in which stocks were watered the "water" has be en aqueezed-thoroughly out by repeated reorganizations and by expenditures for improvements which have ictually raised the property values bove the amount of the outstanding securities. As a matter of fact, the Interstate Commerce Commission's own reports conclusively demonstrate this. The tentative valuation of the railways as found by the Commission in the advance rate case of 1920 was $18,900,000,000; the total net capitalization of the railways on December 31, 1920, reported by the same Commission, was $17,413,978,374.

It is reported, therefore, that as Government Body.

It is reported, therefore, that Government Body which represents the public and whose official acts can certainly be relied upon to be as favorable to the public as is lawfully permissible, has shown that the values of the properties of the railroad in 1020 exceeded their net capitaliz ation by approximately ONE ANU ONE-HALF BILLION TOLLARS.

There was an interesting incident the other day at Thomas A. Edison's when 'dep' Bisbee, of Paris, Michigan, played for plonograph, instruments many of the old airs which in has for 50 years played at dances at Michigan villages.

No doubt he was a clever artist at that type of music, and he represents a very interesting type of people who have provided dance music for country towns for many year. They have given no end of happiness to the people, and the money they received for their efforts was only an incident to them. They have carried the spirit of jollity wherever they went. When the fiddlers two out-their sollowing, and great capers and pigeon wings were executed.

The old time fiddlers have been a simple hearted type of men, who cared not for pretentious things, but have just poured out their souls in their jolly old music, one of the fiddlers was once trying to buy a pano. They showed him instrument, with fine and expensive cases, but the old musician was not impressed with the tone thereof.

"I don't care a bit what kind of case it has," he remarked, "what want is to have a good tone. I don't care a bit what kind of case it has," he remarked, "what is to have a good tone. I don't care a bit what kind of case it has," he remarked, "what is to have a good tone. I don't care music for itself alone.

The favorite old jigs are not so much heard now. But there was a pure rollicking quality in these old airs that had its own charm, and seemed to radiate sunshine and good cheer. The Poultry and Corn Show given by farmers of Kenton and Boone counties at Florence on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, at which afolion in premiums were given away, was a grand success in every particular.

The show and exhibit was staged in the Parun Bureau building and it its claimed to have been one of the best ever pulled off in the county. The farmers were addressed by experts on various subjects relative to better farm methods.

On each day C. A. Menefee, official grader of the Burley Tobacco Glrawers Association gave a demonstration of tobacco grading. In addition to the educational exhibits of chickens and tobacco, there were apple and home economic exhibits.

Several motion picture films we expire and home economic exhibits.

Several motion picture films we expire and the evening meetings, among which was, "Farm Bureau Romance" and were greatly appreciated by all these present.

J. Holmes Martin head of the Poultry Department at the College of Agriculture addressed the farmers on "Recent Feeding and Trappent Experiments," Ralph Kenney, on "Root-rot Resistant of Tobacco," O. B. Jessesson "Co-operative Milk Marketing," and Harry Hartke on the propress of the "Kentucky Farn, Breau."

We failed to get a list of the winners on the different exhibits.

ESSAY BY KENTUCKY GIRL WINS IN GOOD ROADS COMPOSITION

Washington, D. C.—Miss Dorothy Louise Roberts, Harlan, Kentucky high school girl, is announced by the Highay Education Board as winner of the H. S. Firestone Four Years University Scholarship, occred for the best essay entered in the fourth annual good roads essay contest.

Daughter of a Mcthodist minister—wident in the heart of the Kentucky mountains, she becomes the recipient of one of the most coveted prize—s, and perhaps the largest single educational award occred in the United States. More than 150,000 high school students from all sections of the country sought the prize which high government official, a distinguished editor, and a learned churchman awarded to her. All essays were written on the subject "The Influence of Highway Transport Upon the Religious Life of My Community."

on the Religious Life of My Community."

Members of the reviewing committee that awarded the scholarship were the Secretary of War, John W. Weeks; Dr. Albert Shaw, New Yors City editor of the Review of Reviews; and Bishop William F. Anderson, Cincinnati, Ohio. They served at the request of the U. S. Commissioner of Education, Dr. John I. Tigert, and spent weeks realing the several cssays which previously had been chosen as the best from the respective states and territories frozi which they came.

Miss Roberts' essay had first been selected as the best from the state of Kentucky by the Ertension Department of the State University of Kentucky, which awrded her a gold medal as a token of Kentucky nonors. A similar procedure was followed in other states, where educational institutions cooperate with the Highway Education Board in the promotion of an annual competition among high school students.

She is the eldest daughter of Dr.

A survey of Harlan county shows of crty-seven churches, with thirty-six ordained and licensed preachers. Fix cepting four churches in the county seat, these are weak, struggling organizations, located principally in mining camps, served by untrained preachers. These men, most of whom could with difficulty pass the entrance examinations of a first-class high school, work at the mines or elsewhere throughout the week, having little leisure for study or preparation. Such leadership develops only religion of the cmotional, irresponsible type.

Los Angeles. — Phil S. Dodsor, commander of an American Legion post in South Pasadena, mayor of that city and an attorney in Los Atpeles, ran afoul of the courts recently when his legion activities caused him temporarily to forget a case. Dodson was to defend a client in Judge Reeves department of Superior Court, but the attorney did not appear, so an order went forth from the bench to bring him in. Two deputies haled the attorney into court, but the explained that he had been so interested in attending the American Legion convention in Sar Francisco that the case had slipped his mind. The court let him off without censure, but his friends have not permitted him to forget the in-3-2nt. Dodson is president, of 1 geles county council of the American Legion.

Van Wert, Ohio—For forty years there have been no burials in a little neglected cemetery just west of Van Wert, but the local post of the American Legion, by permission of the county commissioners, will convert the burial place into a memorial park for veterans of all U. S. wars. None of the 200 bodies interred there will be removed, but the tract will be replotted, and uniform markers placed instead of the oll, fallen tombstones. At a later time it is pramed to erect memorial buillings to house records and relies of the nation's wars. Co-operation of several other organizations hase been acorded the legion men, one organization promising care for replanting of trees and shrubbery. The park is in a commanding position, and may be seen by practically every tourist who enters the city.

Just where is the mortgaging of future revenues by the State High way Commission to stop?

The Commission is now tabulating bids opened this week for road construction contracts for which would be what the road funds up to 1926. And this notwithstanding that all of a revenues of 1824 and a large part of those for 1925 havealready been tied up by the Commission.

Estimating this year's revenue at $8,000,000, this instructive table has been compiled at Frankfort:

Oil contracts. ... $5,000,000 the seed of a $1922 warrants. ... 1,300,000 the seed of a $1923 contracts. ... 7,500,000 the seed of a $1922 warrants. ... 1,300,000 the seed of a $1922 warrants. ...

The only other appointment of importance by President Coolidge was that of C. Bascom Slemp to be Private Secretary to the President. Mr. Slemp was not exactly a "Lame Duck" but he was beginning to limp; he saved himself technically from the "Lame Duck" class by refusing to run for re-election to Congress in 1922 when his defeat was certain, as shown by the election of a Democrat in his District (9th Virglnia) by nearly 3,000 majority. He may at least be classified as a brewet "Lame Dck."
All three of these appointments drew criticism from the press as having been made for purely pecsonal political purposes and not for the good of the public servee.

accustomed joy rides, weather permitting.

Numerous forms of diversion will be resorted to in osder to pass away the time.

There will be family reunions, and feasting, and renewing of acquaintances, and discussions on the topies of the day.

And some—we hope many—will wend their way to their respective places of worship and reverently listen to the minister tell the story of the Perfect Man, the Man of Men.

The world has produced many men of greatness who enjoy enviable space in history. It has produced but one man knose personality and whose deeds elevate him above all men of all ages, of all races and of all time, whose praises have been sung since the Star of Bethlehem beckoned the wise men of the east.

Christmas Thoughts F HUMAN NATURE is the combination of self-seeking, ambition and greed which some materialistic philosophers assert it is; if life is a contest in which all finer sentiments are subordinated to self-advancement and success at any price, how is it that the spirit of Christmas has not only endured but grown in power during nearly 2,000 years? If the pessimists are right, it would seem that the light would have been extinguished long since and with it the spirit would have departed. Were history and our daily lives not replete with evidences—noble evidences too—of the unselfishness in men's hearts, we might be impressed with the teachings of the sordid and the carpings of the morbid. Christmas is the symbol and a celebration of love—love which is synonymous with charity and which our purest teaching tells us is the finest attribute of the soui. We, who during the past few weeks have watched the Vieltide preparations, are prepared to say that they represent a beautiful manifestation of that attribute. We have noted the working girl taking home at night her parcels; contributions wrung from the dole of her necessities, in order that she may testify to her love and bring a measure of cheer to some child, some relative, some friend. Tired from her daily toil mayhap, but in her eyes that something which transcends all fatigue; transcends, in fact, everything else in the world and comparable only to that which shone from a mother's eyes upon the Babe in Bethlemen. Friends, in the face of these and so many other manifestations which we are all witnessing during this season, what right has one of us to say that the Light of the World grows dimmer? Our hearts tell us there is no dimming. Let us be thankful for the extra radiance of Christmas.—Let us seek to carry it into our daily lives. Our wish is, that this occasion, at least, will help all of us to forget our tribulations and sorrows, our complaints and animosities, and that it will be to all a day of cheer and everything which Yule-tide typidies

Our store people are almost always courteous and obliging. However, it is well to remember that eming the past two weeks before Christmas, they will have much extrawork to do. If a salesperson is expected to wait on half a dozen people at once, the clerk naturally getspretty tired and nervous. If in addition to that, customers show temperand find fault, it is hardly human

People who postpone their Christmas purchases until the last two

WOMEN AS MINISTERS

WOMEN S. MINISTERS

The opinion was recently expressed by a leading authority of the M.
E. church, that women preachers will in time fill the majority of pulpits in the rural districts. Such a development would astonish some of the old timers who felt that women should keep silepce in public places. But with women proving effective as political campaigners, there seems no reason why they should not also hold the attention of church congregations.

linis.

It might be objected that a woman preacher would not draw men. But perhaps the sight of a piesaing woman face in the pulpit might win some of the lighter minds of the male sex. Anyway, considering the preent cost of living, any rural churches have either got to raise their salaries, or 'bey will drive men with families out of their pulpits.

FARM MEETINGS.

The winter is a time when in most localities chances are offered the farmers to attend demonstrations and lectures on modern agricultural methods. Farmers may be so busy risummer that they can't take advantage of such opportunities. But if there are such chances given this winter in their own neighborhood, they should take every possible pains to avail themselves of the same.

Agriculture is not an art that is fixed and remains just the same year after year. It is developing as timegoes on. It is not merely a question of plant growth and harvesting, but a great business problem also. Much of the farmer's winter time ought to go to studying how he can take advantage of the latest ideas, both in handling crops and stock, and managing the breness end of the proposition.

THE KENTUCKY FARM BUREAU.

Organization is as necessary to human progress as the herd, the flock, or the drove is to the domestication of the lower animals. For-some unknown reason men learn this lesson in the city more quickly than in the country.

The American Farm Bureau Federation is today the strongest and most respected of all agricultural organizations, because it has the entire confidence and backing of the Federal Government itself. The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation is part and parcel of the national body. Their representatives are known among Kentucky farmers for order and system in their business dealings with the rest of the world. First of all, it represents organization and co-operation.

There are a great many different opinions as in the value of co-operation.

There are a great many different opinions as it of the value of co-operative marketing associations. Aaron Sapiro, dage Robert Worth Bingham and the seencies they have been instrumental in setting to work, represent one opinion, and to our mind a very practical one. Doctor Carver, of Harvard, and men of equal intelligence, represent an opposite view, and there are other opinions between. Whatever may be thought as to the merits of these two views, the Farm Bureau Federation is backing the one that works.

Organization, of course, is neverthing, but it is the first set servants of American house-ing the one that works.

Organization makes it easier for those organization makes it easier for those organization makes it easier for those organization makes, to deal with them. In the opinion of the Farmers Home Journal, it would be better for the farmers of Kentucky if every other farm organization in this State could and would work in harmony with the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

Tet it is an astounding fact that with over 270,000 farmers in the narmony with the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

Yet it is an astounding fact that with over 270,000 farmers in the Commonwealth, less than 10 per cent of them are members of the Farm Bureau Federation. This speaks loudly for the strength and character of the movement, because there is no getting away from the fact that neither the tobacco pools nor anything else worth while to agriculture as a whole in Kentucky, would have been possible but for the self-sacrificing work of the Farm Bureau. Without its aid, other agricultural agencies can do very little, but it needs greater organization and larger membership.

But are not over 100 years old. But are not over 100 years old. But the control of the distribution of the distribution of the distribution. Their use was at its beight in England under—the Tudor kings, who occupied the throne from 1485 to 1603, and some no doubt are still older.

Songs like these that have lasted so many years must have a touch of musical genius about them, that has appealed to the hearts of all kinds of people through the changing ages. They carry a haunting message, with touches of both merriment and pathos. Many noble thoughts are expressed in thiir quaint words, and they teach lessons that would bring peace to a warring world and troubleted souls.

Few people seem to know that a few hours spent in reading each day will gain for them polish, knowledge and a general education that will cause them much pleasure as well as profit throughout life. The failure to read and study upon the part of either parent in the homes does much to deaden influence of that member of the family for good and progress over the children of that fireside. Those who do not read are usually slow thinkers and do not keep in touch with the progress of the world beside losing the pleasure to be gained from reading good literature and of making themselves versatile and agreeable companions. Every boy and girl hould form a habit of reading and pursue a course that will broaden their minds and develop their intellects that they may not become dead ones and fade at thirty.

B B. Hume, agent for Hudson and Essex cars, says that the new Essex is one of the best if not the best automobile selling for $1,000. This car is built along the same principles as the Hudson and is constructed of the best materials. The New Essex is a six-cylinder automobile, 110-inch wheel base, with longer springs, which makes it a cry easy rider. There is also more room in this new car than in the older four cylinder, which has been discontinued. The Coach is a finely finished car and looks like it would sell in the $1,500 class.

Franciers and induttrial leaders are repeated; assuring us that 1924 is to be a prosperous year.

What's the matter with 1923, that we must be holstered up with such all or prophesies?

ned off of the people's taxes during the coming year.

That sounds like a very big sum of money. To people who do not think it will seem like a tremendous relief to them personally.

But let's consider the faits.

Roughly speaking, there are one hundred millions of people in the United States. At a dollar a head that would mean $3 a year for each person. Averaging five persons to each family, it would mean a saving of $15 to each family, if all people were on a par in the matter of wealth.

But when John Smith has $10,000 worth of property and Sam Jones has $1,000,000 worth, it acords a substantial relief to the man of wealth and practicelly nothing to the poorer man, even on the proposed shifting scale of reduction.

Then again, the Mellen scheme, which is the one advocated by big business and men of swollen income, would wine out about fifty per cent of the income tax. That tax is paid principally by men of large incomes, who do not need the relief that would be handed to then.

Vo not let big business delude you into the behief that the Mellen scheme of tax reduction is any great relief to the man of $10,000 or under.

It is natural for a child to be a saver.

It is natural for a child to be a saver. It should be taught to be a saver. Character and inclinations are formed in youth. If not lestroyed or corrected they remain into old age.

THE OLD CODGER AND THE

THE OLD CODGER AND THE CHILDREN.

If there is any hard-crüsted old codger who intends to cut down expenses this year by depriving children of the loys of Christman, let them think twice.

Possibly it is true that there is a depression here and there in spots in this mighty country.

But it is not true, and never will be true, that it is necessary to sacrifice Christman pleasures merely because a rich nation does not know enough to provide stuncy enough for its needs.

In the deliberate opinion of mankin, one most monstrous fiend is he who robs a child of happiness. There is something so diabolical in such a crime that t stands beyond the pale of ordinary atrocity.

When one thinks of the light of a child's eyes driven out by the disappointment that is keener than sorrow; when one returns to childhood and shares in the unuterable woe of those who are forgotten at Christomas-time, there is a surge of passion at anger against the man who could thus blot out the sun of childhood's sky.

MEANING OF THE CHRISTMAS TREE

Most of the quaint old customs handed down from previous generations, had originally a very pretty meaning. So it is in regard to our Christmas tree. Most parents would say that they provide a tree merely because it is pretty and pleases the children, but it originally hal more meaning than that.

The early Christians took over many features of the ancient pegan feativals to make their observances pleasing. Christmas drew many customs from the Yule feativals, when the ancient Germáns and other people celebrated the time when the sun turns northward and the hope of, springtime returns. The evergreen decorations in those days probably expressed the desire for the return of vegetation and the period of life and growth.

HOW TO PREVENT BOWLEGS

AND KNOCKKNEES

By Dr. Juanita McF. Jenning.
Assistant Director Bureau of Child Hygiene, State Board of Health, of Louisville:
Knock-knees and bowlegs in children are the result of a disease known as rickets. It is estimated that 80 per cent of the infants of today saffer from this disease which affects the growth and development of the child. Usually ricketts appears between the ages of one and two years. If a child is fortunate enough to pass this period safely there is but little danger of developing the disease. After ricketts has once developed the indications will remain through life.

There are many indications of ricketts but the three signs which any mother can detect are:

1st. Restlessness and nervousness in the child attended with disturbed sleep and increased perspiration, eapecially of the head.

2nd. A relaxation of the abdominal muscles producing a portuding abdomen commonly known as "potbelly."

3rd. A softening of the bones due to decreased lime salts. In the long bones of the legs there may be a bending inward producing knockknees or a bending outward produing bowlegs. There is a flattening of the chest walls with the protruding of the breast bone giving to the chest the apnearance of a "pigeonchest," or "funnel chest."

The tendency of lush prosperity is to run to ridiculous excess in the luxury of childish glits. There is no sense in such expenditures. Children are happier with simpler things.

If there is any man at this season who is alone, with unhappy memories behind him, and a gloomy outlook ahead, let him go out and buy some of the inexpensive but marvel. Let him hoard them until Christman eve; let him seek out children, the him light up the whole sky, from horizon to zenith, with glorious flashing, radiana, rosy happiness for all concerned, by bringing down a spark of divine love and kindling childhood's heart.

Then let him go home and seewhether his future is a black as his future is and sold, and he will fall asleep to the tinkle of children's laughter, soundish soft
The child health conferences, ca-tablished in many counties of the State, have been the means of find-ing crippled children before they have become permanently disabled. If you know of a crippled child in your community, have his mother take him to a child health confer-ence and help him become a normal child instead of a crippled child.

Quicker Than Corn

Tuxedo Hog Ration, fed in a self feeder with corn, will put weight on your hogs quicker, and more economically, than will corn alone.

THE TUXEDO

Corn is fattening. But a hog has got to produce bone and muscle along with the fat, or he won't grow as fast as he should.

Tuxedo Hog Ration contains those food elements which corn lacks, and which the hog needs.

Tracing the growth and develonment of the co-operative marketing movement in the United States, Lloyd S. Tenny, assistant chief of the United States Bureau of Agriculture Economics reports that in 1915 there were 5,400 members in the National Marketing Association. Today there are about 10,000. Reports from 6,500 local associations show a total business of more than $1,500,000,000 or three times that done before the war.

CHRISTMAS--1923.

It is not so long ago, in this land of the free and the home of the brave, that Christmas was looked up-on to some extent as a sort of sacril-igious featival, and the children of our Puritan forefathers never knew that the birthday of the Savior was a day of joy and praise and glory to God.

a day of Joy and praise and glory to God.

The yearss drop off one by one; nations and rulers come and go much as the seasons do. Revolutions with their wholesome blood-letting, wasteful and gory, come and go. The world may atand on its head for an hour or two, but it soon reaumes its feet and its balance and its business of being born, growing up, marrying having rolldren, growing up, marrying having rolldren, growing up, marrying having rolldren, growing up, marrying having the results of the following radical of today will be the middle-age; moderates of the next dieade and ihe prompous conservatives of the next generations who will look back upon history much as we look back upon the bigoted rule of Cotton Mather who burned women for witcheraft and ordered that William Penn and his crew of heritics be intercepted before landing on our shores, and "sold into slavery in the Barbadoes in exchange for rum, that much good come to yecuse of ye Lord."

The war is over. Of the world set free and the New Day, alas there is but little-trace. After all the-tempeats, earthquakes, tidal waves and wars—the world rolls on about its business, just as it did in the days of Abraham and Moses.

The planct earth is but a miscroscopal spec of dirt, several thousand times smaller than the point of a cambric needle, when measured by the yardstick of our sun's firament—and we, the people, are infinitismal atoms of the floor of that earth.

N. W. Ayer and Son, advertising

N. W. Ayer and Son, advertising agents, have told in an alvertisement in Printer's Ink what they did for a firm that sells chicks to poultry raisers. They undertook an advertising campaign for this concern, suggested a distinctive name and rademark, and offered coursel on reeding, marketing, etc.

The result was that sales were nearly doubled, at one half the cost peraguity of any previous year.

You could go through the records of a multitude of firms, and show that when they took up a consistent campaign of advertising, they got greatly increased results.

Some of the gains made in the case quoted above were no doubt lue to using improved methods. Yet, mpto-ed methods alone may not sell a product satisfactorily. The public any not know that methods have seen improved until the concern tells about them in a public way.

Avenue Advances Are Re ceived by Growers at Local Warehouses.

On the request of many growers of Burley tobacco over the entire Burley District, the executive committe of the Burley District, the recentive American State of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, after considering the matter practically the entire day, last night ordered the books of the Association reopened for new members until January 2nd, 1924, the date of the next meeting of the board of directors.

The order goes into effect immediately and this will give to those growers who have not yet been converted to the theory of group selling of their tobacco an opportunity to secure the services f a trained salesman to sell their 1923 crops through the Association.

It was declared to be probable that thousands of growers engaged in the production of Burley tobacco who have not yet open on the light of the production of Burley tobacco who

President James C. Stone said in explanation of the action taken by the exceutive committee that the reopening of th books at the request of the growers is "a measure in the interest of the tobacco growing industry." He declared that the Association now will welcome those who have remained outside so far but who have tended that the Association is "based on right and justice and that they desire 70 of their part in helping to stabilize the industry (... chich probably more than 100,-000 farmers are now engaged." Resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the Wilmore local of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association Wednesday night, approving the administration of the agains of the co-operative, declaring that the officials should not be influenced in the prices they intend to ask for the pooled tobacco by the "low prices being paid on the auction markets," and in favor of "holding all the remainder of the 1922 crop and all of the 1923 crop of a satisfactory price—a price giving us a reasonance profit overseth coat of production."

POOL AVERAGE HIGH THIS YEAR.

About three hundred thousand pounds of tobacco were delivered to the Lexington receiving plants of the Burley TobaccoGrowers' Co-operative Association Wednesday. Den finite figures were not obtainable because of the fact that they had not been tabulated when the offices closed for the day. Some average advances, however, were considerably higher than last year, it was said, and in almost every case the advance was more than last year.

Satisfied growers, in a number of cases, gave expression to their gratitude with the new system. Lester Etherington, of Woddford county, who raised a crop on the farm of W.

E. Simms, said:

NEW ADMINISTRATION

(By Observer, Suhday's Enquirer)

(By Observer, Suhlary's Enquirer)
Danville, Ky. — The administration of Kentucky affairs has passed into the hands of a Democratic Governor, William J. Fields, and three now looms upon the horizon the corning season of the Kentucky Legis. Lature, which will convene in the carly days of January, to consider the laws of Kentucky, to amend present ones and place new measures upon the statute books.

One hundred Representatives and $38 Senators, coming from districts in the statute books.

One hundred Representatives and from the fill the statute should be decided."

Former Governor Edwin P. Morrow did not linger long in Kentucky after relinquishing the duties of the fill the statute books.

One hundred Representatives and from the sett that range from where Western Kentucky looks across the hills to Missouri, to where the developer of the eastern section claims the Virginias as neighbors, and from bounds to where the Tennessee line is the southern division, are turning over in their minds the changes they believe to be for the good of Kentucky.

The troubles of the State Highway Commission, which arose chiefly worm in.

he accepted as embodying the following points:
Fidelity to public duty by public officials, with the observation "the official who serves his state and country best, serves his party best."
Advancement of the state's educational system to the extent that illiteracy may be eliminated and educational opportunities given equal to other states.
Construction of an adequate system of public roads under efficient and economical methods.
A nore adequate system of taxation, plaxing the burdens of taxation equally upon the wealth of the state.
Economical administration on the afairs of the state.
Development of natural resources to contribute to the prosperity of the state.

Along with the Governor's declaration of party principles a call has been sounded by leading Democrats for a program that looks to a bond issue of party 175,000,000 instead of $50,000,000 road bond issue that has been advocated.

sue that has been advocated.

The plan as sketched first in a letter from John M. Atherton, a veteran Democrat, of Louisville, and one of the best minds of the party. Mr. Atherton has reached a venerable age and is far removed from thought of office or self advanctment of any kind, hence his advice is al-ways accepted as being thoroughly sincere.

sincere. The plan in substance, is that Kentucky issue bonds to the extent of $75,000,000, which is held to the moderate for a state with three billions in wealth and little debt. This money would be expended $50,000,000 for the four normal schools, 3,000,000 for the four normal schools, 3,000,000 for new prison plants to replace the present, which are held to be in-adequace; $5,000,000 for paying the floating debt and $1,000,000 for normal industrial schools for negroes.

"I believe we have at Lexington the nucleus of a great university. The President and faculty are equal to any in the nation, in my opinion. But it takes more than a President and a faculty to make a university nowadays. I will strongly favor, any measure whichshall increase the appropriation of the University of Kentucky. A good approprition would place the university in shape for the next two years. By that time the bond issue would be decided."

The troubles of the State Highway Commission, which arose chiefly through the ale of surplus war material by the Roads Department, uncer Governor Morrow, will be carried over into Governor Pields' administation and not permitted to die with the outgoing body.

An investigation is to be made of the disposition of the supplies that were received from the Government:

The material was from the War believe to be for the good of Kentucky.

From these 138 legislators will come the flood of bills that will pour into the legislative hoppers, to be passed through the grindstones of the committees and to pass in final test through the legislative mill that is supposed to do the final work in separating the wheat from the chaff. Governor Fields in his inaugural address announced the principles on which the party carried to victory in the election. The Governor's address must be accepted as the party declaration of what it stands for, and it is the compass by which the legislative pilots must be expected to steer.

The yovernor devoted his brief inaugural address to nine major premises in the Democratic platform which leaders to nine major premises in the Democratic platform which leacepted as embodying the following points:

When an investigation of Kentucky's sales was made ast summer it was cisclosed that great quantities of the material had been sold to Colonel Louis P. Hymn, of Louisville, a Colonel on Governor Morrov's staff, without the formality of competitive bidding. Colonel Hyman and the load Department seemed to have hit upon prices that were satisfactory, and the sales were made to him without giving others a chance to get in. No occurate record was kept of these purchases, it was said and certain prices were low.
